400,000 MINERS OUT; AGREE ON A TRUCE TODAY

Parley Recesses to Seal Pact Later.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Settlement tomorrow of the wage dispute which today had 400,000 bituminous coal miners technically on strike was indicated tonight when mine owners and union leaders adjourned their negotiations.

Waiving a night session as unnecessary, the operators and officials of the United Mine Workers announced they would meet again in the morning evidently to seal an agreement which will end the strike. Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward McGrady, chief New Deal mediator, smiling happily, predicted that everything would be cleared up by tomorrow night. This means the strike will have lasted but two days.

New Deal Threat Credited.

The sudden collapse of a deadlock in negotiations which has persisted with varying intensity for weeks came shortly after the New Dealers had threatened to finance a prolonged coal mine strike as last year they backed the huge textile strike. McGrady sent word to Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins calling upon him to feed, clothe, and house the miners out on strike, thus putting government funds behind a walkout.

Although the terms of the tentative settlement were not immediately available, a difference of only 1½ cents per ton in the wage scale for piece miners separated the union bosses and the employers when negotiations were resumed this afternoon. The United Mine Workers were demanding 9 cents per ton for cutting and loading soft coal while the operators offered 7½ cents.

Believe They've Compromised.

Pending announcement of the settlement it was assumed these positions had been compromised.

A four and a half hour conference between nine mine owners and nine representatives of the mine workers produced the apparent agreement. Breaking up shortly before 7 o'clock, the negotiating committee announced through McGrady that so substantial was their agreement that no further meeting tonight was necessary.

McGrady added that "they are very friendly now" and that, although he was going to make a routine report to President Roosevelt, there was no longer any need for presidential intervention.

Hundreds of Thousands Idle.

While the negotiators labored this afternoon, reports from coal producing states from Pennsylvania to New Mexico indicated that hundreds of thousands of miners had remained away from the shafts today pursuant to a "strike" order from the United Mine Workers.

From Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana, and Illinois came reports that thousands of miners had walked out. Offices of the United Mine Workers claimed that the union's entire membership, supposedly 400,000, had remained away from work. Maintenance crews, however, were ordered by the union to keep the mines free from water.

No disorders were reported in any coal fields, in marked contrast to previous coal strikes.

Negotiations were resumed this afternoon after McGrady had reported at the White House this morning without seeing President Roosevelt himself.

SEE PEACE IN ILLINOIS

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Optimism was expressed tonight, at the end of a peaceful first day of the soft coal strike in Illinois, that the nation-wide walkout called by the United Mine Workers of America would be of short duration.

Informed that Washington conferees on the subject were only a few cents apart on wage demands, both employers and miners in various sections of the state expressed belief the strike would be in effect only a short time.

Fern Evett, president of the U. M. W. of A. subdistrict in Franklin county, the largest coal producing county in the nation, said he expected a settlement would be reached tomorrow or sooner.

Business men in some quarters welcomed the strike as a "showdown." They said miners have been

CARDINALS LOSE, 12-0; TRAIL CUBS BY 3½ GAMES

The Pittsburgh Pirates hammered out a 12 to 0 victory over the Cardinals at St. Louis yesterday, shoving the Cards half a game further back in the pennant race. They now trail the first place Cubs by 3½ games. The Cubs, by winning two games of the five game series that starts at St. Louis tomorrow, can clinch the pennant, even though the Cardinals beat the Pirates today.

LOUIS MEETS BAER TONIGHT BEFORE 90,000

Huge Crowd Gathers in New York.

BY ARCH WARD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 23.—Tomorrow night may be your night with somebody else, but it is Joe Louis' night with Max Baer.

They are scheduled to fight 15 rounds or less at Yankee stadium before one of the largest crowds in the history of boxing. There is every indication it will be the biggest nontitle fight of all time. The fight is scheduled to start at 9 p. m., Chicago time.

Officials of the Twentieth Century club, which is promoting the match, estimate that 90,000 customers representing a cash outlay of $1,100,000 will be banked around the ring.

Those rather staggering figures mean that a young colored man of 21, only 15 months out of Chicago's Golden Glove ranks, and a gay young blade from California who once held the heavyweight championship of the world but who in his last appearance fought with all the power, animation and technique of a wet bale of hay, will do what nobody thought possible since the death of Tex Rickard and since Jack Dempsey laid aside his gloves. They will draw a million dollar gate.

This Is THE Fight.

Fans expect one of the most savagely fought heavyweight bouts in years. Both are punchers and neither up to this time has succumbed to the insidious charm of resin dust. Neither has even been knocked off his feet as a professional fighter. The battle has this in its favor. The contestants are in full bloom of youth. So many of these widely ballyhooed duels have brought out a doddering old gent against an up and coming youngster.

After payment of taxes the first 10 per cent of the receipts will be donated to the New York milk fund, after which Louis and Baer each collect 30 per cent. It is estimated that their share will amount to $250,000 apiece.

The show is certain to attract the sixth richest gate boxing has produced and it may place fifth. The Dempsey-Sharkey bout, held in New York on July 21, 1927, drew $1,083,530. The Schmeling-Sharkey match, which now ranks as the sixth biggest gate, pulled $748,935. The advance sale for tomorrow night's bout already has passed that mark.

1,100 Press Applications.

The fight has created such widespread interest that the winner is almost certain to be regarded as the world's greatest fighter. Many will feel that victory over the reigning monarch, James J. Braddock, is simply a matter of formality. The conqueror in most of the nationally interesting fights has emerged as a militant mixture of Alexander, Napoleon, and Ivan the Terrible.

This is quite a garish reputation to acquire—to say nothing of the fancy revenue that comes with it—simply for outstepping or outsmacking a 200 pounder because his native enthusiasm for the simpler forms of manual labor palled on him.

Newspapers and press associations from all over the world are sending staf representatives to cover the battle. In this connection the fight is the biggest in history. More than 1,100 applications for working press accommodations were filed with Walter St. Dennis, chief of the Twentieth Century club's publicity bureau. From far away China, Japan, and South America come the war correspondents. Canada, England, and France will be represented, as well as almost every important city in the United States.

The Mobs Arrive.

Twenty-one special trains were pouring fans into New York today from remote points. One train came from San Francisco. Three were from Chicago and more from Washington, Pittsburgh, and Detroit. Governors of several states, members of the President's cabinet, mayors, senators, lawyers, doctors, bankers, stars of the stage and screen, all will be quartered in ringside sections before the principals enter the ring.

The main bout is scheduled to go on at 10 o'clock, New York daylight saving time, but Promoter Mike Jacobs reserves the right to move it up

CHILD REFUSES TO SALUTE FLAG; SCHOOL TO ACT

Lynn, Mass., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Threats of suspension and court action were made today by Lynn school officials unless an 8 year old student agreed to salute the American flag by Friday.

Carlton Nichols Jr. refused to salute the Stars and Stripes last week, his teacher reported to School Principal William F. Pashby.

Pashby, in a letter to the youngster's father, said the boy would be suspended Friday if he persisted in his refusal. Young Nichols objected to saluting the flag on religious grounds and was backed up by his father.

City Solicitor Patrick F. Shannahan said he could find no law on the statute books compelling a student to pledge allegiance to the flag or to sing the national anthem.

Nichols is a member of Jehovah's Witnesses, a religious sect, and maintained the flag was the emblem of man made government. All things, he contended, that were man made were controled by the devil.

AND THIS LITTLE LADY WENT FOR A LONG, LONG RIDE

Little Katherine McEvoy, 4 years old, 1516 Rosemont avenue, was sitting in a doorway at Diversey and Kedzie avenues, a tired and dejected little figure yesterday afternoon when policemen from the Shakespeare avenue district found her and took her to the station. Katherine couldn't remember her last name or her address, and it was not until evening that she was found by her mother, Mrs. Patrick McEvoy, who had been searching frantically for her. Katherine had pushed her doll carriage about five miles, across busy intersections, and through heavy trafic.

Eight Cows Go on Spree from Alcoholic Corn

Dalhart, Tex., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Eight cows which went on a whale of a spree had such "hangovers" today that treatment was required. Called to attend the wobbling bovines, Dr. R. M. Olbeter, veterinarian, found they had fed in a field of stunted corn. He said the peculiar growth and weather conditions had loaded the ears with alcoholic elements.

Frosh Brings Own Bed; Long Story Behind It

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Sept. 23.—(AP)—A Niagara university freshman arrived bringing his own bed. There's a reason. He is 6 feet 9 inches tall. The 18 year old lad is Eugene B. Seymour of Batavia, Ill. He weighs 250 pounds.

One of Cicero Police Chiefs Goes A.W.O.L.

Possession is nine points out of ten and Theodore Svoboda is first string chief of police of Cicero. He has been fired, but he won't get out. Lieut. Frank Machacek is the second string chief. He has been appointed to the job, but can't get hold of it.

Yesterday chief No. 1 took a squad and went hunting for chief No. 2, who reported that he was ill on the day Mayor Joseph G. Cerny gave him his appointment. He has not shown up for duty since.

The search was made at the request of the wife of the second string chief.

Mrs. Machacek Asks Help.

"Please send a squad over to protect me from my husband," she requested the desk sergeant at the Cicero police station. "He is frightening me."

When Chief Svoboda arrived at Chief Machacek's domicile he discovered that the second stringer was not there.

"He has been on a spree ever since he was appointed," declared Mrs. Machacek. "I was keeping him locked in the house so he would get over his spree, but just before you came he jumped out a back window and ran away."

Chief Svoboda decided he didn't have time to search any further for a rival chief. So he went back to the station and announced he would charge Chief Machacek with conduct unbecoming a police officer.

Council to Hear Charges.

Mayor Cerny insisted yesterday that his appointee is ill. He has called a meeting of the town council, to be held Friday, at which he said he would present charges against Chief Svoboda. The first string chief, who has the backing of five of the seven council members, said he wasn't a bit worried.

"The mayor," said Chief Svoboda, "says I am letting the old Capone gang come in and run gambling. That's a laugh. I have been trying to close all the gambling joints and make the taverns shut their doors at the proper hours. But the mayor tells the gamblers to go ahead and what can I do?

"And now I have to worry about finding my rival, Machacek, for Mrs. Machacek."

CHAS. BICKFORD OF FILMS BITTEN BY TRICKY LION

After receiving emergency treatment he was taken to the Hollywood hospital.

Studio employés said the lion jumped a few seconds before he was supposed to, catching Bickford unawares. The lion had been trained to jump over Bickford's head, but instead the 400-pound beast struck the actor squarely and sank its teeth in his neck.

RAILWAY STATION ROBBER SUSPECT GIVES SELF UP

James Micelli, 29 years old, 756 DeKoven street, who has been sought as a robber suspect since the holdup of the Liggett drug store in the Chicago and North Western railroad station on July 28, surrendered at the Desplaines street police station last night. In the holdup one robber, Sam Manno, and an elevator operator, Haskell Daniels, were killed and Policeman James Frawley was wounded.

Micelli denied participating in the robbery and two witnesses who viewed him failed to make an identification. Others will look at him today at the detective bureau.

PANTHER FLEES CAGE; ROAMING IN NEW JERSEY

Livingston, N. J., Sept. 23.—(AP)—The state police wires carried reports that a panther escaped from his cage while being transported across the state and was prowling at large somewhere near here.

The panther's owner, whose name was not given, was taking the animal from some point in Delaware to a zoo in New York, the report said.

Farmer Learns How Not to Buy Tires for Truck

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 23.—(AP)—While fixing a flat, Farmer Harold Crane told police, he gave two men $40 to buy new tires for his truck. They did not return. A second group approached and made a similar offer. Crane held the $40 aloft, asserting he would not release the money until they brought the tires. One of the men grabbed the money and fled.

Vice President of Chase Bank Leaps to Death

Houston, Tex., Sept. 23.—(AP)—A man identified by personal papers as James A. MacIlvaine, an official of the Chase National bank of New York, plunged to his death tonight from the tenth floor of a hotel here. Justice J. M. Ray returned a verdict of suicide.

MacIlvaine's wife in Caldwell, N. J., the family residence, said her husband had been traveling in Texas and that he telephoned her Sunday from Galveston. She said he had complained then of severe head pains. He was in ill health before his departure last month, she said.

Crowd Horrified by Plunge.

A horrified crowd of theatergoers saw the man drop, twisting and screaming, to the top of a motor car and then to the street. He died about fifteen minutes later.

In his personal effects was found a note addressed to "Helen," which is Mrs. MacIlvaine's first name. The unsigned note was written on the last pages of a diary bearing MacIlvaine's name and address.

Fears He Won't Die.

The note read as follows:

"Dear Helen: This is being written on a train to Houston. I love you, dear, and I am awfully sorry you took me. What a curse to you I am, but maybe the boys somehow can be saved. Poor dear Lydia and darling Aunt Lizzie. I will probably not die, worse luck for you. It will be in all the papers. I am tired and probably there is no need to write this, for you will come to see me. O, the boys, the boys; our affair was so muddled and you will be so poor."

In Houston Two Weeks.

New York, Sept. 23.—[Special.]—James A. MacIlvaine, second vice president of the Chase National bank in New York, had been in Houston for the last two weeks on a business trip, his wife, Mrs. Helen MacIlvaine, said tonight at their home in Caldwell, N. J.

Mrs. MacIlvaine said she and their two boys, James and Thad, had spoken with her husband by telephone Sunday morning. He said then that the pains in his head had become so severe he was considering returning to New York at once.

MacIlvaine had been connected with the Chase National bank for 25 years. He began as a teller and became assistant cashier. Two years ago he was promoted to second vice president.

SECRET 'STRATO' TESTS ARE MADE BY LINDBERGH

Roswell, N. M., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh studied in guarded secrecy today the strange apparatus and steel tower assembled by Dr. R. H. Goddard for piercing the mysteries of the stratosphere with rockets.

The flyer-scientist and his airplane passenger and friend, Harry F. Guggenheim, were believed surveying the Goddard experiments with a view to determining whether the Guggenheim family foundation would extend further financial assistance.

Large canvases hurriedly were thrown over the scientific instruments, on the cacti-studded tableland near here, at the approach of outsiders. Strangers were halted more than 200 yards from the 60 foot high rocket tower.

DUCE DISOWNS PEACE OFFER; JOLTS LEAGUE

British Seek to Pin Down Mussolini.

The Powder Barrel

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 23.—In danger of being pinned down to the obviously unacceptable terms for a settlement of Italy's conflict with Ethiopia, Premier Mussolini today hastily pulled back his nation's price for peace and left the league of nations holding a question mark instead of an answer.

The situation after twenty-four hours of some of the fastest diplomatic rapier work that Geneva has ever seen is as follows:

The Italian counter proposals—or rather the proposals submitted to the league by the Roman delegation—have now been officially classified as unofficial observations and, due to some particularly interesting work on the part of the Italian delegates, even these unofficial observations are being made more indefinite.

Must Interpret Communique.

Consequently, the league's committee of five [Great Britain, France, Poland, Spain, and Turkey] has only to work on the Ethiopian acceptance of the peace plan and the Italian communique of Saturday which the British will seek to have interpreted as a flat rejection.

The committee of five will meet at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning to draft its report to the council and the nature of this report will depend on how the Italian attitude is interpreted. If the British interpretation that it is a flat rejection of the league proposals is accepted, there is little the council can do except apply the procedure of article XV. of the league covenant.

[Article XV. provides that in case of a dispute likely to lead to war the council shall seek to effect a settlement.]

British Use Strategy.

In that case the council would have to proceed to draft a report of its own for the solution of the Ethiopian dispute probably by the end of the week, and if Italy went to war thereafter she would be in flagrant violation of the covenant and liable to economic or military penalties. Pending the beginning of military operations, the council and the assembly would adjourn ready to reassemble for consideration of penalties the moment fighting started.

Italian strategy is to avoid such a situation without seeming to back down from the stand publicly taken. In order to avoid an open rupture it was essential that the answer to the league's peace plan, which Mussolini made yesterday evidently only for home consumption, should not be considered as an official reply.

Would Draft Own Report.

British strategy is just the contrary. Their game is to put the Italians in a spot where they will have either to accept a solution they do not like or flatly turn it down, thus permitting the council to go ahead. The events of the last twenty-four hours illustrate this perfectly.

The Italian proposition communicated by Baron Pompeo Aloisi, Italy's chief delegate, to Salvador de Madariaga, chairman of the committee of five, yesterday was in the form of a telegram of instructions from Rome which the Italian delegate read and then elaborated upon verbally. Madariaga asked for a copy of the telegram, but Aloisi refused to give it to him. He would not even let Madariaga take shorthand notes of the conversation.

The story that Mussolini had rejected the league's plan for settling the conflict and had countered with a demand for a vast stretch of Ethiopian territory as his price for peace was released by the Italians to their press. The French then released it to their press, and thus the news was delivered to the world.

The British kept denying all night that there was any Italian answer, though they were perfectly familiar with it. This strange behavior had a sound strategic motive. By refusing to take Aloisi's verbal communication to Madariaga as a verbal answer the British put the Italians on a spot. Thus the British compelled the Italians either to confirm the published terms officially or leave the committee with nothing but Saturday's communique as an answer.

[On Saturday Mussolini issued a press communique in Rome, announcing that the league's peace offer was unacceptable, but apparently leaving the door open to future negotiations.]

Eden Forces the Issue.

This was the line taken by Capt. Anthony Eden, British minister for league affairs, at the committee meeting this morning. Madariaga was dispatched to ask Baron Aloisi whether his answer was official or not. Aloisi replied that the report drawn up by Madariaga was substantially correct, but was apparently evasive as to just how much was official.

On the strength of Madariaga's report, the British decided that the Italian reply was official. They laid plans for the committee to draft its report tomorrow, not only presenting two replies but commenting on the completely negative character of the Italian one.

This worried the Italians so much that two of their experts were rushed to the league building to collaborate with Madariaga in toning down the record of his conversation with Aloisi and making it more vague and less intransigent.

Claims It Was Unofficial.

The British countered by demanding publication of the document and the league secretariat first announced that it would be released some time during the evening.

When Aloisi heard this, he frantically telephoned the secretariat. He insisted that his conversation with Madariaga was unofficial and should not be published until the committee's final report was made.

This makes it possible for the Italians to keep hinting at concessions they might be willing to make without definitly committing themselves.

The British, it is understood, feel that while the Rome communique seemed capable of various interpretations Saturday, the completely negative nature of Aloisi's explanations eliminates all favorable interpretations. That is why it was so important for the Italians to tone down the record of Aloisi's interpretations.

How far they succeeded is hard to say, but it seems likely that even if the committee of five goes ahead and reports to the council it will be on such terms as to enable horse trading to continue behind the scenes.

BRITISH EXPLAIN STAND

ROME, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Premier Benito Mussolini and Sir Eric Drummond, the British ambassador, talked for almost an hour tonight, and informed Italian and British observers were quick to suggest the possibility of direct negotiations between the two nations to settle the Ethiopian problem at least in so far as it affects Europe.

Drummond, it was learned, presented Il Duce with a personal message from Sir Samuel Hoare, the British foreign secretary.

A high government official said the conversation centered on the giving of assurances by England concerning the part she has been playing at Geneva. This, it was explained, was the subject of the special message from Hoare.

Drummond last week gave assurances to Italy concerning British naval reinforcements in the Mediterranean, the official said, and in today's audience with Mussolini he gave assurances regarding the whole situation, particularly Great Britain's actions at Geneva.

Britain, the ambassador reportedly told Il Duce, is not acting alone but was motivated by the determination to uphold the principles of the league of nations.

Not Hostile, Britain Claims.

Drummond also told Mussolini, the official asserted, that Britain is not actuated by any sentiments of hostility toward Italy.

The official said there is no question of direct negotiations between the two nations, but the fact that Drummond had two conversations in such rapid succession with Mussolini and Undersecretary of Foreign Affairs Fulvio Suvich, with whom he talked last week, indicate a possibility that spade work for such conversations has begun.

The conference came at the close of a day in which Italy appropriated 2½ billion lire (a lira yesterday was quoted at 8.13 cents) for her colonies, made tentative preparations for the evacuation of coastal cities if it is necessary and received for duty more than 200,000 additional troops.

Seek to Deal with British.

Italian opinion, as expressed by the press, has been turning away from the league as a means of solving the Ethiopian question and many informed observers now believe Italy would prefer to have the whole matter withdrawn from the league and settled directly with Britain.

Government officials described the Ethiopian situation as "quiet" as troops of the classes of 1911 to 1914 flocked to barracks, bringing the total under arms toward Mussolini's promised "million by October."

Nevertheless, authorities of the ports and cities of Naples, Palermo, Taranto, Bari, Brindisi and others arranged for the evacuation of those communities if necessity requires it.

Interest centered again on the cabinet—which meets tomorrow.

The Official Gazette published the decree appropriating 2½ billion lire for further colonial expenses, which was added to nearly 2 billion lire already spent. One billion will go to the ministry for colonies, 50 million to the ministry of war, 150 million to the ministry of navy, and 300 million to the ministry of air.

Text of League's Scheme to Avert War in Ethiopia

GENEVA, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The official text of the league of nations' committee of five plan for an Italo-Ethiopian settlement, as made public today, follows:

"1. The committee which was instructed to make a general examination of Italo-Ethiopian relations and to seek a pacific settlement has endeavored to find a basis of negotiation. In doing so it has been guided first by the obligations respecting the independence, territorial integrity, and security of all states, members of the league; second by the necessity of insuring good and neighborly relations between the state members of the league.

"The committee expressed no opinion on the documents furnished by the two parties and confined itself to the facts of the situation which need to be remedied.

Ethiopia's Obligations.

"2. On admission to the league, Ethiopia assumed special obligations, regarding certain matters—in particular slavery and the trafic in arms. She declared herself 'ready to furnish the council any information which it may require and to take into consideration any recommendation which the council may make with regard to the fulfilment of these obligations in which she recognized that the league of nations is concerned.'

"3. In his speech at the plenary meeting of the assembly Sept. 11 the first delegate of Ethiopia spoke as follows: 'Any suggestion calculated to raise the economic, financial, or political level of the nation to which I have the honor to belong, provided it proceeds from the league of nations and is to be carried out in the actual spirit of the covenant, will be regarded by Ethiopia as an action of sister nations which have reached a more advanced stage of civilization and are sincerely desirous of guiding my country in the path of progress. Any proposal of that kind will be welcomed. I am convinced my country will examine it with the greatest good will and with real gratitude.'

Urges Aid for Ethiopia.

"4. In these circumstances it appears to be the duty of the league of nations to offer and extend to the Ethiopian government collaboration and assistance on a collective international basis so as to enable the latter to undertake resolutely the wide measures of constructive action necessary not only to improve the lot of the Ethiopian people and to develop the natural resources of the country but also to enable the empire to live in harmony with its neighbors. In view of the obligation of every member of the league to respect the independence of other members, every plan of assistance should receive the previous consent of the Ethiopian government.

"The general outline of the form which international assistance to Ethiopia, with a view to her administrative reform and economic development, might take is given below—

Police and Gendarmerie.

"SECTION TWO.

"1. Charter of assistance:

"Recalling the work previously done by the league, a charter of assistance will take the form of a protocol reporting the acceptance by the Ethiopian government of the plan of reforms drawn up by the council of the league;

"2. Public services requiring reorganization—police and gendarmerie:

"A mission of foreign specialists shall be appointed to organize a corps of police and gendarmerie which will be responsible for: [A] ensuring the application through the empire of existing and future laws or [a] prohibiting and obstructing slavery, [b] strictly regulating the carrying of arms by persons not belonging to the regular army or police and gendarmerie forces. [B] Policing centers in which Europeans reside [Addis Ababa, Deridawa and Harrar]. [C] Ensuring the security of agricultural areas where Europeans may be numerous and where local administrations may be insufficiently developed to provide them with adequate protection; [D] maintaining order in frontier territories of the empire so as to safeguard neighboring territories against incursions, particularly of those whose object is slave trafic, looting, and smuggling.

"In the areas referred to under 'C' and 'D' above the police and gendarmerie missions should participate in general administration to an extent varying according to the standard reached by local authorities as to the nature of the problem to be solved.

Trade and Finance.

"3. Economic development:

"[A] The possibility for foreigners to participate in the economic development of the country [land tenure], mining regulations, the exercise of commercial and industrial activities], [B] foreign trade—economic equality on a basis of reciprocity, [C] public works and communications, [D] posts, telegraphs, and telephones.

"4. Finance:

"[A] The drawing up of budget supervision for state expenditures, [B] the assessment and collection of taxes, fees and dues, [C] the establishment and operation of fiscal monopolies, [D] studies in connection with loans which would be required for the development of the country and for carrying out certain reforms—if necessary, the control of pledges assigned to the service of loans.

"5.—Other public services:

"(a)—Justice—The reorganization of a mixed court by which to try cases between foreigners and Ethiopians; native justice;

"(b)—Education;

"(c)—Public health.

Plans for Assistance.

"SECTION THREE.

"The internal structure and organization for assistance.

"If their mission is to bring results, foreign specialists, even where they are not invested with special administrative powers, must be able to rely on the effective cooperation of the Ethiopian authorities whom they are assisting. Furthermore, if their work is to be effectual, it must be coördinated. It would be expedient to provide a central organism both to coördinate the work of assistance and services and to secure for them the necessary support of the Ethiopian government.

"The principal adviser would be placed at the head of each of the four public services or groups of public services mentioned in the previous section. The principal advisers must either: (a) Be subordinate to a person who would be both their chief and at the same time the delegate of the league of nations accredited to the emperor, or (b) a form of commission presided over by one of them who would be a delegate of the league of nations.

Advisers for King.

"SECTION FOUR.

"The appointment of a staf.

"The delegate of the league and the principal advisers will be appointed by the council of the league with the agreement of the emperor. Agents other than the principal advisers will be appointed by the emperor on the nomination of the league or with his endorsement, according to the nature and the importance of their functions.

"SECTION FIVE.

"Relations with the league.

"The delegate or commission will, whenever necessary and at least once a year, make reports which will be communicated to the emperor at the same time as they are addressed to the council of the league.

"The Ethiopian government will submit to the council any observations it may wish to formulate in regards to these reports. The reports and observations, if any, will be studied by the council at the earliest possible date.

Called "5 Year Plan."

"SECTION SIX.

"Duration of the plan.

"As the work of assistance must be long, it would seem impracticable to assign to the plan a relatively brief duration such as five years. It would, however, be desirable to provide that the plan may be renewed at the end of five years by the council of the league so as to take into account the experience gained during that period.

"Representatives of France and the United Kingdom have informed the committee of five that, with a view to contributing to the peaceful settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute, their respective governments are ready to facilitate any territorial adjustment between Italy and Ethiopia by offering, if necessary, certain sacrifices in the region of the Somaliland coast.

"In negotiating on this subject the governments of the French republic and the United Kingdom will take care to obtain from the Ethiopian government guarantees regarding the execution in the territories to be acquired by it of the obligation by which Ethiopia is bound in regard to slavery and the trafic in arms.

Recognize Italian Interest.

"The representatives of France and the United Kingdom have further informed the committee of five of their respective governments, without wishing to impair the existing régime in regard to the treatment of foreigners and in regard to external trade, that they are prepared to recognize the special Italian interest in the economic development of Ethiopia.

"Consequently, the governments will look with favor on the conclusion of an economic agreement between Italy and Ethiopia on the condition that the existing rights of French and British nationals are protected and their persons respected by the two parties, and that the recognized interests of France and the United Kingdom, under all agreements already enforced, will be safeguarded."

NEUTRALITY LAW WILL BE SIGNED IN CUBA TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Sept. 23.—President Carlos Mendieta will sign Cuba's neutrality law tomorrow, Secretary of State Barnet said tonight after a conference with the president on the republic's position as a signatory of the Versailles treaty and as a member of the league of nations.

Cuba recently voted with France, England, Russia and other European powers to support the league's attitude against Italy in the controversy and favors adopting sanctions [penalties] against Italy should she invade Ethiopia, Barnet declared.

Unless league obligations compel her to do otherwise, Cuba will remain neutral, the minister said. The neutrality law expires Feb. 15, 1936. The law is modeled after the recently adopted by the United States. It bans the sale of arms and ammunition to warring nations and prohibits the entry of warships of combatants into Cuban ports said the president.

THREAT OF WAR EXCITES TURKEY; CABINET CALLED

ANKARA, Turkey, Sept. 23.—(AP)—President Kemal Ataturk of Turkey interrupted his summer holiday and returned here today in view of the gravity of the international situation. Other members of the government were summoned hastily, and deep concern was expressed in official circles over possible complications arising from the Italo-Ethiopian conflict, directly affecting Turkey.

These sources expressed fear that concentrations of British and Italian warships in the Mediterranean and Aegean seas might endanger Turkish coasts. Intense military activity was reported at the Dardanelles, strait between the Ægean and Marmora seas, and neighboring areas, with numerous troops exercising along strategic routes.

Other military contingents responsible for defense of the coast of Asia Minor on the Aegean, especially the sectors about Smyrna, Adalia, and Mersine, have been reinforced.

50,000 ITALIAN GUNS IN HANDS OF ETHIOPIAN TRIBES

Given to Somalis in Hope They Would Revolt.

This is the fifth of a series of articles by Will Barber, Tribune correspondent, on Ethiopian preparations for war. Mr. Barber penetrated into the Ogaden desert to get a first hand view of the Ethiopian front lines. He is the only American correspondent who has been permitted to visit the Ethiopian front.

BY WILL BARBER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Sept. 23.—They were very good knives—the first real steel table knives I had seen in many days—and they bore an inscription in the runic-like characters of the Amharic language.

"Do you like my knives?" proudly asked the colonel commanding the camp in the Ogaden desert. "They are cut very well, but the inscription is the best thing about them. It says: 'Gerlogubi 1927 bomb.' You will remember that Italian airplanes dropped bombs on our position at Gerlogubi last December—1927 by our calendar—after the Ualual incident.

"They did no damage except to the sand. Our soldiers picked up the unexploded bombs and I had table knives made out of them. Try them on this macaroni."

Eat Supper on Parapet.

We were sitting on the parapet of a thick walled stone blockhouse in an Ethiopian armed camp eating supper under the starlight. The wind whipped at the casing of an anti-tank and anti-aircraft gun five feet away. The colonel's 16 year old servant—he is trained to operate a machine gun—brought up a dish of macaroni which, incidentally, is the Ethiopians' way of describing Italians.

The colonel twirled the macaroni around on his knife, dipped it into the Italian made tomato sauce I had loaned the cook and smiled. The knife gleamed and on the wooden handle shone the rings of copper made out of the fuse of a Gerlogubi bomb.

"I have sent two of the bomb knives to the emperor and one to Lorrenzo Taezaz, who was at Ualual and now is head of the government press bureau," said the colonel. "But they are not the only Italian souvenirs we have or intend to get."

"Boy," he called, "bring those Afdub rifles."

Fetches Italian Rifles.

The boy appeared with four rifles and four cartridge belts. The colonel explained that Ethiopian Somalis had taken them on the battlefield from Italian Somalis in a victorious engagement at Afdub last January.

"They are Italian, but they are nothing," the officer explained. "If you wanted to look you could find 50,000 Italian rifles in this part of Ogaden. The Italians in the last nine years have been giving thousands of rifles to the Somalis on our side of the border with the hope they would turn bandit, stage raids and carry off cattle and camels. Then the Italians would be able to say that disorder reigns in Ogaden and that it must be cleaned up.

'The league of nations might look into such acts of provocation as that. I have been in various parts of Ogaden and I know what I am talking about. Of course, the Italians always hoped our Somalis would turn against us and seize Ogaden for Italy so Italy would have a good grazing plateau for the Italian Somalis, but especially so that the road to Harrar would be open to them. Harrar, as you know, is what they want."

"What about the Italian Somalis?" the colonel was asked. "Are any deserting to your side?"

"Up to three months ago there were many thousands of desertions, but not right now," he replied. "Now many individual Italian Somalis are crossing the frontier with their possessions and rifles and are not going back. As for our own, they are sticking to us."

Guns Clutter Blockhouse.

The officer arose and turned his field glasses on the eastern horizon, forever on the alert. About the little blockhouse were guns from Czechoslovakia. The rifles were Mausers.

The machine guns were made in Belgium. A tent flopping in the drying wind was made of Japanese sheeting, the tin plates came from England, the camp chairs were English, the field glasses German, and the tomato sauce Italian.

The colonel leaned his camp chair back against a case of ten-inch-long anti-aircraft cartridges.

Young and trained not as a soldier but as a civilian administrator, the colonel, by dint of necessity, had made himself a fighting man. He talked of Ualual and Gerlogubi and told of the years of difficulties with the Italians and the Somalis, who had been ready, until war threatened, to seek support from the Italians. Then he had been obliged to put an end to their smuggling.

Describes Neutral Zone.

He told of the neutral zone, which so far is the league's sole contribution to the preservation of peace between Italy and Ethiopia. He made it sound like a ridiculous business.

"There is a little zone six kilometers [nearly 3.75 miles] wide where neither we nor the Italians can go," he said. "Months ago, before it was apparent that Italy was going to make war, Ethiopian officers used to meet Maj. Roberto Cimmaruta on business in the middle of the zone. He is the Italian officer who was in charge at Ualual. He always said the clash there was not his fault, but that he was acting on orders from his government. What do I think of him? He is a nice fellow, but a terrible flatterer.

"The neutral zone? The Italians started to clear away the dense, almost impassable scrub on their side and get ready for military action. We have done the same thing yard for yard on our side. There will be fighting pretty soon now."

"What did your men think when the Italians first used airplanes against them?" the colonel was asked.

"They were frightened by the noise of the motors and ducked for the bushes, but when the bombs fell they fired their rifles at the air planes," he said. "Tanks? They are worse than planes, but at Ualual our men climbed on top of them and tried to get the enemy."

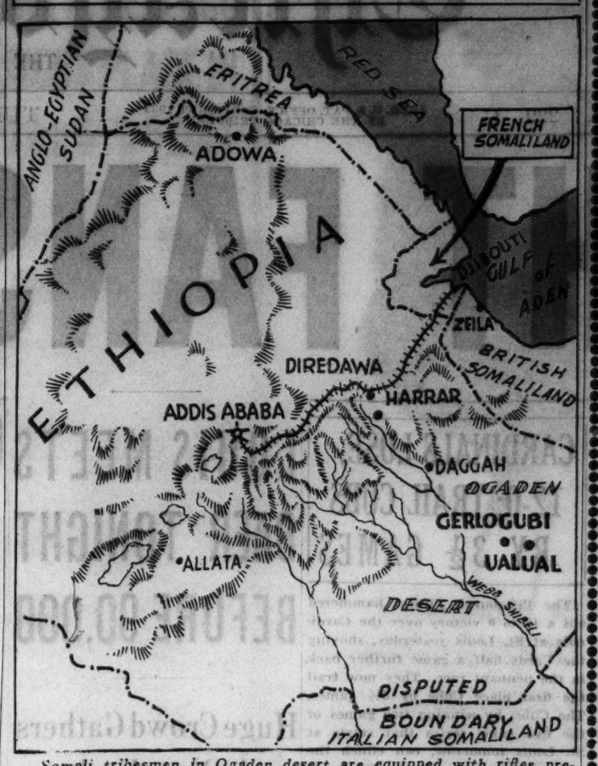
Italians Well Prepared.

"Are the Italians well prepared?" I asked.

"Very well," the colonel replied. "They have 50,000 white troops in Somaliland, and wherever they hold water holes they have a major with white soldiers and many Somalis. The Somalis who come to us say the Italians have had a hard time with the water. They sent 3,000 Somalis up near Ualual and many became ill and many died from bad water.

"Mussolini? The gods have given him up."

ITALY TRIES TO BRIBE TRIBES



Somali tribesmen in Ogaden desert are equipped with rifles presented to them by Italians with the hope the Somalis would revolt and create disorders within Ethiopia. Map shows desert region and towns being fortified to resist the threatened Italian invasion. Last December Italian troops clashed with Ethiopians at Ualual. This clash created the "incident" which led to the present Italo-Ethiopian conflict. Last December, too, Italian planes bombed Gerlogubi.

ETHIOPIA MUST NOT BE CARVED UP, KING'S EDICT

Scoffs at Duce's Demand for Big Area of Land.

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Indignant Ethiopian officials tonight termed "crazy" and "preposterous" the reported demands of Italy for a grant of rich land in return for peace.

Emperor Haile Selassie engaged in secret and important conferences at the palace with feudal lords and his foreign advisers. His spokesman reiterated the empire will never accept any agreement between Great Britain and France on one hand and Italy on the other which would partition Ethiopia into spheres of economic and political influence.

Willing to Sell Land.

Any grant such as that reported proposed by Il Duce's representatives at Geneva would leave Ethiopia with little more than mountains and deserts, Selassie's spokesman said. Moreover, he added, it will greatly increase the danger of invasion in the future.

"The only territory the emperor is willing to cede is Ogaden and Assua provinces, and then only for cash revenues usable in the national development of Ethiopia," the spokesman asserted.

"He might be willing also to permit Italians to build a railroad linking Eritrea and Italian Somaliland but excluding territorial concessions, any specific economic zones or special political rights to Italy contiguous to the railroad."

The officials also regarded with deep disfavor the reported Italian stipulation that any Ethiopian access to the sea be through Italian territory.

Would Lose Fertile Lands.

They said any grant to territory uniting Eritrea and Italian Somaliland would deprive Ethiopia of much of her most fertile provinces and would give Italy rich gold and platinum land as well as valuable cole plantations over an area of 10000 square miles.

The possibility Selassie may visit his troops at the northern "front" arose tonight when it was learned the Empress Memen intends to leave within a fortnight for her native city of Jessie, Wollo province, which is governed by Crown Prince Asfavu Quosen.

Sassie had not received the full text of the league of nations' committee peace plan, which was rejected by Italy. It was reported the Ethiopian delegation at Geneva had accepted the proposals on its own responsibility.

Palestine Digs Trenches.

HIFA, Palestine, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Trenches bristling with barbed wire and underground munitions dumps on the waterfront testified today to the government's precautions for "adequate defense."

A high official said the country was not apprehensive of the effects on Palestine of the Italo-Ethiopian situation but that defense precautions are being taken nevertheless.

Reports in the Arab press disclosed the public works department of the Palestine government, controled by Great Britain as the mandatory power, has dug a series of trenches about the railway workshop area on Haifa bay.

Guard Special Arsenal.

These trenches, encircled by barbed wire, inclose a special arsenal to which mines and other explosives were brought from two British cargo ships in the harbor and unloaded at night. A subterranean concrete storage chamber built in the harbor area was believed designed for munitions and other military stores.

The strength of Mediterranean fleet units stationed here was estimated at 14000 men. Additional barracks were being constructed at a military camp near Talpioth, a Jerusalem suburb. The regular police forces were reported undergoing rigorous training.

BRITISH CABINET TO MEET; TROOP MOVEMENT SEEN

Baldwin Confers with Defense Council.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Great Britain cleared the conference table tonight for a full dress meeting of her cabinet, and some thought the empire might be on the brink of new and important military thrusts in the troubled area affected by Italy's row with Ethiopia.

Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin twice summoned cabinet leaders and members of the imperial defense council to Downing street. Other ministers converged on London for tomorrow's full cabinet meeting. Observers recalled that the doubling of British naval strength in the Mediterranean followed last month's meetings of the cabinet and defense council.

Rerouted to Egypt?

Informed sources were unable to confirm rumors that British troops, dispatched ostensibly to Malta, were being quietly rerouted to Egypt.

John Bull meanwhile took pains to make sure that Il Duce is under no misapprehensions as to the significance of the unprecedented British fleet movements in the southern sea. The government dispatched Sir Eric Drummond to "underline" what the British ambassador to Rome previously had told Fulvio Suvich, undersecretary for Italian foreign affairs, about the fleet movements. That was to the effect the movements implied no aggressive intention, but were due to the "violence of the campaign" against the United Kingdom in the Italian press.

Worried About Frontiers.

In diplomatic quarters some observers believed Great Britain was seriously worried about the Egyptian and Sudan situations, with large concentrations of Italian troops reported in Libya and hundreds of thousands of others massing in Eritrea—presumably for the Ethiopian campaign but within striking distance of the fertile central Sudan.

The most sound commentators said any move on the part of Italy to seize British communication facilities which are only a hundred miles or so from her Eritrean troop concentrations would be "sheer madness."

ETHIOPIAN KING IS ARRESTED BY PALACE GUARDS

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie was arrested last night by three of his palace guards in succession—and the three were decorated.

The emperor is in the habit of donning peasant costume and making surprise inspections of Addis Ababa at night, seeing how his people live, whether the streets are clean, and checking up on the policemen.

Last night he returned to the palace after curfew. The king of kings found three of the imperial gates barred. At each gate he was arrested by the sentry on duty and only released when a sergeant was called out. The emperor tried the fourth gate. There, after an argument, the guard allowed his sovereign to enter.

This act, however, almost cost the fourth guard his head, because the emperor, as a reward for their vigilance, decorated the three soldiers who had arrested him and disciplined the man who had let him enter.

INSANE HOSPITAL FUGITIVE HUNTED AS RAPE SUSPECT

Police were searching last night for Ralph Grecco, 30 years old, who recently escaped from the Chicago state hospital for the insane at Dunning, after his photograph had been pointed out by Mrs. Orlando James, 148 North Mayfield avenue, as having features resembling those of the moron who lashed and raped her last Thursday.

The description of Grecco, taken from police records, also was said to correspond somewhat to that of the moron who perpetrated similar sadistic attacks on two other women in the Austin district within the last five weeks. The same man is believed to have committed all three crimes.

Notices "Same Piercing Eyes."

Mrs. James appeared at the Austin police station yesterday afternoon with Policewoman Bessie McShane, and was shown 25 photographs of men recently escaped from Dunning. As Mrs. James' assailant had the lower part of his face covered with a handkerchief during the attack, police covered the photographs in the same manner. She pointed out Grecco's picture.

Police went to 718 Aberdeen street, the last known address of Grecco, and in the neighborhood picked up his brother, Nick, who admitted having talked to the fugitive, Ralph, a few minutes earlier. Nick Grecco was held for questioning, the police believing he knows his brother's whereabouts.

According to the police record, Ralph Grecco is 5 feet 6 inches tall and weighs about 135 pounds. These measurements tally approximately with those of the moron. Dr. Frederick A. Causey, assistant managing director at Dunning hospital, said Grecco has degenerate tendencies and that he suffers from a persecution complex."

First Sentenced at 15.

Grecco's record shows that in 1920, when he was 15 years old, he was sent to the St. Charles reform school for stealing a purse. He escaped after four months. Later he was arrested for burglary in Michigan and served six months of a sentence before being paroled. In May, 1922, he was sentenced to serve 1 to 20 years in the Pontiac, Ill., reformatory for burglary. He was paroled in 1925.

Grecco violated his parole a few months later and was returned to Pontiac. In 1928 he was paroled again and remained at liberty until November, 1929. At that time he was arrested with a number of youths, members of the "42" gang. Another parole was granted in 1932. Shortly afterward he was rearrested for assaulting his father and was returned to Pontiac for violation of parole.

On May 3, 1934, he was adjudged insane at a hearing in Randolph county and was ordered confined in the Menard State Security hospital. On June 6, 1934, his sentence for burglary was completed and a month later he was transferred to Dunning."

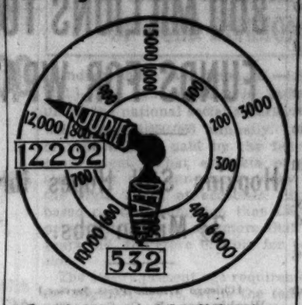
Freed as "Personal Favor."

Grecco escaped from the honor farm at Dunning on Oct. 12, 1934, and returned five days later. He was then confined in the institution. Shortly afterward State Representative Peter C. Granata wrote a letter to Dr. Edward F. Dombrowski, superintendent at Dunning, requesting as a "personal favor" that Grecco be placed again on the honor farm.

Dombrowski said yesterday that he refused to comply at once with Granata's request because of Grecco's record. However, last March 8 Grecco was returned to the honor farm. He escaped again and was captured on March 30. On April 10 he escaped again and since then he has been at large.

THE MASSACRE

Chicago's 1935 Trafic Toll



Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

CROSSES STREET AS LIGHT TURNS; KILLED BY AUTO

Morris Lapidus, 50 years old, owner of a newsstand at Ashland avenue and 51st street, was killed yesterday by an automobile driven by Charles Gaston, 31 years old, 6734 South Claremont avenue, as he crossed Ashland avenue near the newsstand.

Lapidus, whose home address was not known by police, walked across the street as the trafic lights changed. His body was hurled against another car driven by Harry Wysocki, 29 years old, 5017 South Washtenaw avenue, which was halted on a red light. Gaston insisted that he had a green light, but other witnesses said the light was on yellow at the time his car struck Lapidus.

Patricia Bonney, 3 years old, was fatally injured yesterday when she was struck in front of her home, 5925 Wentworth avenue, by an automobile driven by Joseph Manella, 14 years old, 329 West 22d place. Manella took the child to St. Bernard's hospital, where she died.

A verdict of manslaughter was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday at an inquest into the death of Harry Grove, 80th street and Ridgeland avenue, who was fatally injured by a hit and run driver early in the day at 79th street, one half mile east of Harlem avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday the total automobile deaths in Cook county since Jan. 1 stood at 682, according to figures from the coroner's office. In that period there were 532 trafic deaths and 12,292 persons injured within the Chicago city limits.

SERIES OF MORON CASES REPORTED ABOUT CHICAGO

While the police were hunting last night for the degenerate who has raped three women in the Austin neighborhood during the last five weeks, other attacks and offenses by alleged morons were reported about the city.

Anker Menchen, 38 years old, 1552 Wilson avenue, was held by the North Damen avenue police on a charge of attempting to take liberties with a 7 year old girl. The police arrested him after an angry crowd menaced him in the 4100 block on North Hermitage avenue.

Jack Gardner, 25 years old, was arrested on a charge of annoying a woman at Kimball and Lawrence avenues. The Woodlawn police were searching for a man who tried to maltreat a girl, 8 years old, in an alley at 64th street and University avenue.

Edward Becker, 42 years old, 4711 Castello avenue, was held by the Cragin police on a charge of indecent exposure.

Lester S. Pierce, 41 years old, 6526 Stewart avenue, was sentenced to serve six months in the Bridewell by Judge J. William Brooks in the Stockyards court on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Howard Bell, 25 years old, 1312 Monroe street, Evanston, who was arrested Sept. 18 after he was accused of attempting to rape a 17 year old girl, was ordered held to the grand jury by Justice of the Peace Harry H. Porter in Evanston.

FRANK B. KELLOGG RESIGNS PLACE IN WORLD COURT

Seen as Protest Against Pact Breaking.

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, Sept. 23.—The league of nations revealed today that Frank B. Kellogg, former secretary of state of the United States, had resigned his seat in the Permanent Court of International Justice, the "world court." A letter to the president of the court dated Sept. 9, reads:

"Circumstances make it impossible for me to continue to attend sessions of the court at The Hague. I therefore tender my resignation, to take effect as early as possible.

"I deeply appreciate the great importance of this court in the field of international relations and it is my desire to coöperate in every way possible to further the judicial settlement of international dispute which I believe most important in the maintenance of world peace.

"It is therefore with regret that I feel compelled to tender my resignation, but I realize that my inability to attend sessions of the court makes it not only desirable but necessary that a successor should be chosen to fill my place."

See Peace Protest.

Some European circles connect the resignation with the Ethiopian situation, taking it as a sign of increasing American isolation. Others see a gesture of protest by Mr. Kellogg at Italy's attitude toward the Briand-Kellogg pact.

League and United States quarters pointed out that they knew he had been desirous of resigning for a couple of years because of indifferent health and therefore they see no political significance in his move.

There is talk here of Henry L. Stimson being named to succeed Mr. Kellogg. This is partly because it has become almost a tradition for former United States secretaries of state to serve on the world court, Charles Evans Hughes having been the first to do so. John Bassett Moore was the first American member of the court in 1922.

REFUSES EXPLANATION.

Frank B. Kellogg, in Chicago yesterday en route to New York, refused to amplify his letter of resignation from the world court which was made public in Geneva.

"I resigned because I wanted to," Mr. Kellogg said.

He boarded an afternoon train for New York to attend a meeting of directors of the Burlington railroad.

The state department in Washington declined to comment on Mr. Kellogg's resignation, pointing out that he was a member of the court as a private individual. The senate in the last session defeated a proposal for the United States to adhere to the world court.

DEWOLF HOPPER DIES SUDDENLY AS HEART FAILS

Refuses to Take Illness Seriously.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—De Wolf Hopper, noted actor, died unexpectedly in St. Luke's hospital here today. Death was attributed to heart disease.

"His heart was gone," Dr. H. P. Boughan said. "He was a sick body with a mind and spirit that wouldn't admit it."

The sprightly 77 year old comedian was ill yesterday afternoon when he broadcast a radio program. He had been giving a series of broadcasts each Sunday. Following yesterday's program he was taken to the hospital, where he grew weaker although he insisted he was not a sick man.

Refuses to Be Serious.

Even in the hospital he refused to take his illness seriously and protested being put to bed as a patient. He called for newspapers and sat on the edge of his bed, fully clothed, reading and smoking his pipe until after 11 o'clock last night.

"Tell them I'm resting, not sick," the actor boomed in the vibrant voice that had been heard on the stage for more than half a century.

He expressed keen interest in the baseball pennant races and read the sport pages thoroughly before he would consent to retiring. It had been expected he would again recite Ernest L. Thayer's "Casey at the Bat" over the radio at the opening of the world series. He was known particularly for immortalizing the ballad, having recited it more than 10,000 times.

Sends Doctor Away.

"See you tomorrow, Doc," Hopper said as his physician bade him goodnight. "I never sleep until 3 a. m. anyway. Run along while I see what the Cards did."

When he was finally put to bed he slept fitfully. After dawn he seemed to have trouble getting his breath. The nurse called an intern, but about the time he reached the bedside the "grand old man of the stage" expired.

Word of his death was sent to his widow, Mrs. Lillian Glaser Hopper, a singer of Oakland, Cal. She was his sixth wife. She said she would leave by plane for Kansas City. The body will be removed to New York for cremation.

"De Wolf always wanted to die in his sleep, like his mother did," Mrs. Hopper said.

55 YEARS ON STAGE

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Fifty-five years of the long life span of De Wolf Hopper were spent on the stage, and during forty-five of them he was a star who had no rivals in his vein. He was a unique personality, towering above his comic opera colleagues like a genial giant. In stature, in booming vocal power, and in his gift for grotesque comedy, he stood alone in his field. He had, in a marked degree, the quality of singularity, of a man utterly different from his fellows, which is the stamp of great theatrical reputations.

Seemed Imperishable.

Moreover, he seemed almost imperishable. To the playgoers of the generation which he survived, the people of the 1880s and 1890s, he was the same De Wolf Hopper who flourished in recent years as the kingpin of Gilbert and Sullivan revivals—tall and big boned, rugged of frame and feature, a kindly colossus who stalked and ambled across the stage, singing in a way that suggested a sound amplifying system and acting like a playful St. Bernard dog.

He reveled in polysyllabic words; he gave a mandarin's air to low comedy situations; he always suggested the old-school tragedian, changed by a stroke of Puck's magic into a gigantic clown.

Old age had changed him only by adding to his homely face a few wrinkles which makeup paint could disguise, and by compelling him to wear a toupée. The years did not put weight on his frame or bend his massive shoulders. He stood 6 feet 2 inches in his stockings; he weighed 193 pounds—the pattern of a professional football player. To the end his voice was booming with its old bass resonance, although during the last two years of his life he had to tame it down to suit the technical requirements of the radio microphone.

Complexion Turns Blue.

The only change that came over De Wolf Hopper as his friends knew him in the last fifteen years of his life was one of complexion. He had turned blue. When he had washed off the grease paint of Ko-Ko, Dick Deadeye, and the other Gilbert and Sullivan fantastics he looked like a man of an unknown race—perhaps a Martian.

This indigo complexion was the result of a medical accident. During treatment for a throat complaint he had gargled a nitrate of silver solution so frequently that the chemical had saturated his system, and the photographic effect of light on his skin had caused a chronic discoloration. This had no effect on his general health, and apparently gave him no self-consciousness. Turning blue never embittered him; he lived and died a happy giant.

His career began in 1878, when as a confident youth of 20 he financed a production of "Our Boys" with himself in the leading rôle. This venture failed, costing him a pretty penny out of a comfortable inheritance from his father; but his own performance brought him immediately to the fore on the New York stage and he became much in demand for eccentric characters in farces.

He advanced in the drama as far as "Hazel Kirke," a famous old sob play, in 1884, and then his singing voice, which seemed to have grand opera promise, took him into the field of operetta and musical spectacle.

"Die Fledermaus," "The Black Hussar," "The Beggar Student," "The Lady or the Tiger," and "Boccaccio" were some of the lyric productions in which he won popularity during a five years' stay at Wallack's theater, New York.

Rises to Star Rank.

He rose to the rank of star in "Castles in the Air," in 1890, and the next year brought him into one of the great chapters of his career—the great popularity of the operetta called "Wang," which was in the Gilbert and Sullivan style.

"Dr. Syntax," "El Capitan," which marked the rise of John Philip Sousa, and "The Charlatan" were notable Hopper hits in the last decade of the nineteenth century. An association with Weber and Fields brought him into the 1900s, and then he toured for two years in "Mr. Pickwick," and for three in "Happy Land."

Hopper's fame as an interpreter of Gilbert and Sullivan rôles began in 1911, when a vogue for revivals of these operettas as classics started with great vigor. Dick Dead Eye in "H. M. S. Pinafore," Bunthorne in "Patience," the Sergeant of Police in "The Pirates of Penzance," Ko-Ko in "The Mikado," the Lord Chancellor in "Iolanthe," Jack Point in "The Yeomen of the Guard," and John Wellington Wells in "The Sorcerer"—these were Hopper's contribution to this movement, from 1911 to 1915, and they made him a national institution.

Last Stage Appearance Here.

He became a propagandist for Gilbert and Sullivan, and can be credited with a large share of the work that has kept the Gilbert and Sullivan repertory alive into the present time. His last appearance on the stage was in "The Mikado" in a casual production in Chicago about three years ago.

"The Better 'Ole," a musical comedy based on Bruce Bairnfather's cartoons, is well remembered as Hopper's contribution to wartime theatricals. He regarded Old Bill, his "Better 'Ole" character, as a highlight of his career.

He became a dramatic actor again late in his career as Falstaff in an all-star production of "The Merry Wives of Windsor" in New York, and in "The World Between," a play by Fritz Blocki, staged in Chicago in 1932. Then he passed into semi-retirement with radio work as his mainstay. His headquarters during the last two years were in Chicago, and he made weekly airplane flights to Kansas City, where his broadcasting station was located.

A part of Hopper's legend is his adventures in matrimony. He held a record among theatrical stars with six wives in his life story. They were: Ella Gardner [a cousin], Ida Mosher, a chorus girl in the McCaull Opera company, both divorced before his 28th year; Edna Wallace Hopper, a musical comedy star from 1893 to 1898; Nella Reardon Bergen; Ella Furry, from 1913 to 1924, and Mrs. Lillian Glaser, his widow, married in 1925. He was the father of two sons, one by his second wife and one by his fifth.

"Mighty Casey Has Struck Out"

Here is the poem made famous by De Wolf Hopper in more than 10,000 recitations since he first gave it in 1883. Once he said, "Where or what I may be playing, I must, before the evening is out, come before the curtain and pitch to Casey."

The outlook wasn't brilliant for the Mudville nine that day;
The score stood four to two, with but one inning more to play;
And so when Cooney died at first, and Burroughs did the same,
A sickly fear came o'er the patrons of the game.

A few got up to go, but on the other hand the rest
Stayed with that hope that springs eternal in the human breast.
They thought if only Casey could get a whack at that They'd put up even money now with Casey at the bat.

But Flynn preceded Casey, and so did Jimmy Blake;
The former was a hoodoo, the latter was a cake;
But Flynn let drive a single, to the wonderment of all,
And Blake, the much despised, tore the covers off the ball.

And when the dust had risen and they saw what had occurred,
There was Blake safe on second and Jimmy hugging third.
Then from the maddened thousands there went up such a yell
It thundered on the mountain top, it recoiled upon the flat,
For Casey, mighty Casey, was advancing to the bat.

There was ease in Casey's manner as he stepped into his place,
There was pride in Casey's bearing and a smile on Casey's face;
And when, responding to the cheers, he lightly doffed his hat,
No stranger in the crowd could doubt 'twas Casey at the bat.

Ten thousand eyes were on him as he rubbed his hands with dirt,
Five thousand tongues applauded when he wiped them on his shirt.

And Casey stood a-watching it in haughty grandeur there.
Close by the sturdy batsman the ball unheeded sped—
"That ain't my style," said Casey. "Strike one," the umpire said.

From the benches, black with people, there went up a muffled roar,
Like the beating of storm waves on a stern and distant shore.
"Kill him! Kill the umpire!" shouted some one on the stand,
And it's likely they'd have killed him had not Casey raised his hand.

He stilled the rising tumult, he bade the game go on.
He signaled to the pitcher, and once more the spheroid flew;
But Casey still ignored it, and the umpire said "Strike two!"

"Fraud!" cried the maddened thousands, and echo answered "Fraud!"
But one scornful look from Casey and the audience was awed.

The sneer is gone from Casey's lips, his teeth are clenched in hate,
He pounds with cruel violence his bat upon the plate;
And now the air is shattered by the force of Casey's blow.

O, somewhere in this favored land the sun is shining bright,
The band is playing somewhere, and somewhere hearts are light,
And somewhere men are laughing, and somewhere children shout,
But there is no joy in Mudville—mighty Casey has struck out.

—Ernest L. Thayer.

INVITE GROWERS OPENLY TO DEFY POTATO CONTROL

Darien, Conn., Sept. 23.—(AP)—A plan for the open defiance of the potato control act through the organization of the "potato men of Connecticut" was announced today by Harvey Watkins, Republican town chairman of Darien.

Watkins said the proposed organized action, termed by him an "ironic memory" of the minute men of the revolution, will be inaugurated tomorrow at a rally which will open the Republican campaign in Connecticut.

Growers will be asked to sign pledges to resist efforts to enforce the act. Copies of the pledges, the names of the signers and the acreage they will devote to potatoes will be sent to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

Lionel Barbour to Appeal in Henderson Estate Suit

Lionel R. Barbour, Detroit attorney who lost his suit on July 13 to share in the $650,000 estate of Mrs. Fannie B. Henderson, Aurora widow, obtained permission yesterday for an apeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. Barbour claimed a husband's share of the estate on the contention that he was Mrs. Henderson's common-law husband as the result of an informal wedding ceremony performed in Michigan in 1925. Federal Judge John P. Barnes directed Barbour to post $1,000 appeal bond and ordered him to pay $1,000 in attorney fees to Louis Jaffe who represented minor heirs in the case.

ROOSEVELT ADDS 800 MILLIONS TO FUNDS FOR WPA

Hopkins Still Hopes for 3½ Million Jobs.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today, in a special executive order, made available an additional 800 millions of dollars for works progress projects. This will permit WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins to spend one billion 375 millions for his "quick job" program.

Hopkins insisted that he still hopes to fulfill the pledge made by the President to congress to take 3½ million men off the relief rolls and put them to work by Nov. 1. He now has five weeks to meet this objective and is confronted by the stupendous task of transferring well over half a million men a week from relief to jobs. Even counting in the 510,000 boys in the CCC camps, the administration has not yet reached the million mark in its reëmployment drive.

Boondoggling Included.

All the projects sponsored by Hopkins are the "light" type, including those of the "boondoggling" variety. They are intended to keep the men busy during the winter months. In the spring it is hoped to put the employables to work on projects of the lasting, durable type favored by Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes.

The order signed by the President read as follows:

"Whereas, I find it necessary, in order to effectuate the purposes of the emergency relief appropriation act of 1935, to increase by 800 million dollars the limitation of 900 millions contained in clause G of section 1 of the said act, on the amount which may be expended under the act for loans or grants, or both, for projects of states, territories, possessions, including subdivisions and agencies thereof, municipalities, and the District of Columbia and self-liquidating projects of public bodies thereof;

"Now therefore, by virtue of and pursuant to the authority vested in me under the said emergency relief appropriation act of 1935, it is ordered that the said limit be and it is hereby increased from 900 millions to 1 billion, 700 million dollars."

Ickes Submits Final List.

Administrator Ickes tonight submitted his final list of proposed PWA projects totaling 800 millions to the President. He explained that only one-quarter of the applications received could be recommended because PWA's share of the reëmployment fund was sliced from 900 millions to 435 millions, only 200 milions of which amount remains unallocated.

Asked if special consideration would be given to projects easily visible, Ickes replied: "This is not a showcase program. It is up to PWA to deliver projects of a lasting nature."

He added that PWA "will be more ruthless than ever before in rescinding contracts for failure to begin construction."

Hampered by Limitations.

Ickes was hampered in the preparation of the list by the restrictions laid down by President Roosevelt. The projects must be started before Jan. 1, must be completed within one year, and not necessitate a higher cost per employé per year than $850. These conditions automatically eliminated many big projects.

Among the host of PWA officials who besieged Hopkins' office today were Robert J. Dunham, state works progress director for Illinois, and Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, which faces a 1 million deficit by the end of September.

DECKS CLEARED FOR BIG WAVE OF WPA APPROVALS

State Asks Cash in Face of Relief 'Squeeze Play.'

All division heads of the federal Works Progress administration in Illinois were called into conference yesterday by Ralph H. Burke, deputy WPA administrator for the state, who ordered them to be ready for a flood of project approvals from national WPA officials at Washington. The office here has cleared 3,941 made work projects calling on Uncle Sam for $451,000,000, but its proposals have run into a jam in the ponderous Washington machinery.

Meanwhile Robert J. Dunham, state administrator, and Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, were in Washington trying to speed up approvals and to obtain more federal direct relief funds. National relief officials cut off relief funds for Illinois several days ago, leaving the state $1,000,000 short for September needs.

View Procedure as Maneuver.

Officials here surmised that the federal action on relief funds was a further indication that the administration is attempting a "squeeze" play to force Illinois and other states ultimately to shoulder the direct relief burden while the federal government gives WPA jobs to "employables."

Burke said that he had sent to Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator and also head of the federal Emergency Relief administration, an estimate that 22,000 persons would be shifted from relief to WPA projects in Illinois before the end of the month. At present WPA employment in the state is only 6,700.

The number to be taken off the relief rolls in Illinois has been estimated at 250,000 "employables," of whom 108,000 are in Cook county and 142,000 are downstate. The administration has decreed that WPA and the federal Public Works administration shall employ 164,700 and the remainder of the load be taken over by the Civilian Conservation corps, other alphabetical agencies, and the army and navy construction crews.

Asphalt Bids to Be Asked.

Within a few days the treasury department branch in Chicago will advertise for bids on asphalt for improvement of city streets, according to officials. A federal allotment of $32,543,000 has been approved for the program. Approximately 2,000 men have gone to work resurfacing unimproved streets and the force will be augmented by an additional 2,500 this week. The peak of employment under the program will be 38,000.

In the meantime relief officials were doing their best to carry on with funds reduced by the federal mandate. Work relief, which is more costly than direct relief by 30 per cent, was discontinued. The city was forced to lay off 2,400 relief employés who had been eradicating weeds. Officials in downstate counties were notified of their reduced allotments and were ordered to stay within the available funds.

Ex-Congressman Simpson Hurt in Hunt Club Ride

Former Congressman James Simpson Jr. of Wadsworth, Lake county, was under treatment in Passavant hospital last night for a strained back incurred Sunday while he was riding with the Mill Crest Hunt club near Milburn in Lake county. His injury was described by his physician as "just a kink in the back" which he suffered when he leaned suddenly while riding. He was not thrown from his horse.

CHARITIES MUST DO HOME RELIEF, SAYS ROOSEVELT

President Sees Brighter Economic Skies.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—The federal government is withdrawing as rapidly as possible from the field of emergency home relief, President Roosevelt said today. Private charity must assume the relief burden being relinquished by the government, he added.

In an informal talk delivered from the south portico of the White House shortly after his return this morning from Hyde Park, Mr. Roosevelt averred that "definitly brighter economic skies" were in prospect for America. He spoke to several hundred delegates to the third annual meeting of the Association for the Mobilization of Human Needs.

Better times are here, the President asserted, but the problem of caring for the "less fortunate of the land" remains a great one which demands the coöperation of private welfare agencies and the government.

Record Held Remarkable.

He noted that the organization's support of welfare services had been maintained within 13 per cent of the high financial level reached in 1929 and called this record remarkable.

"There are very special reasons why all must coöperate to bring private welfare support back at least to the 1929 level," he continued. "In pursuance of the announced policy of the legislative and administrative branches of the federal government, the government is withdrawing as rapidly as possible from the field of emergency home relief. We are moving successfully toward the substitution of work for direct relief. We anticipate, in addition to the work provided by federal funds, a very definite increases in work provided by the employers of the nation during the coming year. The great mass of private employers realize today that they again must greatly help in our economic system by offering employment to the utmost limit of their ability."

Proud of New Deal.

Suggestive of the tenor of the speeches he will make on his forthcoming western jaunt, the President spoke with pride of New Deal activities.

"Chiefly because of the steps taken by the government itself during the last two and a half years," he commented, "to save homes and farms, to bring prices into a more fair adjustment, to make the payment of debts easier, to make loans to industry, to railroads and to banks, the actual purchasing power of the mass of people has greatly risen from the low point of 1932.

"This means, therefore, that the nation as a whole is better able to do its duty to private charities than it has ben for six long years, and that is a pretty good selling argument for all of you to carry to the nation.

Many Gaps Are Open.

"In the task of caring for the less fortunate in this year of 1935 there are, of course, many important gaps to be filled. It is to the filling of these gaps that your earnest efforts are being directed.

"It cannot be emphasized too often that the task you have been doing all these years is far broader than relief. The public must realize more and more the great and necessary work you are doing in such fields as nursing, hospitals, child welfare, recreation, and youth guidance. Such services as these have not and cannot be assumed as a responsibility of the federal government except in a most limited degree. Their very nature consigns them to private agencies."

Winant Has Big Task.

"The new commission for social security headed by Gov. John G. Winant is about to undertake a great task," he remarked, "that of spreading the gospel of taking care of the aged throughout the country, of setting up unemployment insurance, and also of coöperating with the states and communities in taking care of widows and children.

"The work of this new commission dovetails—ties in—very closely with the human neds of every community, and I am very confident that you will be able to make it clear in this campaign that you are coöperating in this new work. It is going to help every community in the land."

In reply to the President's greeting, Gerard Swope, chairman of the conference and president of the General Electric company, said that while "the depression clouds indubitably are lifting," that private welfare agencies must receive increased financial support to assist "in the liquidation and adjustment of the governmental relief programs."

SCULPTOR WINS WITH 'JUSTICE'; ON RELIEF ROLL

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Romuald Kraus, a young sculptor of New York who has been on the relief rolls within the last year, has won the treasury's competition for a figure of justice to be placed in the new Newark postoffice and courthouse. That was announced today.

Competing against sixty other sculptors, many of them nationally known, according to treasury officials, Mr. Kraus submitted a model which depended entirely on gesture and expression to convey his meaning, dispensing entirely with the conventional trappings of justice—the sword, scales, blindfolding, etc.

When completed in full scale, Mr. Kraus' figure will be installed in a place made for the purpose behind the judge's seat in courtroom No. 3 of the Newark postoffice and courthouse building. The amount allocated for the work, $6,500, is to cover the complete cost of execution and installation. The final work will be seven feet from foot to head and will be in bronze, gilded.

Attends Wake for Father, Then Shoots Self to Death

George Fenton, 31 years old, 702 East 80th street, returned home early yesterday from the wake at 5305 South Union avenue for his father, Timothy J. Fenton, 66 years old, retired foreman in the city water department, who died last Thursday. An hour or so later, the younger Fenton's wife, Alda, who also had been at the wake, reached home. She found her husband dead in their bedroom, a bullet wound above the heart and a pistol by his side. She told the police that apparently he killed himself because of grief over his father's death.

COMMUNITY FUND DRIVE IS BEGUN; GOAL $3,200,000

17 More Welfare Groups to Benefit This Year.

With a goal of $3,200,000, the fifth annual contributions drive for Chicago's Community Fund was officially started last night at a dinner meeting of 156 team captains and members of the individual gifts division.

Last year the drive topped its goal of $3,000,000. The increase of $200,000 is made necessary by the addition of 17 welfare agencies to the number participating in the fund, making a total of 147—Protestant, Catholic, Jewish, and non-sectarian. Greater burdens on private charitable agencies are also expected, as the federal government sloughs off the regular relief load.

Pleads for Larger Gifts.

"We've got to get larger contributions this year," said Philip D. Armour, general chairman of the fund, at last night's meeting. "We should get 10 to 15 per cent increases in individual amounts, to raise the larger total required."

Mr. Armour announced that $333,500 has already been contributed by wealthy individuals among whom preliminary soliciting was done by members of the sponsors division. The average of contributions was $15,000, compared to $13,700 in this division last year.

"There are 147,000 families on relief in Cook county," Mr. Armour said. "Many will be taken off relief rolls and transferred to the new public works projects. Their average wage then will be about $55 a month, which is less than many received on regular relief, so there will be additional demands for aid made upon private agencies."

Women to Canvass Stores.

The drive is to be conducted in substantially the same way as in former years, along the lines of a business sales setup. For the first time, however, women have been organized in a money raising group to canvass neighborhood offices, shops, and stores. Also, it was announced, many new names are on the list of prospective contributors.

None of the 147 agencies participating in the community fund will make any additional appeal for contributions from corporations or employé groups, although individuals are not to be exempted from requests for further aid.

"Our motto should be, 'Larger individual contributions from more individuals,'" the campaigners were told by James D. Cunningham, chairman of the individual gifts division. "Start out tomorrow on this job," he urged. "It is much easier if done quickly."

Sees Help in End of NRA.

Business men no longer have to pay NRA code assessments and this should increase chances of larger collections for the fund, it was declared by Clarence B. Randall, chairman of the trades and industries division, which will go into action next week.

"Last year we were told that some executives we wanted to see were busy on code authorities, and that the companies had to contribute toward meeting code expenses," Mr. Randall said. "This year I'll settle with any company on this fund for the amount it formerly paid in code assessments.

"Human morale is the most precious thing in industry. The only way to have good workmen is to have healthy and happy workmen. Industry has a collective obligation to see that the people have necessary welfare services that keep up the morale."

As in previous drives, the slogan this year is: "A Real Neighbor gives." Contributors will be given buttons to wear showing they have done their part.

Serves Until December

Russell Whitman, former president of the Chicago Bar association, was inducted yesterday as a judge of the Superior court to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge David M. Brothers last week. Gov. Horner appointed Whitman to the bench to serve until December, when Judge Brothers' term expires.

Chief Justice Denis J. Normoyle of the Criminal court officiated at the induction. Whitman was assigned to the Criminal court. Among others present were Charles P. Megan, president of the Illinois Bar association; Judges Joseph B. David and Cornelius J. Harrington of the Criminal court, and several of Judge Whitman's relatives.

Judge Whitman is 74 years old and lives at 1334 Asbury avenue, Evanston. He formerly was president of the Civil Service Reform association. For years he has been a member of the state board of bar examiners. Judge Whitman served on the committee which selected the site of the present Criminal court building.

INDIANA PLANNING REVISED PROGRAM OF AGED PENSIONS

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Old age pensions in Indiana under the national social security law will cost $14,950,080 annually. Half of that will be paid by the federal government. That estimate of the state cost was announced today by the state board of accounts. It is based on the asumption that 138,000 persons in Indiana are more than 70 years old, therefore eligible for pension.

The state's present age requirement for eligibility is 70, while the federal law sets 65, with a proviso that 70 could be used as the requirement until 1940. There is a ten year state residence provision in the Indiana law, while the federal act says five years.

In a six month period ending May 6 $1,087,744 was spent for pensions. Half of that was paid by the state, the other half by counties. Pension recipients numbered 27,748.

SENATOR LEWIS MAKES SLIGHT GAIN ON ILLNESS

Condition "Still Serious," Doctors Report.

MOSCOW, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Physicians attending Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois noted a slight improvement in his condition tonight. They said his condition is still serious, however.

The American statesman was stricken with pneumonia during a visit in Moscow. Some encouragement was drawn from the fact that Lewis' heart action was more regular.

Takes Nourishment.

A bulletin issued by the physicians said:

"The senator's condition improved somewhat during the day. The pneumonia has not extended farther. His heart action is more regular. The patient took some nourishment, but his general condition remains serious."

It was signed by Dr. Adolf S. Rumreich, physician to the United States embassy; Dr. Otto Ling of the German embassy, Dr. M. Vovsi, chief of the medical clinic of Botkin hospital, and Dr. V. Vasilieff, chief of the Kremlin division of the Botkin hospital.

New Nurse on Way.

An English-speaking nurse is coming to Moscow from Berlin by airplane in response to a telegraphed request by Mrs. Lewis.

An English-speaking Kremlin hospital nurse, previously engaged to attend the senator, fell and broke her arm yesterday and was unable to work today. Another nurse who spoke German, which the senator also speaks, was taken ill.

G. O. P. TO START EARLY DRIVE FOR MIDWEST VOTES

Headquarters Will Open Here Next Month.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Republicans are planning to open western headquarters in Chicago about the middle of October and to launch an aggressive campaign against the New Deal seven or eight months ahead of the national convention next June.

The move is an innovation by the national G. O. P. organization which has usually waited until the presidential ticket is nominated before opening activities in the west, where the votes are. The aim is to make the Grass Roots aspects predominate in the pre-convention activities and to keep aloof from candidacies.

Harrison E. Spangler, national committeeman from Iowa, is slated for the post of director of the western G. O. P. headquarters here. Such was the word yesterday from Washington, where the executive committee of the Republican national committee is to meet tomorrow.

Spangler Here on Way East.

At this meeting the general outlines of the pre-convention campaign are expected to take form. Mr. Spangler passed through Chicago yesterday on his way east, but made no announcements, leaving that for the executive committee tomorrow.

One quarter in which the Republicans expect to get busy early is the south. The cotton control experiment of the New Deal, the plight of the share croppers and field hands, and the loss of much of the cotton export market to foreign lands which have increased production to profit from crop curtailment under the New Deal, is held to have made some of the southern states fertile fields for Republican activities. In these it is planned to stimulate a Grass Roots movement.

"Among these states," remarked Mr. Spangler, "are Georgia, where Gov. Eugene Talmadge is fighting the New Deal, and Texas where there is a strong protest movement against infractions of constitutional guarantees. The south next year will be a battle ground just as are other parts of the country.

Coöperation Is Keynote.

The present plan, on which the executive committee is to pass, is to place Chicago headquarters on a dual organization basis, with coöperation between the Grass Roots movement and the Republican national committee. Mr. Spangler, who was a leading spirit in the June Grass Roots conference of ten food basket states at Springfield, is chairman of the permanent Grass Roots committee, organized to keep the movement going full tilt as a cross-section of opinion, belief and activities among the rank and file outside the politicians.

The national committee, according to the plan, is to recognize the Grass Roots group as an auxiliary in establishing western headquarters. The Grass Rooters, however, are to retain their separate identity for the ten states participating in the Springfield roundup, and the emphasis is to be thrown on their activities.

Western headquarters is to embrace all the states from the Alleghanies to the Pacific, starting with Ohio. Branch quarters for the coast states and for the Rocky mountain states may be opened later. Headquarters here may be in the Palmer house.

CLAIM CHEMICAL PROLONGS HEART BEATS 4 HOURS

MOSCOW, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Soviet science told the story today of how the hearts of 35 children, removed from their bodies after death, were made to beat again—some for as long as four hours.

A solution containing adrenalin was used in the experiment described by Prof. B. Ossinoffsky of the government institute for the protection of children's health and conducted in his laboratory. The hearts, he said, were removed from the bodies in periods ranging up to 25 hours after death. Those revived made up 65 per cent of all the hearts on which experiments were conducted, Ossinoffsky asserted. Children from whom the hearts were taken died of various diseases.

The experiment was described as the first to deal with human hearts on a large scale.

PROGRESSIVES OUST CHAIRMAN IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Chairman George Czerwinski and three other officials were ousted here tonight by the Farmer-Labor, or radical, wing of the Progressive party of Milwaukee county.

The four were dismissed in what Samuel S. Soref, lawyer and common party council member, described as a "purge." Soref expressed hope that henceforth unity will prevail in the Progressive ranks, now that the "snakes of treachery and disloyalty have been properly beheaded."

Ousted with Czerwinski were Vice President Dr. Robert Miller and Otto Nick and Otto Falbe, members of the executive board. John Grobschmidt was elected to succeed Czerwinski.

Bank Manager Robbed of $6,400 in Currency

Twice the Former Number of Two Fare Riders.

Officials of the elevated lines estimated last night that about 40,000 transfers were made yesterday under the transfer plan that went into effect Sunday on the "L" and the surface lines.

The estimate was based on a count of about 15,000 transfers received by the elevated lines in an hour and a half during the morning rush, the belief that the same 15,000 persons would use both services on their way home from work, and the fact that 10,000 other transfers were made outside the rush hours.

The greatest number of transfers was used on the south side, elevated officials said. Next in number came the northwest side. There was little or no confusion and the public readily adapted itself to the system, the officials said.

1½% of Surface Line Riders.

H. O. Crews of the surface lines said the number of persons asking transfers from street cars to elevated trains was less than 1½ per cent of the surface lines passengers. Those persons pay a 10 cent fare instead of the 7 cents charged for a passage on street cars alone. The 10 cent elevated fare covers the transfer from "L" to surface lines.

The number of persons who availed themselves of the transfer privilege yesterday is about twice the number of those who formerly paid two one-way fares each day—one to the elevated and one to the surface lines, Mr. Crews said. Several months ago when the Illinois commerce commission was first considering the transfer plan, according to Mr. Crews, checkers found that about 20,000 passengers daily paid two fares before their one-way trip was completed. Charles E. Thorney, an engineer for the elevated lines, agreed with Mr. Crews on the figures.

Discuss Rider's Complaint.

Mr. Thorney and E. J. McIlraith, staf engineer for the surface lines, discussed the complaint of a correspondent of the Voice of the People in yesterday's TRIBUNE. The correspondent felt that he should be allowed to transfer from a Fullerton avenue surface car, eastbound, to the "L" at the Logan Square station which is a block and half north of Fullerton avenue on Kedzie boulevard.

"The passenger would have to walk at least a quarter of a mile to the Logan Square station in a direction opposite from his destination," Mr. McIlraith said. "As arranged, he may now ride to Milwaukee avenue or California avenue, transfer on the surface line and take an elevated train at the California avenue station. The commerce commission thought that plan best, and so do we."

Mr. Thorney agreed. Both said an exception is being made to that rule in allowing passengers from Devon avenue street cars to walk north to the Loyola elevated station to board trains for the loop. This is done, they said, because Loyola is an "express" stop while the Granville avenue station, the next one to the south, is not.

G. O. P. TIMBER IN ILLINOIS

This is the sixth of a series of sketches of Illinois Republicans who have been mentioned for party nominations for state offices in next year's election.

One Illinois Republican widely discussed as fitted for state office who doesn't even care to talk about it is Edward A. Hayes of Decatur, former national commander of the American Legion.

EDWARD A. HAYES.

Those who heard him present the report of the resolutions committee at the Grass Roots conference in Springfield, including leaders from other states, immediately began to speak of him as of governorship caliber. But long before that many who had watched him for the last few years had been considering him for the attorney generalship.

Politics Holds No Appeal.

Such compliments, it is said by those who know him best, are pleasing to Hayes, but hold no real appeal for him. He has told newspaper reporters that he is not interested in seeking public office at this time, but what is considered more significant than that is that his friends believe he means every word of it.

The young Legion leader—he is only 42—tells them that he is intent on building up his law practice, that he feels he already has sacrificed considerable of his younger years in the Legion work in which he has been active since the inception of the organization in Illinois, and that he owes a large duty to his family.

In spite of these, many of the nonfactional Republicans feel so strongly that Hayes is the type of new face and new brains needed by the party that serious consideration should be given to the question whether an effort should be made to draft him.

Stirs Party's Enthusiasm.

Following the favorable impression he made at the Grass Roots meeting—he had kept out of partisan politics during his command of the Legion—Hayes aroused enthusiasm at a crowded luncheon of the Republican Round Table in Chicago last June by his slant on the needs of the Republican party in Illinois.

"We must put politics on a higher plane," he said then. "Principles and sincerity of purpose must dominate, and mere expediency must be forgotten.

"We've got to forget about personalities and enunciate principles. You leaders of thought in the Republican party must forget individualities.

How Party Can Win.

"Then, later, when you have selected individuals who can be backed for office by all people and factions and have adopted a platform ignoring mere expediency and presenting a declaration of real principles on this crucial question of preserving American institutions from New Deal encroachments upon the constitution, then people of every walk of life will join hands with us to save the structure of the greatest government gotten together by the minds of men."

Hayes enlisted in the United States navy in 1917, was commissioned as an ensign in 1918, and resigned in 1919. Two years ago he was commissioned as a lieutenant commander in the reserve forces.

FLORIST REFUSES TO HELP IN NEW SLUGGING INQUIRY

Stays in Cell; Prosecutor Assigns Police Squad.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Alonzo Taylor, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Edwin Boyer, larceny of an auto, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge D. J. Normoyle.

Jeanette Sirecty, murder, sentenced to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Joseph B. David.

Investigators were seeking yesterday to determine what influences caused Peter Javaras, Oak Park florist, to repudiate his identification of two union agents as the men who slugged him in the suburb on June 12. His change of testimony brought him a contempt of court sentence which he is now serving in the county jail.

Javaras yesterday refused to leave his jail cell and go to the office of Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty for questioning about his failure to repeat before a jury last week his previous identification of Fred Bohlman and Lawrence Monahan, business agents of the Excavating, Grading and Asphalt Teamsters' union, as his assailants.

Squad Hunts New Evidence.

Police, however, were looking for other sources to obtain the information refused by Javaras. At the request of Dougherty, a squad of state's attorney's police were working with members of the Oak Park police force in efforts to disclose whether Javaras was intimidated, or for other considerations had repudiated his identifications.

"When we have sufficient evidence, we'll proceed before the grand jury to get an indictment against Javaras for conspiracy to obstruct justice," said Dougherty, when informed that Javaras refused to leave the jail.

A possible indictment against Javaras for perjury also is being considered.

Oak Park Demands Action.

Oak Park officials are insistent that Mr. Courtney find out why Javaras changed his mind about the identity of his assailants.

The assault on Javaras was made because he refused to join the Florist Drivers' union. After the assault he joined the union, but declared that his membership would not interfere with the prosecution of the slugging case. Then, at the trial, he refused to repeat the identification, and the case collapsed.

NEW YORK G. O. P. FACTIONS BATTLE OVER LEADERSHIP

New York, Sept. 23.—[Special.]—The contest for the chairmanship of the New York county Republican committee between Chase Mellen Jr., the incumbent, and Kenneth F. Simpson reached a new height of bitterness tonight through a series of clashes of the rival factions at assembly district organization metings at which district leaders were elected.

Both Mr. Simpson and Mr. Mellen claimed certain victory at the meeting of the county committee Wednesday night. Mr. Mellen declared recent developments had brought him additional votes and assured his reëlection. Victor Kaugman, in charge of the Simpson headquarters, announced that a careful check gave Simpson a minimum of 1,742 votes out of the 2,477 on the county committee.

"Galloping your horse in the park where there are women and children is just as dangerous as speeding in an automobile," Magistrate Frank Giorgio said.

'DEAD' NRA PAYS 2,760 EMPLOYES OVER 7 MILLION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—The NRA, "killed" by the Supreme court last May 27, still employs 2,072 persons in Washington, with salaries aggregating $5,545,720, and 688 persons in the field, with total salaries of $1,477,500, a total of over 7 millions per year. This was disclosed in an official report obtained by Senator William H. King, [Dem., Utah] and made public today.

After the Supreme court's Schechter poultry case decision, holding the NRA unconstitutional, President Roosevelt announced that the agency would be reduced to a "skeleton" organization to compile reports on industrial conditions before and after the codes. The report to Senator King discloses that the "skeleton" consists of 2,760 employés, compared with the peak of 5,500, and a total of 260 of them are drawing salaries of more than $5,000 each.

Calls for Salary Data.

In the closing days of congress Senator King, a vehement foe of the NRA, introduced a resolution calling upon that organization for the personnel and salary data, but upon the promise of NRA officials to supply the information voluntary he withdrew the resolution.

The report, among other things, discloses that the staf engaged in writing obituaries of the dead codes includes, in Washington, 473 employés receiving $4,000 a year or more, with aggregate salaries of $2,422,800. Outside Washington there are 68 employés drawing $4,000 or more, with combined salaries of $338,200.

In the early days of the NRA Administrator Hugh S. Johnson insisted that no one save the general counsel, Donald R. Richberg, who received $12,000 a year, would be paid more than $6,000. Later, it was disclosed, however, that Frances [Robby] Robinson, Johnson's secretary, was getting $6,500 and had a brother on the pay roll.

Fourteen Get Over $8,000.

Today there are 14 employés, all in Washington, drawing $8,000 or more. Some of the higher salaried pay rollers are:

Laurence J. Martin, acting administra.	$8,000
Waltn Hamilton, director, consum div.	8,500
Leon C. Marshall, director, review div.	8,500
Prentiss L. Cooney, direc., bus. coop..	8,500

Chauncey H. Crawford, adm., forest prod	8,000
Willard L. Thorp, chairm., advis. coun.	8,000

Edward K. Warren, director, code adm.	6,800
E. S. Beach, director.....	6,000
William A. McLaren, insular compl. dir.	5,200

Other High Salaries.

In addition there are, in the Washington offices, 26 deputy administrators and 1 division administrator, each with a salary of $6,800 a year, and 6 deputy administrators, 1 acting administrator and 1 assistant division administrator, each with a salary of $6,000 a year.

To assist the deputy administrators, who in turn assist the division administartors of this defunct organization, there are 35 senior assistant deputy administrators, each with a salary of $5,200.

To assist the senior assistant deputy administrators, who assist the deputy administrators, who assist the division administrators of the dead blue eagle there are 99 assistant deputy administrators, each with a salary of $4,500 a year.

Although the NRA did not have enough legal talent during its legal existence to enable it to survive legally, the "dead" NRA has a pay roll of $427,100 for legal talent. George A. McNulty draws a salary of $6,800 as assistant director of litigation. L. M. C. Smith draws a salary of $6,800 as general coördinator in the legal department. There are 17 so-called "head attorneys," each with a salary of $6,000 a year; 40 principal attorneys, each with a salary of $5,200, and 23 senior attorneys, each with a salary of $4,500 a year.

14 Special Assistants.

Notwithstanding the fact that the codes have been abolished and there is no further need for compliance officers, regional field investigators, coordinators, etc., the pay roll lists 14 special assistants, each with a salary of $6,800; 7 special assistants, each with a salary of $6,000; 15 special assistants, each with a salary of $5,200, and 15 special assistants, each with a salary of $4,500.

The titles of some of these assistants are as follows: Labor revision office, assistant code administration director, superintendent of special projects, code supervisor, senior code supervisor, compliance officer, regional field investigator, senior code adviser, and assistant code adviser.

Also on the pay roll there are 34 "unit chiefs," two with salaries of $6,800, five with salaries of $6,000 each, 15 with salaries of $5,200 each, and 12 with salaries of $4,500 each. The report does not explain what a "unit chief" is. Neither does it draw any distinction between economists, of whom there are ten drawing salaries of $5,200 and four drawing salaries of $4,500, and statisticians, of whom there are ten drawing salaries of $4,500 to $6,800.

TRADE PAPER'S LAWYER BEATEN; EX-EDITOR HELD

James Dunn, 44 years old, 1448 Lake Shore drive, former publisher of the Insurance Index, a trade paper, was arrested last night and locked up at the detective bureau on a complaint of Frank Brickley, 852 North Avers avenue. Brickley, attorney for the present management of the paper, claimed that Dunn had made threats against him and had persuaded an unidentified man to beat him.

The beating was administered to the attorney in front of the Brevoort hotel last night. Brickley said that his assailant, who was armed with a pistol, struck him several times and then fled with the aid of Dunn. Dunn, who was found later in a saloon, would not make a statement. He was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct, sworn to by Brickley, on Sept. 20 and obtained a continuance in court last Saturday.

JAIL PREACHER IN SAME FIX AS HIS PARISHIONERS

Amandas Nelson, 55 years old, 6115 South Peoria street, is well known at the Englewood police station because he has been going there every Sunday to preach to the prisoners. His usual services were not held last Sunday because he was a prisoner in the station on a charge of making a disturbance while drunk. He told Judge J. William Brooks in Stockyards court yesterday that he had been very religious and abhorred liquor, but he met an old friend from Sweden Saturday who insisted that they take one drink for old times' sake. "Well, the first drink broke my will power," said Nelson, "and I couldn't stop." The judge dismissed the charge when Nelson promised to climb back on the water cart.

BRITISH FLYERS 'BAIL OUT'; PLANE FALLS IN EGYPT

KHARTOUM, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The attempted London to Cape Town flight of Capt. Tom Campbell-Black, ace British aviator, ended in a parachute drop, it was learned today.

Reuter's advices said Campbell-Black and his co-pilot, J. H. G. McArthur, "bailed out" safely on the west bank of the Nile and that their plane crashed west of the Kabushia railway station, 130 miles west of Khartoum, yesterday morning. Reaching Kabushia, the flyers started by train for Atabara.

The two Britons rode to Kabushia on camels. They reported their plane had been burned.

According to the informant, owners of small and large eating places have been forced to join the "Restaurant Owners' association" or suffer "rough stuff" from the racketeer group.

FLYER TO FINISH KAUNAS TRIP BUT NOT IN OWN PLANE

New York, Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Felix Waitkus, Chicago and Wisconsin flyer of Lithuanian parentage, who hopped the Atlantic only to crack up yesterday at Ballinrobe, County Mayo, Irish Free State, will continue to Kaunas, Lithuania, his destination, by boat or another plane. This information was given today by Anthony Vaivada, representative of the Chicago Lithuanian newspaper which sponsored the flight.

Previously Waitkus, who was uninjured when his plane struck a tree in landing after a strenuous ocean crossing, had said he would proceed in his own ship as soon as it could be repaired. Engineers told him today, however, that this could not be accomplished soon. Officers of the Irish Free State air force were today supervising the work of dismantling the monoplane, which will be shipped to Kaunas.

Refreshed by a long night's sleep, Waitkus today laughed at his experience, declaring only that he had received "quite a bump" in the forced landing. He admitted, however, that the fog, rain, and mist which made him fly blind during most of his 22 hour trip, was "filty weather."

NEW THIRTY SEAT FLYING BOAT O. K., U. S. TESTS SHOW

Can Hop Nation Nonstop; Lifts 13 Ton Pay Load.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

The largest commercial airplane built in the United States—the new Martin ocean transport, a flying boat capable of carrying 30 passengers for 3,000 miles nonstop—has completed its licensing tests for the federal bureau of air commerce and has virtually qualified in the severe acceptance tests of Pan-American Airways, it was learned here yesterday.

According to reports from the Pan-American Airways, engineers and test pilots at the Glenn L. Martin factory near Baltimore, the giant ship has surpassed its expected performance in every particular. The remaining acceptance tests are to be completed within a few days. The craft then will be fitted with its interior furnishings.

The factory has two other identical boats finished, and with these Pan-American Airways is to have a fleet of three of the oceangoing transport boats delivered within the next two months.

A Special Difficulty Solved.

Glenn Martin's new boat constitutes the first venture of this veteran builder of military bombardment airplanes into the commercial field. It also is his first attempt to build a machine intended to alight on water. When it became known 18 months ago that Martin had secured the Pan-American contract for three big boats, observers predicted he would encounter the same difficulties which all other manufacturers have met in switching from the building of land to sea aircraft.

The predictions apparently were confirmed early this spring when the first of the three new boats suddenly was returned to the factory after the Martin company test pilots had flown it for a short period. Now, however, it is learned that the only obstacle was the behavior of the stub wing sponsons which balance the craft while it is taxied on water. Weaknesses in these sponsons have been corrected.

Advantage Claimed for Sponsons.

The sponsons, which caused Martin his greatest difficulty, were his own solution of a problem, which has annoyed every boat designer. Most of them in the past have fitted floats to the tips of their wings to balance the craft on water. In the air these wing floats add weight and air resistance to the plane without affording any compensating advantages. Moreover, on rough water they are a source of worry to pilots.

The Martin sponsons, on the other hand, are themselves small wings and they help lift the craft. Tests have shown that they balance the ship as well as the floats do. They have the additional advantage of containing large fuel tanks.

With a wing span of 130 feet and a fuselage 97 feet long and nearly 20 feet deep, the big ocean transport has a gross weight of slightly less than 26 tons. Of that amount the disposable load constitutes 26,300 pounds, or slightly more than the weight of the craft empty.

Influence of Sikorsky Seen.

Martin followed the trend set by Igor Sikorsky in installing four motors, each of which is faired into the leading edge of the single wing, which is set over the boat body. The motors are twin row Wasps developing 800 horse power at 8,000 feet, and are fitted with constant speed three-bladed Hamilton Standard propellers, and automatic mixture controls.

As in the Sikorsky boats, the hull is the cargo and passenger space, but the Martin is the first American airplane which is a double-decker. The lower deck comprises the five passenger and mail compartment. The upper deck is fitted for the pilot's "office," crew quarters, and the mechanics' cockpit.

According to reports from the factory, on July 17 the big boat carried a pay load of 24,000 pounds and a gross load of 51,300 pounds to 18,200 feet, a height and load record never before approached. Its speed at sea level, the manufacturers assert, is 167 miles an hour, 7 more than the minimum acceptance figure. At 8,000 feet the top speed is 180 miles an hour. Without flaps the machine alights at 70 miles an hour and taxies in 200 foot circles at 55 miles an hour.

AIR EXPEDITION TO JUNGLES WILL TAKE OFF TODAY

An expedition which will penetrate to the heart of the Brazilian jungle will take off today from Racine airport at Racine, Wis., in a twin motored amphibian biplane. Dr. B. E. Dahlgren, curator of botany of the Field Museum and Dr. J. V. Steinle, research chemist, will be members of the party which is to make a survey of the natural resources of the virgin South American country.

The group will be headed by H. F. Johnson Jr., president of S. C. Johnson & Son, Inc., wax makers, who will direct a search for areas growing the Carnauba palm tree, oil from the nut of which is the basis for waxes and polishes. Pilot Edward H. Schlanser and Mate Joseph Hoy who also is to act as radio operator, with Dr. Steinle will be alone in the ship today. Mr. Johnson will join the party with R. P. Gardiner, also an official of the wax company on Oct. 1 in Miami.

The airplane is powered with two 420 horsepower Wasp engines, and carries two way radio and full flight instruments.

Protest Confiscation of Church Finances.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 23.—A new battle of the Protestant Confessional church for freedom of creed was started at Steglitz, a suburb of Berlin, tonight with services in St. Mark's church convening the third synod of the "Confessional Church in the Old Prussian Union."

The synod's purpose is to protest against the confiscation of its finances decreed by the church minister, Hans Kerrl, on Aug. 22, and similar "measures of state restricting the freedom of the Protestant church."

The general superintendent, Herr Rendtors, formerly bishop of Mecklenburg, declared to 70 Confessional pastors, that a final decision is at hand. He urged them not to become too anxious over rumors that Confessional Protestants are to be denied the citizenship certificates introduced by Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler for the benefit of citizens of whom the Nazis approve. He consoled them with promises of "citizenship in the real kingdom of Christ," which he said is awaiting true pastors.

Condemn Nazi Tactics.

A member of the synod called for the adoption of resolutions against the confiscation of the finances of the church, against a decree of Minister of Interior Wilhelm Frick ordering that christened Jewish children be placed in the same schools as fully Jewish children and against the decree of Minister of Culture Bernhard Rust forbidding the Confessional church to run theological seminaries. On the contrary the synod will be asked to approve the opening of theological seminaries in Barmen and Dahlem section of Berlin.

The pastors were optimistic because in the session held in Wernigerode yesterday the "Prussian Pastors' association" picked Confessional churchmen as leaders.

Church Minister Kerrl delegated his official chancellor, Herr Stahn, as supervisor of the Steglitz synod. It is understood Stahn was armed with orders to dissolve the synod, but was instructed to try to avoid using them.

Charge Concordat Violated.

It was noted in religious circles that the decree of Minister of Culture Rust segregating all Jewish children in special schools was not published in the official legal gazette. Formerly only the decrees published in this gazette had the power of law. No change has been formally announced and therefore it was assumed that the Rust decree was shelved temporarily.

Cardinal Bertram protested against this decree in the name of the Catholic church, pointing out that discriminating treatment of Jewish children of the Catholic faith would be a violation of the concordat.

Heathen organizations continue their propaganda, officiating at weddings of Nazi followers, presenting them with Hitler's book "My Struggle," in lieu of the traditional Bible.

Promise Modification.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Maj. F. W. C. Fetherston-Godley, chairman of the British legion, said today the legion had protested to German war veterans against religious "persecutions" in Germany and had received a reply saying "they will be modified in due course."

QUITS CABINET IN GREECE AS VOTE FOR KING NEARS

ATHENS, Greece, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Undersecretary of State Aristides Protopapadakis resigned today as the cabinet met to consider modification of regulations drawn up for the plebiscite Oct. 27 on restoration of the monarchy.

[Former King George II. of Greece, who would resume his rôle at the head of the government if the monarchy wins in the voting, is in England.]

The undersecretary, a high political source said, resigned because of his opposition to monarchist plans.

The war ministry announced it had canceled army leaves indefinitly and was retaining in military service the class of 1934, which is due for discharge.

MEMEL GERMANS CLAIM LITHUANIA BLOCKS VOTING

Denied Membership on Election Board.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEMEL [KLAIPEDA], Little Lithuania, Sept. 23.—Next Sunday's elections in the Memel district, which Kaunas has renamed Little Lithuania, threaten the peace of northeastern Europe, according to the leaders of the German party. They have made an energetic protest to Lithuanian authorities over the new election methods, demanding German representation on the election commission.

Memel residents are confident of an overwhelming German victory, despite obstacles. Voters declare they will continue to fight for restration of the autonomy guaranteed by the Memel statute, which they say Lithuania has made ineffective.

Under Two Dictatorships.

The position of the Memel citizens is difficult because of two dictatorships—one established in 1926 by President Antanas Smetona of Lithuania and the other two years ago in Germany by Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler. The rivals are in open conflict over the rights of the 150,000 inhabitants to a direct, secret, universal, and democratic election and a representative form of government, as provided by the Memel statutes [signed by France, Italy, Great Britain, Japan, and Lithuania in 1924].

Sunday's elections will be held under the new election law formulated by the Lithuanian dictatorship. The new law makes voting complicated and tedious. The election commission consists of four Lithuanians. The German majority has no representation. The Lithuanians reduced the number of precincts from 211 to 76, claiming that through increasing the number of voters attached to each poll they were preventing the Germans from terrorizing the doubtful element.

Ballot a Novelty.

The ballot to be used is something new in election annals. Each voter will receive a pad consisting of 187 sheets of numbered paper, each containing the name of a single candidate in alphabetical order.

A total of 29 sheets contain the names of the German majority candidates and the remainder have the names of Lithuanians. Each voter must remove 29 sheets from the pad and enclose them in an envelope. After twice presenting his identification papers, the voter must hand over the open envelope to the Lithuanian in charge of the poll, who will deposit it in an urn. Following the elections all urns will remain in the custody of the Lithuanians, who will bring them to Memel, where more Lithuanians will count the votes.

Wage Radio War.

The Lithuanians claim they have offered election jobs to German business and professional men who have refused to serve. Local authorities refuse to recognize the United German party, claiming it has been organized under instructions from Berlin.

Lithuania and Germany are waging a radio war, interfering with each other's broadcasts. The German radio and press daily assure Memel citizens that they have the support of their fatherland. The soviet press and soviet radio make similar promises to support Lithuania in her fight against the new German "pressure toward the east."

Two important developments have taken place in Lithuania's foreign relations. First, Latvia, which thus far has remained neutral in Lithuania's quarrels with Germany and Poland, has become friendly to Lithuania. Secondly, the Lithuanian foreign office is negotiating on the possibility of Lithuania and Poland signing a peace agreement and opening diplomatic, postal and railroad communications, providing Poland will leave the Vilna question open.

More Visit Studio

Four hours of open house at the new studios of W-G-N yesterday brought 4,022 people in a steady procession through the public broadcasting auditorium. It was the second preview for the public, and the number of visitors added to Sunday's crowd of 4,368, made a total of 8,390 persons who have seen the interior of the new building.

The previews will be repeated today and tomorrow from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. Dates for the visible broadcasts which will be free are yet to be announced. The vast interest in these was attested yesterday by a tabulation showing that requests for 5,000 tickets for these broadcasts have already been received. Applications, which will be filled in the order in which they arrive should be made at THE TRIBUNE'S public service offices or by letter to W-G-N.

In the afternoon ten picked ushers from Andrew T. Frain's service, who will begin duty in the studios next Monday, appeared on Michigan avenue in front of the new building in their new blue uniforms of special trim design. Each usher has had more than two years of college education and two years' training under Mr. Frain.

JURORS INSPECT LAKE IN WHICH WIFE DROWNED

Sherman, Choir Singer, on Trial as Killer.

Worcester, Mass., Sept. 23.—(AP)—A jury was chosen today to try Newell P. Sherman, choir singer and scoutmaster, for murder, and immediately afterward was taken to visit the lake where Sherman, if is charged, drowned his wife so he might marry an 18 year old girl.

After the state's charge against Sherman was read, the jurors were taken to Lake Singpetary, where Mrs. Alice Sherman, 22, mother of the defendant's two children, was drowned on the night of July 20.

The jurors visited the boathouse where Sherman rented a canoe. The jurors passed Sherman's home. The jury was cautioned against asking questions during the trip.

The defendant had used all twelve challenges allowed him and 44 veniremen were examined before the jury was selected. As each venireman was presented for acceptance or rejection Sherman, under the Worcester County court custom, rose each time.

"Juror, look upon the prisoner; prisoner, look upon the juror," the clerk said. In a loud, clear voice Sherman gave his decision. Sherman weighs more than 200 pounds. District Attorney Hoban has charged Sherman overturned the canoe and then pushed his wife from him. The state said Sherman wanted to marry Esther Magill, with whom he worked.

CRUEL TO CHILD, MAN AND WIFE GET JAIL TERMS

Nels Larsen, 50 years old, and his wife Vivian, 38 years old, were fined $6 and costs and sentenced to serve sixty days in the Bridewell by Judge George B. Weiss in Women's court yesterday for their cruel treatment of Jean Larsen, 7 years old, Larsen's daughter by a former marriage.

Policeman Ignatius Brandt testified that he found the child tied hand and foot last Friday in the bathroom of the Larsen home, 7518 Addison street, and that neighbors had told him she had been so tied for seven or eight weeks. He arrested Mrs. Larsen and later arrested her husband at one of the docks of the South Chicago Coal and Dock company, where he was working. Jean was taken to the Juvenile home. A physician's certificate showing that she is suffering from malnutrition was introduced into evidence.

Mrs. Larsen testified she had tied the child "for burning things." Larsen testified that Jean was "contrary in school" and that "the teachers couldn't do anything with her."

Her husband was given ten years in prison as an accomplice. Three watchmen in the factory were convicted of accepting chocolate bars as bribes and were sentenced to from one to two years at forced labor. Three other woman workers, who aided in the theft, were ordered to prison for three to seven years.

DO YOUR "JANITOR WORK" WITH ONE FINGER!

The Federal Housing Administration makes it easy!

Government-sponsored plan, applying to all oil burners, makes installation a simple matter for Chicago householders. Take advantage of low-payment terms now!

"Out of the question . . ."

With those four words, many a Chicago householder has dismissed from his mind the whole subject of Oil Heat.

But Oil Heat was beyond reach—except for the well-to-do.

Frankly, there was once some ground for this view. Early oil burners, like the early motor cars, were costly.

But that day is past.

Today, oil burners (any make) are moderately priced. They are within easy reach of the most modest purse.

Moreover—thanks to the National Housing Act—they can be installed without paying a penny down (and without any mortgage).

And the terms of this Government-sponsored plan are so liberal that payments can amount to less than 30 cents a day!

Parley Recesses to Seal Pact This Morning.

spending money only for bare necessities, fearing a suspension of work. But now with the strike actually under way, business men hope for an early and permanent settlement and subsequent return of business.

Joseph Dernoncourt, president of the Springfield subdistrict of the U. M. W. of A., said all of his union's 25,000 dues-paying members in Illinois stayed away from the mines today. He said there was no trouble and that none is expected.

Coal was dug today only in mines employing members of the rival union, the Progressive Miners of America. Although the soft coal strike had not spread to that union, Progressive workers working near Harrisburg were reported to have walked out because of discontent over a 50 cent per day wage differential. Progressive leaders blamed that strike on a "misunderstanding."

Urge Progressives to Join.

However, U. M. W. of A. leaders broadcast an appeal for all Progressives to join their strike for an increase of wages, asserting that the "U. M. W. of A. fight is the fight of every coal miner in Illinois." The plea was made by Dernoncourt upon orders from Ray Edmundson, state president of the United Miners and one of the participants in the wage scale conference at Washington.

"It is ridiculous to think that the Progressives will join the United Miners in a strike," said William Keck, president of the Progressive union. "Our membership has been struggling and fighting with all its might since 1932 against these reactionary forces to maintain a decent wage scale."

8,000 Walk Out in Iowa.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Eight thousand union coal miners were on strike in Iowa today. Iowa miners since the NRA have been governed by the Appalachian field, according to Sam Ballantyne, president of the Iowa Operators' association.

1,500 Out in Indiana.

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Fifteen hundred union members of southern Indiana were striking today. Fifteen mines of Vanderburg and Warrick counties are affected. Of this number seven or eight had been operating, the others had been idle due to the summer slack season. Gibson county is completely shut down, operators announced.

TROOPS READY; FEAR REVENGE OF TAXI DRIVERS

Bel Air, Md., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Militiamen, state police, and Harford county officers were held in readiness tonight to prevent possible violence against Kendall Hill, in jail here on a charge of murdering a Baltimore taxicab driver.

Two machine guns were set up inside the jail tonight, one at the door and another at a second story window. State troopers manned the two guns, while the Guardsmen mobilized in their armory nearby had seven others in readiness. They said they could be set up in "three minutes."

The assembling of members of the local machine gun company of the Maryland National Guard in the armory here as a precautionary measure was authorized by Gov. Nice at the request of Circuit Judge Walter W. Preston.

At the time these precautions were taken a large number of Baltimore taxicab drivers were reported driving toward Bel Air.

Officers said that Hill has confessed to the slaying.

Von Puttkamer Gets New Writ to Bring Son to Court

Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg issued a second writ of habeas corpus yesterday for the appearance in court of Curt von Puttkamer Jr., 9 years old, heir to a $750,000 estate. The writ was made returnable on Sept. 30. It was ordered after deputy sheriffs were unable to serve the first one, issued last week, on the boy's great-aunt, Mrs. Nellie Himmel, 1125 Lunt avenue, and her son, William B. Himmel, 2719 Asbury avenue, Evanston. The boy's father, Curt Sr., an insurance broker, alleges that the Himmels are illegally keeping his son. The boy's mother leaped to her death from a New York apartment on Sept. 12.

Plunges to Death

Miss Eleanor Handzel, 21 years old, 1480 Erie street, was fatally injured early yesterday in a plunge from a third floor window of the Bethany hospital, 3420 Van Buren street. She had been in the hospital recuperating from injuries incurred Sept. 10 when she was hurt in an automobile accident in which her cousin, Evelyn Barica, 16 years old, 1500 North Springfield avenue, was killed.

The girl was discovered unconscious on the ground at the rear of the hospital at 7 a. m. by Daniel Peters, night clerk, who was making his regular rounds. She died a few hours later. Members of her family could give no reason for her leap, but hospital attachés said she had been grieving over the death of Miss Barica.

The automobile accident occurred as Miss Handzel and several others were returning from the Brookfield zoo in a light truck driven by her brother, Edward, 19 years old. At 1st and North avenues, north of Melrose Park, the truck collided with a bus driven by Clarence Johnson, 34 years old, and carrying 22 inmates of the St. Charles School for Boys. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death in the case of Miss Barica, but criticized both drivers.

BOND COMMITTEE QUESTIONS FARR AND STILWELL

Investigation of bondholders protective committees was resumed yesterday in hearings at the United sional committee of which Congressman A. J. Sabath is chairman. The day was taken up with questioning two witnesses: Newton C. Farr former president of the Chicago Real Estate board, and Abner J. Stilwell, vice president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company.

Farr was chairman of the bondholders committee of a $13,000,000 real estate trust which went into receivership March 15, 1930. While holding this position, Farr admitted, he was a member of a syndicate which was buying up defaulted bonds of the trust at greatly reduced prices. His personal indebtedness to the trust then was $39,000, he said, but he never had sufficient funds to reduce it.

Stilwell was questioned concerning the purchase by his bank of notes of the now defunct H. O. Stone & Co. real estate brokerage. Investigation of this brokerage house will continue today.

FINES WAUKEGAN MARRIAGE MILL PROMOTER $50

Chester First, 38 years old, 26 North Park avenue, Waukegan, was fined $50 by Police Magistrate Clarence L. Brown of the suburb yesterday on a disorderly conduct charge resulting from an attempt to drum up a Gretna Green marriage business there.

The complaint against him was signed by Walter Hansen of Milwaukee, who said that he and his wife were driving near the Lake county courthouse Sunday night when First drove alongside and shouted: "Are you looking for the courthouse?" The Hansens paid no attention until First drove so close that their car was forced to the curb. Then First asked them if they wouldn't like to be directed to the proper person to be married, according to Hansen.

"It is this sort of thing that gave Waukegan the reputation of being a marriage mill," said Magistrate Brown in fining First.

WOMAN PURSE SNATCHER JAILED.

Mrs. Bertha Bode, 46 years old, 753 Diversey parkway, was sentenced by Judge Justin F. McCarthy to 35 days in the Bridewell yesterday for snatching a purse containing $11 a week ago from Miss Berenice Gleason, 5028 Sedgwick street.

Families

It takes a lot of food to supply 677,000 Families. In terms of cash, it will cost well over $250,000,000 to feed them during the coming year.

That is the actual food market covered by The Inquirer. Every Sunday it goes into 677,135 homes—over 150,000 more than any other Philadelphia newspaper, daily or Sunday. Likewise, the Inquirer with 278,360 daily circulation reaches thousands more readers than any other morning newspaper in Pennsylvania.

That is why National advertisers used more space and spent more money in the Inquirer during the first 8 months of 1935 than in any other Philadelphia newspaper.

The Inquirer with a combined Sunday and daily circulation of nearly a million, reaches 3 out of every 4 Philadelphia families. It gives more complete coverage of the rich Philadelphia market area than any other newspaper. It has the lowest milline rate in the city and one of the lowest in the country. That is why it leads in National advertising.

EUCHARIST NOTE SENT TO HAYES FROM PRESIDENT

Cardinal Is Welcomed as Papal Legate.

Cleveland, Sept. 23.—(AP)—To Patrick Cardinal Hayes of New York, papal legate to the seventh national eucharistic congress, and the congress itself, Postmaster General James Farley brought a message of greeting tonight from President Roosevelt.

The cabinet member, with an address stressing the theme of peace, led high secular authorities in welcoming the legate at a civic reception in public auditorium, where 17,000 persons filled the main hall and an adjoining one.

Farley read a letter written by President Roosevelt to Bishop Joseph Schrembs of the Cleveland diocese, president of the four day congress, which opened informally today with a liturgical reception for the cardinal.

Called Vitally Necessary.

"Conferences and religious assemblies such as your letter speaks of are vitally necessary for the welfare of our people and our nation," wrote the President.

"To know the principles of which are born that social justice and economic liberty which we all seek, a wisdom is needed that is more than any man or group of men in themseleves posessess. To follow those principles if and when we do see them requires a power greater than self, and which will conquer the instincts of personal and corporate selfishness."

The president quoted George Washington, saying "of all the dispositions and habits which led to political prosperity, religion and morality are indispensable supports."

"Fitting," Says Farley.

The postmaster general, speaking in his own behalf, described the congress as "a corporate act of faith in the blessed sacrament."

"Perhaps never in the history of the world, and never in the history of our country has it been more fitting to render public adoration to God than it is today," he said.

"The world today is filled with unrest. The rulers of nations are seemingly wholly concerned with material things, the spread of imperialistic power, the acquisition of wealth and prosperity, and in some nations where they feel that religion is an obstacle to the fulfillment of this materialistic program, they are occupied with the very destruction of belief in God. With such a philosophy there is no peace, there can be no peace."

AT ZUNI TOWN BARRYMORE TELLS OF ROMANCES

Gallup, N. M., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Love's pathway ran about as smooth as the Rocky mountains tonight for John "Great Lover" Barrymore.

Two pretty women on opposite sides of the continent discussed the 53 year old actor as—unshaven and nervous—he secluded himself in the Zuni Indian Pueblo fastnesses near here to "get away from things."

In Hollywood, his wife, the former Dolores Costello, was cold to all reports of Barrymore's hopes of reconciliation. Barrymore was undecided how long he would remain here.

In New York, 20 year old Elaine Barrie, his ex-protégée, said she hoped to get word to him soon. They parted last Thursday after a quarrel.

Barrymore had a good word for both women.

He said he was looking forward to a reunion with his wife, "a very lovely and gracious woman."

He expressed hope th t Miss Barrie, "a very talented actress, "would come to Hollywood.

Find Giant Mushroom in Stump

Stump Produces Again

Michael Bucko, 2939 Belmont avenue, knows about an old tree stump that is situated four miles west of Wauconda in Lake county. If the old stump keeps on delivering for Mr. Bucko, he thinks he will hold the title among local mushroom hunters for years to come. Last year he took a 45 pound cauliflower mushroom from the stump. Last Sunday he harvested another one 46 inches in diameter, which weighed 55 pounds.

NEW YORK PLANS WASHINGTON FAIR FOR YEAR 1939

New York, Sept. 23.—[Special.]—The board of estimate gave further impetus today to the plans for a $40,000,000 world fair in 1939 to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the New York inauguration of George Washington as the first President of the United States. The board authorized Mayor F. H. La Guardia to appoint a committee to prepare suitable plans. The city-owned Flushing Meadows park was selected as a site.

The divorce bill brought by Mrs. Estelle Wurster, 28 years old, 3836 Kenilworth avenue, against George Wurster, 49 years old, a printer, on the grounds of cruelty, was dismissed yesterday by Circuit Judge Philip Finnegan on the ground that the husband was living in the same bungalow with his wife and the couple were going to court together.

BOY, 8, DRIVES STRANGE AUTO THROUGH CROWD

St. Petersburg, Fla., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Ronnie Sommers, 8, with his 5 year old sister, Lois, as a passenger, drove an automobile through St. Petersburg's heaviest trafic last night.

Ronnie's small head was almost level with the steering wheel.

Ronnie and Lois slipped out of their home during the absence of their mother, Mrs. Harold N. Sommers. Ronnie led his sister to a Central avenue theater. There they climbed into a strange car. Ronnie got the machine away from the curb. He missed pedestrians, green benches, and other cars for ten blocks. Then he stopped the auto. "The car runs good," he said.

Meanwhile his mother and the car owner had reported to the police as to their losses.

WHAT TO WEAR AT INAUGURAL, MANILA'S PUZZLE

MANILA, P. I., Sept. 23.—(AP)—The question of what the well dressed man should wear arose today to plague officials preparing for ceremonies Nov. 15 inaugurating the Philippine commonwealth.

Secretary of War Dern, who will represent President Roosevelt, raised the question by cable. Ceremonies are set for 8:30 a. m. There is no precedent here as to formal attire at that hour.

In Japan or France evening clothes would be in order, the cutaway in America or England. Officials expect to make up their minds in a day or two. Then they'll advise Secretary Dern.

DROP PHILIPPINES TAX ON RICE TO RELIEVE HUNGER

Government Combats the Rising Prices.

MANILA, P. I., Sept. 23.—(AP)—In order to deal with rising prices and relieve distress, Gov. Gen. Frank Murphy today proclaimed a state of emergency exists with regard to rice.

He announced arrangements had been made to import rice, the Filipino's food staple, duty free. It will be sold by the government at cost.

The price of rice has been increasing for two weeks despite attempts of the government to keep it down. The situation was blamed on heavy damage done the crop in Luzon early in August.

Advises U. S. Protection.

Demonstrations last week against the mounting price led to a cabinet decision to order 50,000 sacks of rice from Saigon, French Indo-China, to be admitted duty free and sold at cost.

In the midst of preparations to establish the Philippine commonwealth government, Pedro Guevara, resident commissioner at Washington, warned the Filipinos tonight to take thought of the future and be prepared to petition the United States to establish a protectorate after a decade of transition preliminary to scheduled full independence.

Expects Tax Increases.

Taking a pessimistic view of the economic outlook for the Philippines, the commissioner predicted tax increases will be necessary immediately after the American free trade market is closed.

"I shudder to think of the situation that will follow," he added.

He expressed the opinion that if present difficulties over subleases in Davao province, where there are many Japanese farmers, should be repeated after independence from the United States, the "Japanese government will take measures immediately."

Wife Sues Realty Dealer 2 Months After Wedding

Married only two months, Mrs. Helen W. Metz, 5548 Harper avenue, filed suit for separate maintenance yesterday in Superior court from Oscar Metz, retired south side realty dealer. According to the bill, the couple were married last July 17 and separated Sept. 19. Mrs. Metz charged that her husband is domineered by his daughter of a former marriage and that the daughter interfered with their wedded life. In a request for allmony, Mrs. Metz alleges that her husband's income is $6,000 a month.

LEAVES HUSBAND

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Mary La Follette Sucher, sister of Senator Robert M. La Follette and Gov. Philip La Follette of Wisconsin, declined today to comment on reports that she planned to seek a divorce from Ralph Sucher, former Washington newspaper man.

She said, however, it was true she was separated from her husband. Since 1932 Sucher has been Washington counsel for the New York state power authority in charge of negotiations with the federal government on the St. Lawrence public power development.

Mrs. Sucher recently was appointed to a position in the Rural Resettlement administration as assistant to the director of the special skills division, art, education, handicraft.

SWEITZER'S SUIT FOR JOB TO BE HEARD ON OCT. 1

Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher yesterday set Oct. 1 as the date on which Robert M. Sweitzer, ousted county treasurer, must be prepared to try the quo waranto suit which he brought in an effort to regain the office from his successor, Joseph L. Gill. Attorney I. Harvey Levinson, counsel for Sweitzer, was given until Sept. 28 to file a replication for trial on the facts in the case.

Concord, N. H., Sept. 23.—(AP)—The recent establishment of a birth control clinic here was endorsed today in a resolution adopted at a meeting of the committee on social action of the New Hampshire Congregational-Christian conference.

UPHOLDS MOTHER RISKING LIFE TO SAVE HER CHILD

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 23.—(AP)—A mother does not show "culpable negligence" when she runs in front of a train in an effort to save her child, the Georgia Court of Appeals ruled today.

Mrs. Mary Alice Hollaran was awarded $4,500 damages by a lower court for the death of her child and for injuries received when she ran in front of a Southern railway train in an effort to save her 2 year old daughter.

The railway's motion for a new trial was denied by the lower court and appealed. The higher court today also denied the appeal.

"The law not only favors life saving," the court's opinion read, "but also recognizes the irresistable impulse which actuates a parent or other person in risking life to save a child."

BONUS VS. BOONDOGGLING.

It may be regarded as certain that the American Legion convention, in session at St. Louis, will again ask immediate payment of the bonus. It must be admitted that a fair examination of the veterans' arguments gives them a strong case.

What diehard opponents of the bonus overlook too often is that it is an admitted obligation of the United States. No one has ever suggested that that obligation be repudiated. The only question is when it is to be paid. The law now provides for payment in 1945. The Legion asks that the payment date be advanced to the present.

It is true, theoretically, that immediate payment would give the veterans something more than it was originally intended they should get. The adjusted compensation, or bonus, certificates were issued in 1925 in lieu of a general pension system, which gave such a scandalous aftermath to the civil war, and to a lesser extent to the Spanish-American war.

The men who had fought during the world war were told, in effect, that the government was giving them a certain sum for each day of service, arbitrarily fixed at a level intended to compensate for the difference between their service pay and what they would have earned had they remained in civil life. That sum was to be held and to earn interest for twenty years, at the end of which principal and interest were to be paid in a lump sum. Thus, in asking immediate payment, all the Legion is asking beyond what was originally promised is about nine years' compound interest.

The reckless spending policy of the present administration has weakened or nullified many arguments previously advanced against this suggested prepayment. The veterans have asked with considerable justification why, with all this money being thrown about, they should be objects of discrimination.

The danger to the Legion in pressing this particular argument too far is that history forgets details. The reaction against New Deal profligacy is already well under way. If, as a result of pressure from the Legion and other veterans' organizations, congress votes a new appropriation in January for immediate payment of the bonus, it is too likely that it will be remembered that the veterans joined the discredited Roosevelt treasury raid to the extent of two billions of dollars, and forgotten that the bulk of the two billions was already due them.

The possibility of any such stigma, just or unjust, can be avoided if the Legion will petition congress to pay the bonus at once from an appropriation already voted—namely, the four billion dollar works fund, now destined to be frittered away in boondoggling.

No one could justly resist such a plea. The boondoggling money, instead of being wasted, would be used for the retirement of a legitimate debt, a large proportion of which is already due. The cry that such a payment would be at the expense of the unemployed, while it would be raised, would be spurious. The remaining two billions of the works fund, properly disbursed as cash relief, would care for them just as efficiently as the rapidly crumbling works program promises to do. Any overpayment to the veterans of unearned interest, if any one wants to call it that, would be well worth while, for it would benefit the nation directly by disposing of a vexing political question and indirectly by saving it from the boondoggers' graft.

DOLLAR DIPLOMACY, NEW STYLE.

Senator Nye and Senator Wheeler have been in Cuba trying to induce the Cuban government to deal justly with American investors in Cuban bonds. Senator Nye has returned, but at last reports Senator Wheeler was still in Havana.

The situation is an extraordinary one. It compromises every one concerned. When a senator represents private interests in negotiation with a foreign government he places himself in an ambiguous position; and when he happens to be a leading administration senator the ambiguity becomes the more marked. In dealing with Mr. Nye and Mr. Wheeler the Cuban government will feel, rightly or wrongly, that to yield will be to make powerful friends in Washington, while to oppose will have the opposite effect. Mr. Nye and Mr. Wheeler may not be engaged in a shakedown, but the appearance of a shakedown is there and no doubt it has been noted in every foreign office the world around. The Cubans do not have to be reminded that all treaties are passed upon by the senate and that influential senators may have something to say about sugar quotas, as well.

Needless to say, the investors who have not been fairly treated are entitled to a vigorous presentation of their case and to the full support of the state department; but when the investors chose Mr. Nye and Mr. Wheeler as their spokesmen they were guilty of overreaching. As the two senators appear to have been unaware of the ambiguity of their position, or perhaps indifferent to it, the state department should have vetoed the selection. It could have done so with a frown.

Senatorial excursions into international finance and diplomacy illustrate once more the willingness of this administration to compromise decency and honor for the sake of a few votes in the senate. [Another illustration is provided by the silver purchase policy.] The other day the President said he had put an end to dollar diplomacy. He might better have called attention to the new form of dollar diplomacy which has sprung up in his administration, a form which characteristically tends to break down the constitutional separation of the executive and legislative functions of government. Mr. Nye and Mr. Wheeler are tyros at the game of international negotiation. Why they were chosen for the job, and why the state department has permitted them to act, may be left to them and the department to explain. They say they are receiving no fees for their services. Whether they are or not, a proper respect for their own honor and that of the country would have obliged them to refuse the appointment.

MAX, JOE, AND THE SPIRIT OF SCIENCE.

Moralists like to deride prize fighting as beneath the contempt of the thoughtful. They are all wrong. The ladies and gentlemen who gather at the ringside and the radio this evening are thereby giving evidence of their possession of the scientific spirit.

Much nonsense has been written to the effect that science is the art of precise measurement. If this were true a man who could measure a millionth of an inch would be a greater scientist than Pasteur, who could measure only a ten-thousandth. Obviously that is nonsense. In fact, science reduced to its simplest terms is merely the art of forecast. It follows that the scientific method is whatever method is required to produce an accurate prediction.

The purpose of science is nothing more and nothing less than the collection of so-called laws, each of which is merely a forecast that if you do so and so the result will be such and such. If you mix hydrogen and oxygen and apply a spark you will get an explosion and water. If you breed a horse to a donkey the offspring will be a mule and almost always will be sterile. Science advances as the forecasts become more accurate. When we know enough to predict at his conception that a particular mule—one in a million—will not be sterile, we shall have advanced science another notch.

It may be replied that all of this is measurably true, but what law of science is to be derived from the controled experiment in which Max and Joe are about to engage? The question misses the point. We do not argue that the Baer-Louis experiment is going to reveal much of consequence, but only that the large interest in forecasting the outcome is essentially scientific in character and that those who are showing an interest in the fight are going to be better scientists after the fight than before.

The first lesson that any scientist must learn is to rid himself of his prejudices. The fight will educate in this mental attitude. Some people are prejudiced against Joe because he is brown and others are prejudiced in his favor because he intends to live in Chicago. Some regard Max as an admirable public character, and others who can forgive and even envy his philanderings cannot forget his extra-noble observations following the Braddock fight and hope he chokes. All of these predispositions confuse judgment as to the outcome. A lot of people will have learned after it's over tonight not to let emotion color judgment.

O yes, may the better man win.

A PLEDGE TO BE TAKEN AND KEPT.

Former Lieut. Gov. John Oglesby, announcing his candidacy for governor, says: "My plans, however, are subject to the welfare and best interests of the Republican party. Harmony is more important than ever this year and I shall hold my personal ambition subordinate to my party's welfare and to the interests of the people of the state."

This, we are confident, is a sincere declaration which Mr. Oglesby will live up to and it sets a standard which every Republican candidate should adopt and loyally act upon. Never since the founding of the Republican party has it confronted graver responsibilities as an instrument of patriotic leadership and political action. These responsibilities transcend partisanship and personal interests, and it is certain that the rank and file of Republicans and millions of Democrats who refuse to assist their nominal leaders in repudiating the traditional principles of the Democratic party and subverting the American system of government will assay the claims of every candidate by the test of disinterested loyalty to the American order.

Every Republican candidate should take Mr. Oglesby's pledge and show that he means it.

Editorial of the Day

NO NEED TO DELAY.

[Rockford Register-Republic.]

It is the contention of Henry P. Fletcher, chairman of the Republican national committee, that his party should hold its 1936 convention after the Democrats have held theirs. He foresees that the majority party convention will be one largely of extoling the record of President Roosevelt and believes that the G. O. P. should wait until it can draw attention to the enemy platform and, incidentally, shoot a few holes in it while the Republicans have the center of the national stage.

Republicans have made it a traditional practice to hold their conventions first and beat the Democrats to the punch. The issues that will dominate the next presidential campaign are apparent now. These are the Roosevelt record; radical changes made or contemplated in our constitutional system of government; regimentation of business, industry, and agriculture; burocratic centralization of power in Washington; invasion of state rights.

The President has not been bashful in expressing resentment toward the Supreme court or outlining his plans for peaceful revolution in America. It would seem that the time for jockying over campaign issues is past. If the minority party has a well defined program in opposition to that of the President, it could not lose by announcing and adopting it in advance of the convention which selects Mr. Roosevelt as the standard bearer of the Democratic party for another four year term.

THOSE CUBS have won eighteen games in a row and only need two more to win the pennant. What is the necessity of playing the extra games? Eighteen in a row! What more does St. Louis want? Why don't their gosh darned Cardinals give up now and not put the Cubs to all the trouble of going down there to get the extra two games out of the five that's going to be played in St. Louis? Let the Cardinals say to the Cubs, as the coon in the top of the tree said to Davie Crocket when he saw the unerring marksman drawing a bead on him, "Don't shoot! I'll come down." And a word of warning to the Cardinals; if you don't concede the two games the Cubs will go down to St. Louis and take all five games. Put that in your pipe and smoke it, you Cards.

LADY AND THE LAW.

The rays of the sun descending in a shining track
To the asphalt, pass-halt corner of the street,
  At the hat shop, wine shop,
  Spat shop, sign shop,
Frock shop, and hock shop corner of the street.
Where the wagon wheels and rubber heels and skid chains greet,
Where the folks from Maine and Cactus Lane and Haiti meet,
That four corner, toot-horner section of the street

Now the sunshine splashes gayly on the black silk dress
Of a worried, hurried lady, most perplexed;
  Whom the street cars, tracked cars,
  Fleet cars, packed cars,
"L" cars, pell-mell cars have seriously vexed.
She's at a loss to get across all in a single piece,
She can't get by these cars that fly in streams that never cease;
Oh, if she knew, all she must do is simply shout "Police!"

Of a long, wide, throng-tied gentleman in blue,
Whose badge and club will tell you what his powers are:
  He's the law man, ruling man,
  Awe man, no-fooling man,
Tooting man, shooting man, standing there for you.
O timid, frowning, small, down-towning lady, have no fear;
And he's the Boss! You'll get across most carefully my dear.

The sun rays make a shining gem of every window glass
At that job scene, mob scene corner of the street
As the copper takes the lady's arm and toots, "They shall not pass!"
  The high-brow, red cars lie now as dead cars;
  The tall, massed deep cars fall fast to sleep cars;
The lady, wee, confidingly, steps across the traffic lane;
The officer that saw to her now gives with might and main
A whistle blow that signals, "Go!" The corner lives again!

THE TALKIES may be taking giant strides upward and onward, as Hollywood insists, but I've seen several lately and the lovely young heroine's voice still sounds as though she was talking with a clothespin on her nose, her mouth full of hot mush, and was sitting down in the bottom of an empty cistern. As for the gallant young hero, oh well, he still sounds like a boiler factory in full blast or steel riveters at work on a battleship. That is, that's the way it sounds to me. But when I mention it to a movie fan he stops speaking to me for a month. They say I lack artistic appreciation. Maybe, maybe!

THE NEW DEALERS have just run the alphabet ragged with all the combinations of letters they have made out of it, and they ought to fall back on figures. There's lots more figures than there are letters of the alphabet or combinations of letters. If they numbered their various groups and activities they keep right on numbering new plans up to a million. And after a million comes a billion. There's just no end to figures and it will give the alphabet a much needed rest.

ANOTHER USE FOR LIVER.

SINCE the time of that distinguished French neurologist, Jean Martin Charcot [1825-'93], disseminated sclerosis [a disease of the nervous system] has been the subject of much investigation. Literally hundreds of remedies have been suggested and their very multiplicity is proof of their ineffectiveness.

The three most prominent symptoms are: [1] Tremor, which appears when attempting some voluntary movement such as writing or lifting a cup to the lips; [2] speech disturbances with slow utterance, each syllable spoken separately, and [3] nystagmus, or movements of the eyeball from side to side. There are also difficulty in walking, dimness of eyesight, and frequently dizziness and headaches.

Some light has been shed on this slowly progressive disease by the report made three or four years ago by Goodall and Slater of Edinburgh, in which the feeding of liver was advocated. The idea occurred to them because of the rather marked improvement that followed the use of liver in spinal cord symptoms associated with pernicious anemia. They reasoned that the symptoms were probably the result of a deficiency of some food element, hormone, or vitamin that was supplied by liver. Lightly cooked, whole liver was used and their patients were instructed to consume half a pound daily.

Five cases were reported, of which two had been totally unfit for any sort of employment—one a mechanic, the other a housewife. The report states that the one who was utterly unable to stand on his feet "is now walking briskly." "A woman who could walk only with assistance can now walk well" and "one young woman who had given up games for two years can now play hocky."

The progress of the following case is rather striking. A mechanic, aged 25, complained of numbness of the fingers, double vision, weakness, and stiffness of the legs. The numbness had been present for over two years and double vision had appeared from time to time. The legs gradually became weaker and the patient had been unable to work for 18 months. On examination it was noted that the right leg tended to drag so that the toes often scraped the ground. There was a tremor on holding out the hands which greatly increased when movements were attempted.

Four months later he was definitly worse and was able, only with great difficulty, to walk with the aid of two canes. At that time liver feeding was begun and ten weeks later the patient was greatly improved and had been working at his occupation four hours a day for nearly one month. It was found that he could walk briskly without support, although there was some muscle weakness and a tendency to drag the right foot. All sensations of numbness and double vision had disappeared.

In a recent issue of the British Medical Journal another investigator, Gowlland, writes that a large number of cases of disseminated sclerosis have been under his care. Following Goodall's and Slater's experience, he began treating these cases with partially cooked liver, but after a few months was compelled, because of digestive symptoms, to substitute liver extract. The dose was the same as originally suggested—namely: liver or extract equivalent to one-half pound daily. Gowland's report says, "I am able to say definitly that 75 per cent of the cases which have been taking liver for the last three or four years have exhibited an arrest in the progress of the disease; all of them show a distinct improvement and the patients are most enthusiastic in attributing their gain in health to the ingestion of liver extracts."

The recent cases cited by Gowlland reenforce the original results of Goodall and Slater, and are too significant to be ignored. Apparently—as with pernicious anemia—liver feedings must be continued daily without interruption.

CYST IN BREAST.

E. A. writes: I have been told by a surgeon that I have a cyst in the left breast. There is no pain, but a lump. I am 24 years old.

1. Is there any possibility of such a cyst disappearing by itself?
2. Do you think an operation is advisable? Is such an operation serious?
3. Could anything more serious develop?

REPLY.

1. Yes.
2. As your physician is keeping careful watch for any changes, be guided by his judgment. The operation is not serious.
3. A malignant growth in a woman your age would be unusual.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.

After something is burned the pile of ashes is usually much smaller than the original substance. This is not true in all cases, for some substances increase in bulk when they are burned. A good example of this is the common substance, ammonium dichromate, which increases its bulk nearly ten times by being burned. The resulting heap of ashes is very porous and full of air. This substance is often used in commercial fireworks.

CONCERNING THE OAK PARK FLORIST.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—It seems to me that Peter Javaras might have been motivated by one of several reasons for acting as he did. First, it is better to be a live coward than a dead hero; second, perhaps he felt his debt to loved ones greater than to the public; third, he may have felt if he "gave his life for his friend," the greatest sacrifice a man can make, it would be in vain. He had no reason for thinking adequate protection would be given him any more than other witnesses who have disappeared or whose dead bodies have been found.

Why should a citizen be expected to make the supreme sacrifice and so little said about the ones who have taken an oath to protect the public, only to violate it?

THE HARRISON ACT.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—"The long arm of Uncle Sam apparently stands between us." This quotation is taken from a letter written to me, a physician, by a manufacturer of a very fine pharmaceutical preparation intended for the relief of pain and which contains a narcotic. The quotation is true! I am handicapped and other doctors are handicapped in their work of relieving pain by Uncle Sam and the operation of the Harrison narcotic law.

Your editorial on the subject was splendid, apt, and to the point, despite the efforts of Mrs. Bass, a federal jobholder, to shoot it full of holes.

THE PRESIDENT AND THE COURT.

Oak Park, Ill., Sept. 20.—Under existing circumstances it seems rather unwise to stress too much the dangers of constitutional amendment, as the constitution itself cannot be changed by any sleight of hand, and what "freeman," in God's name, desires to see his constitutional rights tampered with or the way made easy for the coming of a dictator?

The grave and immediate danger today is not that of a frontal attack on our basic law, but rather in purposeful misinterpretation and evasion of its provisions.

Our chief executive before his election to office made direct allusion to the possibility of the President packing the Supreme court with judges of like mind.

Look out! We have had experience with machine made minor judges, and what would-be dictator in history has ever hesitated to use whatever means lay within his power to gratify his lust for still more power? Suppose the senate must approve appointments to the Supreme court, there are machine made senators, too, and how much confidence can one impose in the present senate, for instance?

Is it improbable that the trap has been set? A rubber stamp congress has passed with shut eyes, on presidential orders not to worry about constitutionality, many arbitrary and pestiferous laws. May these laws later on be O. K.d by an enlarged and packed Supreme court? Perish the thought, but who will prevent it? We greatly need bigger and better senators, for one thing, and some real representatives in congress, for another. B. W.

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I notice Bernard B. Robinson, who was divorced in Reno, went to Reno to be remarried. Is there any legal reason for his so doing? F. R. C.

Presumably the divorce was secured in such circumstances that it was likely to be held void in the jurisdiction where the parties resided, and, if so, the new marriage would unquestionably be void there. The parties may have felt that by going to the jurisdiction in which the divorce was held valid they might claim the benefit of the ordinary rule that a marriage valid where celebrated is valid everywhere, but we doubt the applicability of this rule in the case in question. BONUS PAYMENT TO TOP LEGION'S '35-'36 PROGRAM

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 23.—(AP)—An American Legion program for 1935-'36 certain to feature cash payment of the bonus was in the making tonight as committees resumed work after today's colorful opening of the 1935 national convention.

Tomorrow, while committee members labor with business details, the overwhelming majority of at least 100,000 Legionnaires will celebrate with the annual parade.

Regular convention sessions will be resumed Wednesday. Before then, more than 700 resolutions must be considered by committee. Almost half of them deal with rehabilitation of war disabled soldiers and care of their dependents.

Interest in Bonus.

National interest in the convention centers on the veterans' action on the bonus, and members of the legislation committee left the convention hall today with National Commander Frank N. Belgrano's views on the subject still ringing in their ears.

Reading from his annual report, the commander laid defeat of the bonus at the last session of congress to the inclusion in the Patman bill of provisions for its payment through the issuance of new currency.

The bonus considered on its merits, the commander asserted, had "a fair chance of passage." Saddled with an inflation clause, "a subject more controversial than the bonus itself," he said it was doomed from the beginning.

None Want Inflation.

It was considered significant that none of the 45 submitted bonus resolutions want the bonus hinged with inflation or other "unrelated matter." All ask for payment at full face value, with cancelation of accrued interest and refund of interest already paid.

Overwhelming adoption of a bonus resolution is a certainty, and it is likely that this year, at least, the Legion will avoid any reference to a method by which the government can finance the payment.

Ending two days and a night of preconvention gaiety, Legionnaires were slow in gathering today in the newly completed convention hall.

Few Listen to Speeches.

Only a few remained during the whole of the tedious, three hour session which followed the usual pattern of opening convention meetings. Dignitary after dignitary paraded across the stage, spoke briefly and gave way to another equally important personage.

Martial music by the Legion's champion band from the Franklin post of Columbus, O., and by its champion drum and bugle corps from Marlboro, Mass., stirred the spirit and enthusiasm of the crowd during the session.

WOUNDED G. O. P. CHIEF GIVEN EVEN CHANCE TO LIVE

Edward Arendt, 40 years old, Republican committeeman of the 15th ward who was shot in the groin Sunday night, was given an even chance of recovery yesterday by physicians attending him in the Holy Cross hospital. Arendt was fired on by one of two men in an automobile before his sister's home at 6444 South Maplewood avenue. He said he recently had trouble with James Downs, a police character and formerly one of Arendt's precinct workers.

Downs and Arendt, who lives at 5915 Fairfield avenue with his wife and 10 year old son, were formerly in the alcohol business, police said. In 1934 Downs helped Arendt to be elected committeeman. Last week, Arendt told police, he expelled Downs from the Republican ward organization.

"'Arendt says he is sure Downs was not one of the men who shot him,' said Acting Capt. William Collins of the Oak Lawn station. "I don't think he knows who shot him but I believe he knows why he was shot. But he didn't give us any reason. Downs has not been found."

LIPSTICK AND 2 HAIRPINS CLEWS IN ROAD SLAYING

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Two hairpins, a lipstick, and an empty wallet gave investigators of New York state's "Scotland Yard" two lines of investigation to night as they pressed for a motive for the mysterious slaying of a prominent young Glens Falls resident.

The victim was M. Earl Davidson, 28, whose bullet pierced body was found yesterday along the highway.

The hairpins and lipstick were taken from Davidson's car 250 feet from the point where his body was discovered. His empty wallet was picked up from a Glens Falls street 24 hours before friends found him dead along the roadside.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Big Fodder Yield.

September 23, 1935.

HIGH yielding hybrid corns at the Tribune Experimental farm near Wheaton made it possible to fill two silos having a total capacity of about 170 tons from 21 acres of corn. A bumper crop of silage material was produced on nine acres of hybrid corn out of the 21 acres used in filling the silos. The hybrids yielded approximately ten tons to the acre while the eleven acres of yellow dent corn produced an average of about seven tons per acre.

The job of filling the silos was completed last week at the Wheaton farm. The hybrid corn had an average of about one and one-half ears per stalk, while the other corn, grown chiefly for grain, produced one ear to the stalk, according to Carl Henderson, farm manager.

Harvesting soy beans and filling silos are the two main jobs on the work schedule at the Tribune farm near Yorkville and Plano. Clarence Thurow, farm manager, said today that he expected to finish harvesting 38 acres of soy beans by the middle of this week.

Mr. Thurow says he is pleased with the showing a hay mixture of soy beans made in a test conducted at the farm this year. He estimates that this mixture made of six different varieties of soy beans—Virginia, Wisconsin, Dunfield, Illini, Ebony, and Manchu—is yielding approximately 4 tons of hay to the acre. This is about a half ton per acre more than seventeen acres of the Illini variety produced in a nearby field.

A modern toolshed is to be built on the Tribune Experimental farm near Wheaton this fall. Before the plans are drawn a search will be made for the best ideas on building a shed that will house the farm's tools in an economical and practical way.

The farm manager, Carl Henderson, invites readers of THE TRIBUNE to send in their suggestions as to the size of the building needed not only for housing the tools but a shed that can be equipped with a modern shop where implements can be repaired and painted during the winter months and put in first class shape for the following season's work. He seeks suggestions on the kind of material to use and the best arrangement for tools. Mr. Henderson wishes a scheme for checking tools out to workmen on the farm so that each hammer, saw, wrench, chisel or punch always will be handy and ready for use.

To give readers some idea of the space that will be needed Mr. Henderson gives the following list of the main implements used in running the farm of 1,000 acres: Tractors, 3; plows, 4, including two 2-bottom gangs; harrows, 5; corn binder, one 1-row with loader attachment; mowing machines, 2; combine harvester for threshing grain, 1; mechanical hay loader, 1; hay baler, 1; hay rakes, 4—one side-delivery and three bull rakes; mechanical hay stacker, 1; spray tank on wagon, 1; water tank on wagon, 1; silage cutter, 1; hay cutter, 1; cultivators, 3; buzz saw, 1; hay racks, 3; wagons, 3, and manure spreader, 1. In addition space must be provided for many small hand tools, including spades, hoes, rakes, forks, etc.

Readers are invited to send in complete plans or suggestions dealing with any part of the plan of building a combination toolshed and shop equipped with the necessary tools and devices for efficient indoors work in repairing farm implements.

PERSHING LAUDS VETERANS WITH PARIS MESSAGE

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Gen. John J. Pershing, commander of the American expeditionary forces during the world war, sent word of his inability to attend the 17th annual convention of the American Legion here today as he congratulated the veterans as the "bulwark of the nation." He is in Paris, where his health is not good.

"As the years go by, and they are passing with astonishing rapidity, I feel an ever increasing affection for the men who fought the nation's battles in the world war," said the cablegram, which was read to the convention by National Commander Frank N. Belgrano Jr.

"Our ranks are growing thinner, but our hearts beat as strongly in the cause of freedom as in those trying days when facing the enemy on foreign soil. No general ever led such an army of soldiers.

"In valor and in the courageous fulfillment of their obligations, the men of the American expeditionary forces have left a heritage of which those who follow may ever be proud. The loyal men of that army are becoming more and more the bulwark of the nation. No body of citizens are truer to the principles for which succeeding generations of Americans have fought."

Scarfs also come in Saddle leather tones

It's new to have your bag and shoes of colored suede.

You can match your wines and greens even to hosiery!

Rust and black is a color sensation

Color was triumphant in every single Paris collection this season—and color is triumphant today in the collections of Marshall Field & Company. All the colors that have been making fashion news are represented in our new collections from the rich deep new basic browns, greens and wines to the thrilling "painter" colors of the Italian Renaissance and exotic shades of the orient.

The biggest fashion story, however, lies not so much in the colors themselves as in the way they are combined.

This season you'll feel smart wearing colors you wouldn't have thought of combining in other seasons. For example, you can wear green and wine together—or if nothing can take the place of black in your life you can wear the new wine tone accessories with it.

If brown is becoming, have an outfit in the new Manoa brown and wear green with it. It's a great season for green; everything from dark Pine green to yellow Chive green goes.

If blue is lovely on you, have something blue—if it's royal blue you can wear it with black. And don't neglect rusts and russets for the country.

For evening, bright red, oriental purple, silver and gold lames are news.

These are just a few suggestions to whet your color appetite. For a thousand and one ideas on the new colors and their combinations see our Apparel, Accessory and Fabric Departments.

Sky Ride Is Melted Into Stacks of Iron Bars.

The magic city that was the World's Fair has been leveled, but the material from which it was built will continue to be used throughout the country in forms unrecognizable by the millions of exposition visitors, it was learned yesterday.

Only the Travel and Transport building, with its suspended roof, and the steel work of the Home Planning building, are still standing, and they will be demolished before Nov. 30, the deadline for clearing the fair grounds. The wrecking project was started last February by the Barker, Goldman, and Lubin company of Springfield, who paid A Century of Progress $28,000 for the material to be salvaged.

Fencing is Snapped Up.

The steel fencing has been purchased mainly by factories and schools. Purdue university has a half mile of it. The streamlined trains of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad are flanked by sections of the World's Fair fence on sidings at Roosevelt road.

Most of the structural steel has been taken by brokers for future sale to various users. Four barge-loads aggregating 2,000 tons were sent to the Long Island Construction company in New York.

A carload of the steel went to a granite quarry at Oglesby, Ga., and two carloads to be used in erecting distillery buildings went to Ruffs Dale, Pa. Some of it will be used in paper mill structures at Appleton, Wis., and some will be melted down into "pigs" to be fashioned anew at steel mills in the Chicago area. [This was the fate of the Sky Ride towers.]

Several sections of Fair structures were sold complete, to be reërected elsewhere. The south wing of the Travel and Transport building will be a market building at Muskegon, Mich., and the north wing an addition to a candy factory at Bloomington, Ill. Portions of the Hall of Science and the Electrical buildings were sold in like manner.

Much to Go Back on Market.

Electrical materials such as wire, conduit, and switches, went to an Indianapolis concern to be cleaned and sorted for the market. Plumbing fixtures were purchased by a Chicago supply firm for re-sale. The Otis Elevator company repurchased the equipment it had installed in the Sky Ride, and it will be sold again.

Ten million feet of wall board, both plywood and plaster board, was sold to companies and to individual users, including farmers who called for it themselves. Much of the plywood sheets will be used by building contractors to make cement forms. The plaster board, damaged as it was removed from the structures, provided work for many men since it had to be sawed to smaller sizes.

Piling is Sawed Up.

The salvaged lumber will be used in building throughout the middle west. The wrecking company encountered difficulty in selling the soft wood pilings which were used as foundations for the temporary exposition structures, so a small sawmill has been set up to convert the round pieces into boards. Even the slabs and sawdust resulting from this conversion are sold.

The best market was that for the 7,000 flood lights which illuminated all building exteriors at the Fair. These are now being used to light rock-gardens, gasoline filling stations, theater stages, store display windows, and football and baseball grounds, in various parts of the country.

Pumps and motors constructed specially for the giant fountain in the North lagoon are awaiting a user in the warehouse of the Midland Steel and Equipment company in Chicago, which purchased them.

FARMERS ESCAPE PRISON TERMS; PROBATION WON

St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Probations ended the threat of prison walls today for 12 farmers, members of a mob which violently stopped a farm foreclosure sale at Plattsburg, Mo., Aug. 15.

"I trust you will go back to your homes, harvest your crops and restore your good character," said Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves who Saturday heard their guilty pleas and gave them sentences ranging up to three years for contempt and conspiracy to interfere with a federal officer.

Two of the farmers, one of them Sam Divelbiss Sr., 70, whose farm was up for sale, wept today as they left the courtroom.

Eleven were placed on probation for two years. Clifton Gall of Turney, secretary of the Farmers Protective association and alleged leader of the mob, was placed on a five year probation. Two other farmers completed jail sentences of one day.

FIND TRACES OF ANCIENT PEOPLE ON ARCTIC LAND

OMSK, Siberia, Sept. 23.—(AP)—An expedition of the Soviet Institute of Anthropology and Ethnology reported today it had found traces of an ancient civilization near the barren Yamal peninsula north of the arctic circle where there are only a few, widely scattered inhabitants.

The peninsula is directly south of the sea area where the soviet ice breaker Sadko recently discovered a submerged mountain chain, believed by soviet scientists to be part of a land which sank into the ocean long ago.

Digging at the mouth of the Polui river, members of the expedition reported, they found bones of animals and birds which no longer inhabit the northern regions, and discovered thousands of combs, spoons, agricultural implements and bronze weapons, as well as carved mammoth bones.

DECIDE BILLINGS MUST TESTIFY AT MOONEY'S TRIAL

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Warren K. Billings, the state Supreme court ruled today, will be brought here from Folsom prison to appear at Tom Mooney's habeas corpus hearing. Mooney is seeking his liberty on the contention he was convicted of bombing the 1916 Preparedness day parade through perjured testimony.

Billings, convicted with Mooney of murder for the parade blast, had threatened to block the hearing by injunction if he was not permitted to testify.

Reversing its previous decision, the court ruled Billings should be present after Assistant Attorney General William Cleary concurred in a motion of Mooney's counsel.

The habeas corpus session was adjourned while George T. Davis of the Mooney defense sought an immediate order from the court to permit Billings to leave Folsom.

SKELETONS MAY REVEAL FATE OF DANISH VESSEL

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Seven skeletons on the sands of southwest Africa may help to disclose the fate of the famous Danish training ship, the bark Kjoebenhavn, unreported since she sailed with a crew of 62 from Buenos Aires Dec. 14, 1928.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

A trouper to the last, DeWolf Hopper, who died yesterday in Kansas City went on the air Sunday afternoon as commentator for the regular concert by the Kansas City Symphony orchestra over NBC networks despite efforts of his physician and Jules Herbuveaux, local NBC production man, to dissuade him. During the musical numbers of the program he jested with associates, recalling that he had played with Ethel Barrymore's grandmother, and also with John Drew Colt, her son, comprising four generations of Barrymores. The engagement with young Colt was also on the air, last New Year's day over CBS. After the broadcast Hopper admitted he was sick and yielded to entreaties to go to bed.

Hopper had been identified with radio for several seasons. For two years he had been flying from Chicago to Kansas City every Saturday and returning on Mondays. His famed "Casey at the Bat" had been heard on the air many times, including a broadcast during the world series of 1932. Hopper had also appeared on the Silken Strings program and the National Farm and Home hour.

Ben Bernie yesterday turned down an opportunity to supplant Al Jolson as master of ceremonies on that NBC Saturday night variety hour. Jolson is retiring to concentrate on movie work. Bernie has a year's contract with his present sponsors which calls for exclusive services. He may seek permission to serve as guest m. c. on Saturday, Oct. 12, however. The Doring Sisters of W-G-N will be Bernie's guests at 8 tonight on WMAQ.

When Sentimental Selma, Katherine Avery's Swedish dialect comedy sketch, returns to the air over W-G-N at noon today on a three a week basis, listeners will learn something about Greta Garbo's home life. The scene is laid in the home of Garbo's chauffeur. Real life details are being provided as background by Jerry Potter, the Garbo press agent. Katherine will play Selma, the cook; Maxine Garner the maid, and Henry Hoople the chauffeur.

In a dramatized forecast of the Baer-Louis fight during "Grandstand Thrills" over W-G-N at 7:30 last night the Brown Bomber was proclaimed the winner by a technical knockout in the fifth round. Compare that with Clem McCarthy's report on WMAQ, WENR at 9 o'clock tonight.

Mario Chamlee will sing "Missing You," a new song by Charlotte Caldwell, Chicago composer, on his "Tony and Gus" broadcast over WENR-NBC at 6:15 this evening. . . NBC is joining the broadcasters who will report the Cubs-Cardinals series from St. Louis beginning tomorrow. W-G-N and WBBM already had announced their plans to carry the five game string. . . Gertrude Niesen will be guest soloist on the Welcome Valley show at 7:30 tonight over WLS-NBC.

Grace Dunn, young WCFL torch singer, is to get her first big network break next week when she is starred with Art Kassell's orchestra and the Mills brothers on the new NBC Elgin show. Grace has gone to Memphis where she is breaking in with Kassell's crew.

Burroughs. Tully pleaded guilty to beating and raping Juanita Sheppard, 16, of Westwood, Cal., after a party. The young man, who had been working in a lumber camp, was held in a jail at Westwood until men of that place threatened to lynch him, following the story told by the girl's parents. He was brought to Susanville as it was believed he would be safer here.

Relieved His Own Mother's Torturing Neuritis Pain

So quickly does Nurito ease the torturing pain of sciatica, rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago and neuritis that the head of the syndicate which purchased this eminent Specialist's prescription treated his own mother with it. Although 73 years old, she found great comfort through it. Other sufferers the country over report the same quick and joyous relief from pain after a few doses of Nurito. Best of all—it has eased their suffering without the use of narcotics or opiates. If you're tired of using ineffective remedies make this simple test. Go to your druggist and ask for Nurito. If the very first three doses do not relieve the most intense pain, your money will be refunded without question. Don't waste a single unnecessary minute—go to your druggist right now.

MAKER OF TIDE FORECASTER IS BURIED AT 73

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Ernst Georg Fischer, 73, who put together an instrument of brass and cogs and chain, which, with the turn of a crank, can forecast the height of the tide at any given place at any time, was buried today.

Fischer retired from the coast and geodetic survey thirteen years ago, but the machine he put together is still grinding out the predictions for mariners.

The machine, said by scientists to be the most elaborate of its kind in the world, makes 37 different mathematical calculations at the turn of a crank and sets down the result in a wavy line that plays above and below a straight horizontal one.

Scientists say the machine makes forecasts that come within an inch of the height and six minutes of the hour 85 per cent of the time. Sudden storms, unpredictable in advance, account for its greatest variations.

LOUIS J. ALTHEN, ELGIN RESIDENT 67 YEARS, DIES

Louis J. Althen, 72 years old, for 67 years a resident of Elgin and a member of the Kane county board of supervisors for 12 years, died unexpectedly of a heart attack yesterday while working in the yard at his home, 326 North Crystal street. For many years Mr. Althen was associated with his father, Caspar Althen, and brothers, Emil and Edward, in the old Elgin Eagle Brewing company, a concern which ceased operations with the advent of prohibition. The funeral will be held at 9:30 Thursday morning from St. Laurence's Catholic church, with burial in Bluff City cemetery, Elgin.

Good Morning!

To whit to whoo!
What's fun for the gander
Why the goosie can do. . . .

"The Goose and the Gander"—adapted from the stage play—is a sophisticated, slightly naughty and quite amusing comedy.

The action revolves around the original method employed by a beautiful and brainy divorcée in getting even with a one time husband and his present wife, which lady had been the "other woman" in the charming avenger's life.

By clever ruse Georgianna lures to her mountain cabin said husband and wife and Bob McNear, the chap with whom Betty is now conducting an intrigue. [She and Betty, it would seem, have an identical taste as regards the opposite sex.]

It's not in the plan that a pair of slick hotel thieves, a man and woman wanted by the police, also turn up.

Developments are unexpected and diverting. They provide laughs aplenty and are tinctured with just enough suspense to keep your interest sizzling.

Miss Francis and George Brent make a delightful team. Besides their good looks both are blessed with warmth and humor—two qualities that always go over with an audience.

Genevieve Tobin as the second Mrs. Summers is brittle, pretty, selfish, and unmoral. Ralph Forbes plays the sticky Summers stickily. William Austin as his snooping brother is the pill the scenario calls for.

The supporting cast is good and the director had just the light touch the story needed.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

In makeup this winter eyes are the feature given the most attention. A bit of shadow, chosen after careful experimentation, intensifies the natural color and makes the eyes look larger.

The experts tell us that no single phase of facial beauty will be so important this year as the eyes. You've got to give them all the attention and beautifying you can manage and to top that you should get all imbued with sweetness and light so their expression won't upset the beauty cart. It's as true today as it was when Eve was runing around in fig leaves that hate and hardness in general eat eye beauty away.

But you'll have to work out your own philosophy; we can only tell you about the superficial assistance that's lined up for you on cosmetic counters everywhere. Probably the most important of these is shadow, these creamy pastes that kindly lend the illusion of depth of color and better size to almost any eye. The only time we've seen the use of a bit of shadow a mistake was when eyes were unusually deep set, as sometimes happens. If yours are deep set be wary. But if they aren't give yourself the beauty benefit of shadow skillfully blended on the upper lid.

We're of the opinion that flat rules about shadow shades are something of a mistake. Eye colors sometimes react in surprising fashion. Some brown eyes can't stand brown shadow—they just look like two brown smudges; others take it beautifully. Blue eyes usually can take blue, but sometimes the plays on blue—like blue-gray or blue-violet—are much better choices.

So, if you take our advice you'll experiment for yourself, keeping your own eye coloring and the color of your costume in mind. We know one young woman with brown eyes and medium blonde hair who looks like the lady that launched those ships when she puts on a bit of brilliant green shadow and wears her favorite black and white. This doesn't seem logical according to theory, but in practice it works.

The woods are full of eye shadows and the best you can do is try them. "What shade should I wear?" is a hard question for any beauty editor to answer.

Women Hold Powwow Today at Onwentsia

Monkey Golf on Program This Afternoon.

BY JUDITH CASS.

GOOD golf weather is the order for today from the women golfers of the Onwentsia club, for this morning at 10 o'clock they will gather for their annual powwow. Before luncheon the golf will be serious and each fair golfer will be doing her best to keep her score low. But after luncheon the fun will start, for monkey golf will be in order, and, as the name indicates, this is a game in which there is much monkey business.

The match will be a four hole one and most of the contestants will use but one club for the entire match. Another feature of the afternoon will be an obstacle approach-in-putting contest in which steeplechase jumps will be the obstacles.

Immediately after luncheon there will be a meeting to elect officers to direct the athletic activities of the women for the coming year. Mrs. Charles Dennehy is this year's golf chairman and Mrs. John Peale Bent is tennis chairman. Both are the club champions in their particular lines, too, but Mrs. Dennehy will not be playing golf today because of an injured back. There will be tennis for those who do not golf.

The women of the club never have carried out the idea of a powwow to the extent that the men do, for the latter wear Indian headdresses and have the dining room decorated in Indian style for the dinner that is given on the Saturday night of the two day powwow. This year the men will have their powwow next Saturday and Sunday.

The two young Mrs. Piries, Mrs. John T. Jr. and Mrs. Robert S., are among the Onwentsia's good golfers, and among others who play regularly and who will be at today's affair are Mrs. Donald B. Douglas, Mrs. Mason Phelps, Mrs. George F. McLaughlin, Mrs. Kent Chandler, Mrs. Frank E. Wilhelm, Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin II., and Mrs. Albert A. Sprague.

Two More Ushers for Fairbank-Cornell Wedding.

Two other of Kellogg Fairbank Jr.'s Harvard classmates have been added to the list of ushers for the Fairbank-Cornell wedding Saturday in Lake Geneva. They are William Merwin Randol Jr. of New York, who roomed with Mr. Fairbank in Cambridge, and Robert Walker Smith of Chicago.

Tonight Mr. Fairbank's cousins, Mrs. Frederick Hauck and Mrs. Louis F. Swift Jr., are entertaining at dinner at the residence of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Chase, in Lake Forest for Mr. Fairbank and his bride-to-be, Miss June Cornell.

Mrs. Swift came last week from her home in Fort Worth, Tex., to visit the Chases and to remain until after her cousin's wedding.

Day Nursery Benefit

Mrs. William Hunt is a new member of the board of directors of the North Avenue Day nursery and so is one of the young women working for the success of a benefit ball the directors will give next Saturday night at the Drake hotel. For the last few years the directors have given a costume party each fall, but this year they are not asking the guests to wear entire fancy dress, just headdresses. There will be many dinner parties before the ball.

Best Summer Dress Styles Copied in Wool

Slim Models Just Thing with Swagger Coats.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Some fertile brain has copied and adapted in wool, for fall wear, some very successful silk numbers that everybody liked last summer.

They are just what you need for your swagger coats in plaids and corduroys. They are very slim, straight, young, and dashing, but nothing infantile. There's one gray wool with four patch pockets with circular cut flaps, a snug waistline, smooth hipline, and long sleeves—a dress to wear under one of those wild big plaid or checked wool swaggers as a calming influence for the ribald color and contrast in the swagger coat. Or you could wear it under a gunmetal corduroy coat, under a gold colored corduroy, or a bright, cheery red wool with a French blue scarf muffled around the neck.

Shirtwaist dresses in wools are better than ever, miles away from the rather prim things they sound like, very young and slim. The tricky pockets, shirred yokes, inset sleeves, fancy cuffs and collars give just the right degree of flippancy to redeem the otherwise practical aspect of these popular dresses. You can find two and one piece models, all of them in featherweight wools, almost all of them made with long semi-fitted sleeves and smooth long streamlines with the right degree of fashionable flare at the hemline of the skirt.

With such a dress or outfit, the sky is the limit for your imagination with belts, scarves, clips, jewelry, and handkerchiefs as startling color accents. And these are the dresses to wear with your giddiest silk taffeta slips and underskirts. The white dotted navy, brown, and red affairs are perfect under brown, dark gray, or navy wool daytime clothes of this kind.

Banquet High Point of Polish Women's Alliance Convention

Twelve hundred members of the Polish Women's alliance, their husbands and their sweethearts, crowded the Grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman last night for a banquet that had Polish-American good will for its keynote. The occasion was a feature of the seventeenth biennial convention of the national organization now in session in Chicago.

Miss Emily Napieralski, national president, occupied the center place at the flower banked speakers' table. Flanking her to the right and left were more than 50 special guests of Polish ancestry or persons who have been recognized by the Polish government.

Chauncey McCormick, who won a Polish decoration several years ago, was one of these guests. Others were Waclaw Gawronski, Polish consul general in Chicago; Anthony Czarnecki, Postmaster Ernest J. Kreutgen, Attorney General Otto Kerner, judges, and other public officials.

Broadway Applauds Pacifist Play by the Rev. John H. Holmes

New York, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The Rev. Dr. John Haynes Holmes, pastor of the Community church, transferred his crusade for world peace from the pulpit to the Broadway stage tonight when a pacifist play of his joint authorship was presented to a cheering audience.

The play, called "If This Be Treason," was written in collaboration with Reginald Lawrence and produced by the Theater Guild.

Its story deals with a hypothetical war with Japan contrived by the predecessor of the new President of the United States. It is the argument of Dr. Holmes and his collaborator that it is better for the powers to discuss peace terms before men have been killed in battle.

Detroit Music Groups Will Present Opera in English on Tour

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 23.—(AP)—The Detroit Civic Opera society, the Detroit Symphony orchestra and the Arts of Musical Russia, a New York organization, have joined in a project which Thaddeus Wronski, executive director, predicted today may eventually lead to a national opera in the United States.

Wronski said the three musical groups would combine in producing Lodovico Rocca's lyric drama, "Dybbuk" [The Demon], in eight American cities this season. The English translation of the work will have its world premier in Detroit. Chicago will be included in the tour.

"Why do you say that?" inquired the passenger.

"Well, there are people humming in the building all day, and when I stop on the fourth floor I can hear people yelling in three languages," he explained.

MOVIE advertisment. . . .

IT seems we overlooked the little town of Siltz, near Innsbruck, on the recent European journey about which you probably wish I'd stop writing. Also Mr. Speckbacher. Mr. Spechbacher is an innkeeper, according to Bert Hoagland of Chicago, and a descendant of the Speckbacher—or was it Spechbacher?—who, with Andreas Hofer, famous Tyrolese patriot, won undying fame in the war with Bavaria. How he failed to get a monument in the beer garden on the hill above Innsbruck or in the platz at Kitzbühel, or in numerous other spots in Austria, I cannot say. He didn't even make the pronouncing biographical supplement in the dictionary.

The thing that made me regret not meeting Mr. Speckbacher, and conversing with him over his wine and sausages at the long trestle table before his inn by the roadside is what Mr. Hoagland tells us about the manner in which he has kept up his English. When Mr. Speckbacher was a very young man he migrated to America and ultimately found employment in a butcher shop in Montana. He found there, through a surprising coincidence, a man from his native city running the butcher shop. He stayed there for some time, but forty years ago he returned to his birthplace and took over the inn. He took back with him a great many copies of "Nick Carter," "Deadwood Dick," "The James Boys," and other 5 cent thrillers of a half century ago, and he has kept his English polished up all these years by rereading them. Phrases such as "bit the dust" frequently creep into his conversation.

AND now I suppose I had better write finis to the travel items. Although I did want to tell you about a Brittany "pardon"; and more about the Mere Poulardo omelets at Mont St. Michel; and about Rouen, and the modern statue of Joan of Arc in the old market place where she was burned. And about the exquisitely beautiful ruined abbey at Jumieges, and the delightful provincial inn at Du Clair, where we ate pressed duck washed down with excellent Burgundy, and a heavenly soufflé on a balcony practically overhanging the Seine.

BORDER BREED

By William MacLeod Raine

SYNOPSIS.

Young Dan Clifford is driving a mule team carrying freight when he meets and befriends 17 year old Milly Sutherland. She and a young brother and sister are en route to Los Pinos, wild border town of the untamed west. Their father died on the way. In Los Pinos Dan has a run-in at The Last Chance with Jasper Ford, gambler and killer. Through Polly Doble, Dan gets Milly work washing, and Ah Sin, a Chinaman, to help her. Jasper Ford orders Dan to leave town. Dan knows it is wise to obey. Dan's friend, Sam Jones of the Rangers, appeals to Ford without effect. When Ford forces his attentions on Milly, Dan knocks him into the creek, then forces him to accompany him to The Last Chance for a drink for his chill. The public humiliation infuriates Ford.

INSTALMENT VIII.

DAN ACCEPTS A CHALLENGE.

"Obigod, don't shoot, boy," a voice called.

The mule skinner's laugh was pitched to a high note. Now that the crisis was momentarily past he was feeling a reaction. "Got to save my bullets for some one else," he said.

Jones linked an arm in his. "Let's go where we can talk."

He moved toward the river.

"I sure have spilled the beans," Dan said.

The ranger chuckled. "Spilled a whole potful of hot ones on Jas Ford and his friends."

"They would have bumped me off right there in the Last Chance if you hadn't stood up to 'em," Dan said gratefully.

"Maybe. But, boy, you started something."

"Something I can't finish. The whole gang will be down on me now."

"On you and me, too. But we've got the scalawags thinking. Mulrooney and the freighters will stand by you. So will a lot of other good citizens who have put up with a lot. You're not playing a lone hand now."

"I'll be playing one, won't I, when Jasper Ford turns his guns loose on me?"

"If he does. Let's wait and see. You hole up until that wolf has declared himself."

Ford declared himself promptly. Mulrooney came to Dan with news while the boy was eating breakfast next morning.

"He's got you posted on the big tree," the wagon boss announced.

"A challenge?"

"You done called the turn." Mulrooney took an envelope from his pocket. "I copied it on an old letter."

He handed the envelope to Jones, who was eating with his friend. The ranger read aloud:

"A contemptible pup who calls himself Daniel Clifford has in-sulted me. I serve notice on him to go armed, as I intend to kill him at sight. At 2 o'clock this afternoon I shall be waiting at the corner of San Antonio and River streets. If he has a spark of manhood he will not skulk out of this meeting."

"A contemptible pup who calls himself Daniel Clifford has insulted me."

"He gave the date and signed it Jasper Ford," Mulrooney mentioned.

Dan put down his coffee cup and looked across the table at a picture on the wall. He said nothing. The elation of the evening before had died down in him. He had let himself be maneuvered into a situation from which there was no escape.

"I have teams going out today," Mulrooney went on. "What say I get you out of town covered up in one of the wagons?"

"No," said Dan.

"You hate to back water," the wagon boss continued. "Nobody enjoys that, but once in a while a fellow has to crawfish. This Ford is a dead shot. He always gets his man. You wouldn't have a look-in, boy."

"I know." Dan moistened his dry lips with the tip of his tongue. "But I've made my brags. I've got to stay."

"But he doesn't have to fight this man-killer with pistols," the ranger said.

"What with, then? Rifles—sawed-off shotguns?" Mulrooney asked.

"No." Jones stroked a stubbly chin. "Dan here is the challenged party. This Ford claims he is a southern gentleman. Of course the best people where he came from wouldn't spit on him, but that ain't the point. He's always made that play about his honor. We'll call it. Dan has the choice of weapons. The code Ford talks about so much says so. Good enough."

Dan frowned at his friend, trying to get his meaning. "If you're thinking of a fist and skull fight in a ring, you can forget it. Ford wouldn't go in for it. He would claim only ruffians fought thataway."

"I wasn't thinking of that," the ranger said with a grin. "How would you like to have Ford carve you with a Bowie knife?"

"I wouldn't like it," Dan said promptly. "Once a drunken teamster drew a knife on me and I certainly split the wind getting away."

"Most men would feel like that." To this the rawboned ranger added a casual rider. "Ford, for one, I'd bet a dollar Mex against a chew of tobacco."

"You couldn't get him to fight in that barbarious way, even if I wanted him to—and I don't. Jumping Moses, we'd carve each other to strips. You must be crazy, Obigod."

"My idea would be to tie a four foot rope around the left wrist of both of you and let you go it a fare-you-well," Jones said equably.

"What's eatin' you?" Dan snapped. "I'm not yearnin' to get slashed with a hunting knife. I'd rather stop a bullet if it had to be."

"So would Jas Ford." The ranger looked over the young man's broad, well packed shoulders and the rippling muscles on his arms. "You're a big husky roughneck. Ford knows all about you already. If you accepted his challenge and said you'd fight the way I'm telling you, he would figure you were an expert with a knife. I'd kinda help him to that conclusion. He couldn't be dragged into a ring with you."

"He'd brush that aside and drop me with a gun first chance he gets."

"Maybe not. This town knows if he fights you with a gun it will be plain murder. If we work up a sentiment—and I'll see to that—he may be scared to take a chance of getting lynched. We'll noise it around that you're protecting this young lady from his scoundrelly approaches."

"No," Dan said sharply.

"All right. Leave her out of it. This will be the proposition I'll put up, and all Los Pinos will get it straight. 'Fine, Mr. Ford, you're a brave gent honin' for a fight and here's one handed you on yore lap. You'll take it thataway or not a-tall.'"

"You think he'd eat crow," Mulrooney said.

Dan shook his head. "He'd never back down now. He couldn't."

"He wouldn't call it that. He'd claim he was ready to fight like a gentleman, and if you were the kind of a hill-billy who wanted to go gougin' with a knife, he would prefer to have no dealings with you."

"Maybe so," Dan agreed. "And afterwards he would have me shot down from ambush."

"Sure—if you stood around like a bump on a log and gave him a chance. I'm not claimin' he'll love you like a long lost brother. All I say is maybe we can dig you out of the hole you're in right now. Anyhow, we won't lose anything by our bluff."

"No," agreed Dan. "All right. Do we stick a notice on the tree?"

"Yes, siree. A stiff one. Get paper, boy." The ranger piled the breakfast things at one end of the table to clear a space.

To write an answer to the challenge that suited him took Dan half an hour. The one the wagon boss carried with him to nail on the tree read as follows:

I have just been informed that a murderous scoundrel passing under the name of Jasper Ford has challenged me to a duel. I accept this, and as the challenged party hereby choose the conditions.

This morning I am having a grave dug on Boot Hill. At 4 o'clock this afternoon we shall fight beside it with knives, the blades to be not less than eight inches long, the ends of a five foot rope tied to our left wrists. The one who falls will be buried in the grave.

"'Ahora es el tiempo.' Dan Clifford.

The Spanish phrase had been a contribution from the ranger.

"Now is the time," he translated, rolling the words as if they pleased him. "Kinda sounds like a clock was ticking away the last hours for him. All gamblers are superstitious. He'll get to figuring his luck has run out."

"Maybe," Dan said doubtfully. Today he was no optimist.

Studios Put Out Six Exceptional Movies in Week

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—The movie studios never before have turned out so many outstandingly good films in short succession, one studio after another. Within the last week the following newly completed pictures have been previewed here: "Last Days of Pompeii," "Shipmates Forever," "A Midsummer Night's Dream," "Shaughnessy's Boy," "Barbary Coast," and "Metropolitan." Each has been the kind of film whose recollection is not readily lost.

In addition to those mentioned and regarded as likely to evoke much attention, others have been finished but not seen: "So Red the Rose," with Margaret Sullavan, Paramount's civil war story, and "Tale of Two Cities," Metro studio's contribution of historical adventure.

"Thanks a Million," with Dick Powell as an orchestra leader who succeeds in politics, is another recently completed picture that made a vivid impression here. It looks like a happy winter for filmgoers, for each of these films is one to which a preview follower in Hollywood can conscientiously accord commendatory adjectives.

"A Midsummer Night's Dream" cost Warners' $1,300,000. The effects in the fairy sequences should more than please any beholder. Mickey Rooney is a Puck who delights and this film introduces a big "find" in Olivia De Haviland, until recently a Mills college girl from Oakland, Cal., whose power to depict romance and drama is such that the girl never seems to have learned Shakespeare's lines; they flow from her lips like honey.

"Last Days of Pompeii" is this writer's nomination for honors as the best historical adventure film, not forgetting De Mille's opuses and the silent film "Ben Hur." The dust and blood of the gladiators, the swagger of the soldiers, the disdainful pomp of the patricians, the sodden lives of the common Romans strike one from the screen with a visual impact infrequently experienced. Preston Foster is a hard bitten Roman soldier of fortune who unseeingly seeks the "Greatest man in Judea." There is a scene in which Basil Rathbone as Pontius Pilate worries about the just man he condemned and asks: "What is truth?" It's a short scene but a memorable one. Folks probably also won't forget Vesuvius erupting and Pompeii falling into dust.

In "Shipmates Forever" Johnny Arledge touched his audiences in playing the boy who tried to hide his broken heart when he flunked after three years at the naval academy.

In "Metropolitan" Tibbett is the robust, swashbuckling fellow whom all the male American citizens (including Tibbett off stage) would really like to be.

Producer Sam Goldwyn's "Barbary Coast" has so much color and vividness that Warner studio already is partly through work on another offering titled "The Frisco Kid," laid in the same era with some of the same kind of scenes and a similar vigilante rope party near the climax.

Mary Pickford Denies She Will Marry Buddy Rogers

New York, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Mary Pickford, here on a business trip, today disavowed any intention of marrying Buddy Rogers, orchestra leader, "or any one else." "I'd like to stop those marriage rumors once and for all," the movie actress said, heatedly. "Mr. Rogers and I are good friends—and nothing more." Miss Pickford admitted she had made little progress in her plans to arrange for the appearance of the Dionne quintuplets in movies.

Quilt Among the Most Popular of Floral Designs

Decorative Plant.

BY NANCY CABOT.

This is not the oldest of quilt patterns, but it is one of the most charming and popular of the many floral applique blocks in the quilt realm. An unusual treatment of the block was made by a woman who made an entire coverlet of pieces in her scrap bag. Each pot and each plant was of a different shade and color, set together with an artist's conception of color harmonies. The finished quilt was a masterpiece.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

Raising Two Families Often Serious Task

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I know a man whose wife died four years ago. He has two children, girls 15 and 16 years old. The man thinks a great deal of me. In fact, he wants me to marry him. I am a widow. I lost my husband seven years ago, and I have two sons around the same ages as the widower's children. I like the man. I admire him. He is in comfortable circumstances. I am not. He is an excellent father to his girls.

"The man and I are about the same age. It would seem I could decide for myself. But I am terrified at the thought of his children and my children not getting along and what this might lead to between us two older people. Naturally, I would fight for my children, as he probably would for his. What do you think?" M. T.

It is a serious question to decide. Who can tell how the two pairs of children will get along? There undoubtedly would be situations arising that would call for remarkable poise. But the fact that the children are of opposite sexes might simplify matters. However, there is this to be considered in the situation. In a few years both of you older people will be left to shift for yourselves, so far as companionship is concerned.

And, after all, in those later years companionship matters greatly. Children, as a general rule, would just as soon not have the parents around. Not that they don't love them, but they like to do their own living in their own way. So, if a future for yourself can be brought into the argument, we think it would be well to fortify yourself with your admired widower's offer.

The stepmother rôle is no cinch under the best of circumstances. And girls are notoriously harder to win over than boys. So, the hardest job of managing the children would fall on you, with the two well grown girls. However, a woman who has brought up two boys successfully might have that way with children of managing them without letting them realize that they are being managed.

hersal, which usually is held in the morning, because the club expects to have men in its revue this year, and consequently the first get-together must be held when the men will be able to attend. There will be entertainment and perhaps dancing after the two directors of the coming show have told their plans for the revue. The tryouts for the girls who will take part in the show will be held the following morning at the Ambassador East, where the rehersals will be held. The show will be given Nov. 2.

Mrs. Frank S. Sims, publicity chairman for the show, has a former Service club member visiting her now, Mrs. John Gray Seiler of Louisville, Ky., who danced for charity's sake as Miss Helen Shimmin. Mrs. Sims is entertaining at a small luncheon for Mrs. Seiler today. Mr. Seiler is expected from Louisville later this week to spend a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Sims. Mrs. Seiler's mother, Mrs. Robert P. Shimmin, has taken an apartment at the Ambassador.

Mrs. Sims' sister, Miss Caroline McNair, and their father, Frank McNair, left Saturday for two weeks at the Virginia Hot Springs.

Chicagoans in New York for Fight.

Donald R. McLennan and his son, Donald Jr., no doubt are delighted that the Normandie landed in New York yesterday, for that makes it possible for them to be at the Yankee stadium tonight to see Max Baer and Joe Louis fight. Mrs. McLennan, who accompanied them abroad, will choose a theater instead of the fight, probably, as her entertainment for tonight.

Charles H. Schweppe and Charles F. Glore are among other Chicagoans who are in New York for the fight.

Nov. 19 is the day upon which many women will do some Christmas shopping, for the Woman's Exchange has decided to hold its annual bazar then. As usual, it will be in the crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel and women of the board will assist the regular saleswomen of the shop on North Michigan avenue in selling that day.

Miss Anne Macdonald's contemporaries will have to wait until the end of next week to learn whether she will make her debut this season, for not until then will she and her mother, Mrs. George A. Macdonald, and her older sister, Mary, return from Charleviox. Mrs. Macdonald and her daughters have been in Charlevoix since the middle of August, and will not decide about Miss Anne's debut until after they get home.

John Alden Carpenters Return to East.

Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter left for the east Saturday to spend another fortnight in Pride's Crossing, Mass., before returning to their Lake Shore drive residence for the winter. They came west for a few days to see their family and to see how the new decorations of their drawing room are progressing.

Before they leave the east they will have as guests for several days their very good friends, the Walter Dillinghams of Honolulu, who sailed from there last Friday to put their children in school in the east and to give Mr. Dillingham a course of treatment in Boston for the broken bone in his leg which has caused him trouble since he received it while playing polo last year in China.

The Dillinghams will not stop in Chicago on their way from the west to the east coast, but probably Mr. and Mrs. Dillingham will be here later as they return to the Hawaiian Islands. Their eldest son, Lowell, remained in Honolulu, for he is in business there, but their daughter, Betty Lou, who will go to Foxcroft, and their sons, Benjamin and Gaylord, are with them.

Mrs. Clive Runnells, who came to Chicago on the sad mission of burying her husband, is planning to leave for New York on Monday. She will be there just a few days and then leave for her home in Santa Barbara, Cal., where she plans to spend the winter.

Mrs. McPherson Will Return This Week.

Mrs. Donald F. McPherson will return the end of this week from the east. She spent six weeks with her mother, Mrs. Frederick T. West, at her summer place at Pittsfield, Mass., and now is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Hazen Perry at New Canaan, Conn.

Miss Fanny McPherson returned yesterday from a brief visit with the Oliver De Gray Vanderbilts in Cincinnati. Donald F. McPherson has returned to Tabor academy at Marion, Mass., after a summer as junior counselor at Camp Bonnie Dune on Cape Cod.

Adele and Albert Weiller, children of the French consul, Rene Weiller, and Mme. Weiller, are sailing on the Normandie tomorrow to spend the winter at school in their native country. Ambassador John Cudahy is returning to his duties in Poland on the same ship.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. T. Jerrold Bryce of Lake Forest are giving a final round of parties for them before they leave next week to make their home in New York. Their daughter, Nancy, already has gone east to St. Timothy's.

Tucks for Juvenile Frock

GIRL'S DRESS.

This attractive dress for the young girl employs tucks with delightful effect. They are stitched to just below the waistline, and there the material is left free. They not only trim but also afford the necessary fullness to this dress of navy blue, linenlike cotton weave with a white collar. Wool-like cottons, rayons, and wool crêpe are other suggestions for fabrics.

The pattern, No. 3249, comes in sizes 4, 6, 8, and 10 years. Size 8 requires 2¼ yards of 35 inch material, with ⅜ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

BY MARY MEADE.

The corner policeman may wish you the "top o' the morning," but our own morning greeting, begorra, is "top o' the cake to yez!" And if that doesn't carry any heartfelt meaning to you, you just haven't tried a couple of joy forever cake toppings we know about.

One of same is of the baked-on variety, so simple that it positively turns your kitchen pother into a cakewalk. It isn't actually of the type that goes onto the unbaked batter, but it's worlds easier than most frostings that ask a couple of extra pans and stirring by the clock. You can use it for any plain cake, either butter or spice, but our vote goes for a fluffy sheet sponge cake.

Golden Crunch Topping.

6 tablespoons butter
6 tablespoons cream
1 cup light brown sugar
1 cup coconut

Blend the ingredients together thoroughly and spread over the top of a hot, freshly baked cake. Place under the broiler heat to brown.

From the good cook whose recipe this is comes the additional suggestion that squares of the ambrosia topped cake, either hot or cold, may be served as a festive dessert with a whipped cream crest. Incidentally, we have her directions for an excellent sponge cake which, baked in a large dripping pan, is just the right size for that amount of topping.

Fluffy Sponge Cake.

4 whole eggs
2 cups sugar
2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup hot milk

Beat the eggs well and gradually add the sugar, whipping the mixture until light and fluffy. Sift the cake flour together with the baking powder and salt, and alternately add this mixture, in thirds, with the hot milk, to which the melted butter and vanilla have been added. Beat well after final addition and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F.

But cake talk mustn't beguile our thoughts away from the other fine topper. This is a fluffy chiffonish mixture, which acts as a filling between layers of a split angel food and likewise as a smooth and delicious covering for the top and sides of the cake. In its making it much resembles a filling for a "chiffon" pie. You'll like it for its ethereal texture and its cool, lemon-orange flavor. Because it's so aptly fitted for just that purpose we've christened it

The Dessert-Bridge.

5 egg yolks
¾ cup sugar
1 tablespoon flour
1½ cups milk
1 tablespoon granulated gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water
2 cups heavy cream
Juice of 1 lemon
1 orange, juice and grated rind

Blend the egg yolks with the sugar and flour, combine with the milk, and cook over boiling water until smooth and thickened, stirring constantly. While still hot add the gelatin, which has been softened in the cold water, to the custard. Cool the mixture and fold in the heavy cream, which has been stiffly whipped, the lemon juice, orange juice, and grated orange rind. Spread between layers of a split angel food cake and use as frosting for the top and sides. Chill before serving. The cake may be decorated with small, well peeled orange sections and candied mint leaves for impressive service.

According to CULBERTSON

THE OPENING NO TRUMP.

Ever since bridge has been bridge there have been two schools of original no trump bids of one: The strong no trumpers and the weak no trumpers. Both have serious disadvantages.

The strong no trump crowds the bidding too fast and is too vague. There are fifty different kinds of strong hands, and to bid no trump simply because one holds a power house is to deprive the partner of precise distributional information that frequently results in shutting out a better game or slam fit in a major or minor suit. There is no worse slam killer than a no trump.

Even a better argument against the strong no trump is the fact that many juicy penalties against opponents are eliminated. It is one of the fundamental principles in the Culbertson system not to discourage the enemy from committing suicide by the display of unusual strength unless it is absolutely necessary.

The most serious disadvantage of a weak opening no trump is that against smart opponents the bidder is apt to be heavily penalized. Besides, his partner may easily run amuck at the very sound of a no trump.

Most players who were brought up in the older traditions of bridge are like an old circus horse that was retired into pulling a hack. Every time he would hear parade music he would start to prance around, hack and all.

For many years the weak no trump worked pretty well, because few players knew how to handle the penalty doubles of one, and even now it is a useful bid when playing against dubs.

This new no trump is strong and shows from four to five and one-half honor tricks, vulnerable or not vulnerable. But, and this is the revolutionary point, in addition to honor strength I require one and only one type of distribution: The 4-3-3-3.

For instance:

♠ A-Q-J-x ♥ A-x-x ♦ K-J-x ♣ K-10-5

Notice, please, that with the 4-3-3-3 hand pattern one bids no trump even when he has a biddable major suit. There are only a couple of exceptions to this fundamental requirement of strength plus a specific hand pattern. One may have a hand distributed 4-4-3-2 where the two four-card suits are minors and the doubleton is strong. For instance:

♠ A-Q-J-7 ♥ A-J ♦ A-Q-10-5 ♣ A-J-10-6

Again, one may have a hand distributed 5-3-3-2 with a nearly solid five-card minor suit and a strong doubleton. In either case, one no trump is all right, for while one misleads his partner on the 4-3-3-3 distribution he compensates for it elsewhere. Try this new no trump in expert play and see what a flood of information it conveys to your partner.

This is the first time, to my knowledge, in the history of bridge, that a bid has been devised to fit one and only one specific hand pattern, the 4-3-3-3. In that sense the bid is revolutionary and opens up a new direction in the development of more scientific systems.

I feel sure that in the bridge systems of future generations the requirements for bids will be based not only upon honor and playing strength, but a system of bids will be developed in which each bid will fit in a specific hand pattern. Then, and only then, will bridge become a true science.

The following hand eloquently illustrates the world of inferences that a player can derive from his partner's opening one no trump bid. A slam is reached by easy stages. I don't know of any other system by which a slam could be reached on this hand without wild guessing.

The bidding [both sides vulnerable]:

SOUTH	WEST	NORTH	EAST
1 N. T.	Pass	3 Di.	Pass
4 Di.	Pass	4 N. T.	Pass
5 N. T.	Pass	6 Di.	Pass
Pass	Double [final bid]

East opened with 6 of spades.

Since the no trump bid shows the bidder's distribution, a raise of his partner's suit has a special meaning, the holding of A-K-x or A-Q-x in that suit. South's raise to four diamonds showed his A-Q-6. North's four no trump bid showed two aces and the king of diamonds, and the five no trump response showed the other two aces. The small slam was made easily, North discarding two losing hearts on the kings of spades and clubs.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

QUESTION—North, dealer and vulnerable, bid four spades. South, his partner, holds ♠ K-7, ♥ A-10-5-4, ♦ K-Q-8-6, ♣ Q-J-2. What should South bid?

ANSWER—Pass. North's four spade bid is a shutout bid, and he already is depending on South for two or three tricks. His purpose in bidding four is to keep the opponents from bidding.

Tuesday is Expert's Day in Ely Culbertson's column. Write your bridge comments, suggestions, and interesting hands to him, care of this paper. For questions, remember to enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Mouse Colored Hair Often Is a Decided Asset in Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

In a recent interview one of the most highly paid fashion and photograph models attributes no small share of her success to her "mouse colored" hair. Which success just may stop the seasonal rush to salons for a brand new shade of hair or a brilliant revival of last season's platinum color. Perhaps among no group of women is there heard so much grumbling about the color of hair that occurs when it is the nondescript shade known as "mouse colored." It's my experience, at least, that such women complain most and beg to know what can be done to bleach, lighten, henna, or platinumize their locks.

This wise model was not among the marchers toward the dye pots. And there has proved to be gold among those so-called nondescript locks of hers. Her mouse colored hair has the advantage of being able to take on differently appearing colors under different lighting. She may appear a blonde or a brunette according to the lighting. And there is something in the fact that she keeps on posing year after year when girls do not whose appearance does not carry the "always interesting" feature so valuable in the type of work. Her interviewer reports that "the public does not get tired of seeing her face because it can appear so different as to be almost that of another person."

The model has other beauty features, outstanding among them a pair of wide set eyes, which, of course, help to sustain her popularity. But what the young woman says about her mouse colored hair has, I think, a lesson in it for other women.

A platinum blonde, say, is first, last, and always a platinum blonde, no matter how she may be garbed. It's the hair you see first and speak of first. With a hennaed one the same reaction affects her audience. But with the natural mouse colored tone the girl has a chance to come out and reveal a personality, reveal points of beauty that escape in one's appraisal of startling and obviously not natural hair tins. Then, too, clothes are likely to take on a different meaning when one's soft toned hair tints give them a chance to speak for themselves.

Better think it over, girls, before you carry out that threat to get some color in your hair via the artificial methods.

Child's Natural Interests Need Stimulation

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"Mommie, will you let me have some of those white beans? I want to load my freight cars with gravel. And can I have that box the groceries came in? It would make a swell freight house," asked a small boy one morning.

"Where's your paste, Mommie?" he said later in the day. "See—I'm drawing a locomotive and a box car and a flat car and a caboose and my paper's too short—I want to paste the sheets together."

For years play, art, craft, and reading were built about this interest in locomotives. Blocks became cars, engines, and stations. Books were read about them, at first simple, gradually becoming quite technical. Observation of new detail in pistons, driving rods, and types of locomotives were registered in drawing and painting.

This is an instance of a natural interest—for all children love trains—stimulated and enriched by a sympathetic grownup who took the child where such things were to be seen, and who saw that he had the materials with which to express this interest: books, blocks, drawing materials, and the resources of the house, such as line-up chairs, boxes, and supplies from the kitchen.

This is an example of what I meant yesterday by saying that the clue to a rich play life for your child lies in watching him and supplying materials with which to develop his natural interests and to express his outside experiences.

The matter of age must be always be considered. For example, using again the locomotive interest: a small child has first perhaps a big, simple, wooden car to pull which will not turn over—next an iron one—then a wind-up—and last, an electric train.

ClubFederation Opens Season; Schools Topic

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

High school curricula that prepare boys and girls for college instead of vocations were criticized yesterday afternoon by Noble J. Puffer, superintendent of schools in Cook county. Mr. Puffer addressed the opening autumn meeting of the Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs at the Auditorium hotel. Three hundred and fifty women attended.

John A. Weiland, superintendent of public instruction in Illinois, made a plea for a more intensive study of government on the part of grammar and high school students.

"One year of civics is given in the schools," said Mr. Weiland, "but government is not taught as a going concern. Our young people leave high school and do not understand the workings of their government, either national or state. We will never have a trained personnel in office this way."

Mrs. William S. Hefferan, member of the Chicago board of education, discussed the status of education in Chicago. Another speaker was Mrs. James Oldshue, chairman of education for the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. John Van Wakeman, federation president, presided, assisted by Mrs. Frank M. Fulton, chairman of education for the organization.

George Vanderbilt 21; Gets Control of Half of Estate

New York, Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. George Vanderbilt, who returned today from their wedding trip to Bermuda, were guests tonight at a dinner-dance given by Mrs. Margaret Emerson, Mr. Vanderbilt's mother, at Cedar Knoll, her country place at Glencove. The party marked not only the return of Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt but the 21st birthday of Mr. Vanderbilt, who comes into one-half of his share of 30 million dollars.

Red and white, the Vanderbilt racing colors, were used in decorating the house, red and white balloons and lanterns and festooned ribbon being used in profusion throughout the rooms and on the porches.

The Eighth Woman
WHY SHE IS ALWAYS HERSELF

ALL women are not born "free and equal," Nature being what it is. Many readers of this newspaper know this to their sorrow. A woman's days are not all alike. There are difficult days when some women suffer severely.
There didn't used to be anything to do about it. Eight million had to suffer month after month. Today, a million have accepted the relief to be had from Midol.
As a rule, it is a knowing woman who keeps that little aluminum case tucked in her purse. One who knows what to wear, where to go, how to take care of herself, how to get the most out of life. That "eighth woman" who has learned to rely on Midol!
Are you a periodic sufferer? Midol might spare you such pain. And even though it didn't make you perfectly comfortable, you would receive relief well worth while!
A smart woman doesn't try every pill or tablet somebody says is good for periodic pain. But Midol is recommended by specialists. It can form no habit because it is not a narcotic. Taken before the time, it often avoids the pain altogether. But Midol is effective even when the pain has reached its height. It's effective for hours, so two tablets should see you comfortably through your worst day.
Any drugstore has these tablets. Or, a card addressed to Midol, 170 Varick St., New York, brings a trial box free and postpaid, plainly wrapped. Do you wish one?

RECORDS, YOUTH GIVE LOUIS EDGE OVER BAER

JIM WEAVER OF PIRATES YIELDS ONLY FOUR HITS

Young Bats in Seven Runs.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 23.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates today whipped the St. Louis Cardinals, 12 to 0, and pushed the Cards half a game further back in the National league pennant race.

Big Jim Weaver, former Chicago Cub pitcher, limited St. Louis to four hits, two of these in the ninth. Floyd Young, second baseman, led the Pirates' attack, driving in seven runs.

The second place Cardinals are now 3½ games behind the Cubs, who come here Wednesday for a five game series to end the season. Chicago is idle today and tomorrow. St. Louis could lose tomorrow and take the pennant by sweeping the Cub series.

Pirates Start with Three.

Three runs were scored by the Pirates in the first inning, almost before the crowd of 7,500, small considering that the American Legion national convention is in session here, had settled down for the game. Young's double, one of two he collected among his three hits, scored Woody Jensen, Lloyd Waner and Arky Vaughan, but Young was out third trying to stretch the drive into a triple.

Jensen had opened with a double and was safe at third when Durocher struck him with the ball as he tried to nab the Pirate after fielding Lloyd Waner's grounder. Waner went to second. Vaughan was walked. Then came Young's timely double.

In the third came the slaughter and the retirement of Ed Heusser, first of five pitchers Frankie Frisch called on in a futile effort to halt the Pirate crew. Four straight hits, the last by Young scoring two runs, finished Heusser. Tony Kaufman was touched for three more runs before the inning closed.

Cards Get Bases Full.

The Cards' only serious threat was in the final inning. Medwick popped to Young. Davis, who was sent to first base for Jim Collins in the ninth, singled to center. De Lancey was safe when Young fumbled the ball and Davis reached second. Lyle Judy, base stealing sensation of the Western association this year, flied out to Lloyd Waner. Gelbert singled to left and the bases were crammed as Dizzy Dean, ace pitcher, came to bat for Phil Collins. Dizzy grounded out to Young.

Floyd Young of Pittsburgh drives in three runs with his double in first inning against Cardinals at St. Louis yesterday, but is out at third, despite headlong slide, when he tries to stretch hit into a triple. Clang Burns Up Track in Workout for Match Race

BY FRENCH LANE.

For those awaiting the match race at Hawthorne tomorrow between the two world's record holders, Myrtlewood and Clang, there were important developments during the training hour yesterday morning.

The early birds watched the New Orleans color bearer, Clang, turn in the most sensational workout of the year at Hawthorne. After he cooled out and walked over to his stall without a bruise or a sore spot on his anatomy, Myrtlewood no longer was a 3 to 5 favorite to win.

Clang fairly burned up the corners of the racing strip while he wheeled around them in his last serious drill for this encounter and the betting was even money, take your choice.

Boy! Was He Going!

Clang had turned on his speed early over a track that was fast, but still a bit rough. He ran the first three furlongs in :34 3-5, which is just about as fast as any man's horse works over any race track. He kept right at it and rounded out the half mile in :46 3-5. Horses don't run much faster than that in our modern scheme of things.

The boy in the saddle took him in hand then, yet he rounded out the six furlongs—the distance of the match race—in 1:12. A lot of racegoers were of the opinion that if he runs that fast against Myrtlewood, he will win.

Myrtlewood also went out on the track for a breeze of five furlongs in 1:02 1-5. The daughter of Blue Larkspur had her test for speed 24 hours earlier when she went the same route in a minute flat.

Both the world's record holders probably will be on the track this morning for "setting up" exercises, but their hardest work done for the race is over. They are very sharp.

The match race was the big topic among the 6,500 spectators at Hawthorne yesterday, where selling platers provided the entertainment while an eight race program was run off.

The platers, given a chance to earn their oats, put on some thrilling finishes. The most exciting one came in the Northbrook claiming purse at 6½ furlongs when Dokas, owned by C. B. Bancroft of Boston, got up in the final strides, wore down the early pace maker, Hastinola, and won by a nose.

Nears Track Record.

Despite the fact that Dokas is a $4,000 horse, he came within two-fifths of a second of the track record when he ran the 6½ furlongs in 1:18. Chief Mourner from Jim Norris' stable finished third, two lengths back of Dokas and Hastinola.

Nine stylishly bred 2 year olds paraded to the post in the six furlong fourth race. Jocks Image from Mrs. W. E. Schmidt's barn was the winner in another spectacular nose finish over Engelic Monk from the Chappell Brothers farm at Rockford. Peter J. Peel, owned by Morris Vehon of Chicago, was running fastest of all near the end. He finished third.

CUBS, WITHOUT A WORRY, TUNE BATS FOR CARDS

Need Two More

TWO victories, despite the defeat of the second place Cardinals by the Pirates yesterday, remain between the Cubs and a formal clinching of the National league pennant. If the Cubs win two of their five at St. Louis, the Cardinals, even by beating Pittsburgh today and taking three from the Cubs would be behind at the finish by one game. If the Cardinals are vanquished today the Cubs could nail down the pennant by winning only one of the five they play with the champions before concluding the race next Sunday.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs, budding National league champions, who need only two more victories for themselves to bring their title into full bloom, loafed yesterday. And what a loaf they enjoyed after their strenuous campaigning in which they won eighteen straight victories over the Phillies, the Braves, the Dodgers, the Giants, and lastly the Pirates.

There was no excitement or strain during the limited time that Manager Charley Grimm assembled them for duty at Wrigley field. The boys, apparently unconcerned over their feat of winning eighteen in a row, the fact that the pennant still must be officially clinched, and that when clinched there is a world series job ahead, just took it easy in a batting drill which the boss man ordered. They didn't seem conscious of the great work behind them or worried about what lies immediately ahead. Grimm hopes they stay that way.

Warneke Faces Cards.

While the workout was under way Mr. Grimm was in deep thought and not without reason. All that Mr. Grimm has to do is to pick the pitchers for the decisive series starting tomorrow at St. Louis. And if those picks prove successful he must go back into a huddle with himself and figure how he'll start 'em against the Tigers. Of course Charley already has his mind pretty well made up on both angles, but there might be unlooked for happenings necessitating revision.

Lon Warneke is going to have the honor of kicking off tomorrow in the opener at St. Louis. That assignment is definite. So definite, in fact, that the Arkansas slat was the only member of the troupe Grimm watched during yesterday's workout. Warneke, always a glutton for work and the Good Old Left Field! Cubs' Mr. Galan Is So Happy There

BY EDWARD BURNS.

"I have been SO happy out there in left field," is the somewhat naïve way Augie Galan talks about his utter contentment with his lot in life. "I thought I liked being an infielder, but right now I wouldn't want to switch to the infield even if some miracle made me the best infielder in the game. I love to run and I get to chase 'em in the outfield."

It may be that other more seasoned members of the Cub staf have contributed more to the team's success than this little Froggie who couldn't make the grade as an infielder. But in our book Augie goes down as at least the equal of any star on the team. Moreover, he has won the bulk of the fans and unquestionably is the public's pet right now.

Augie Supplies Color.

It has been remarked before now that the Cubs, giving all credit to the talents of their performers, have been somewhat drab in the matter of the item, color, that people are always talking about but rarely defining. Those who crave color are seeing it in the dash and eagerness of the tiny Frenchman.

Augie really is a bit too quiet to be looked upon as colorful by those who know him off field. But whether it's color or not, no baseball lover can miss getting a kick out of watching Augie do his stuff, both as a fielder and as the only steadily employed leadoff man the Cubs have had in more than a decade. So let it go as color.

Plays Every Inning.

We have written several pieces about Augie in this, his first year as a major league regular. Others also have been Boswells for the young man. So we'll be telling you some items about which you know. But along about world series time the old stuff goes into the hopper with the new.

We'll start with the statistics:

Galan has played in every inning of every Cub game, exhibition and otherwise, since he broke in last March against George Earnshaw and the White Sox at Wrigley field in Los Angeles.

Knocks in Runs, Too.

He has batted .315 in 149 games, having made 196 hits in 622 times at bat. He has made 39 doubles, 10 triples and 12 home runs. The leadoff man isn't supposed to rank high in runs batted in, for the simple reason that he either is starting an inning or following the weakest hitters on the team. Augie, however, has batted in 78 runs and is third to Gabby Hartnett and Bill Herman in that department. There have been only 33 games in which Galan has failed to hit.

Afield Augie made his last error on Aug. 1. The one that day was his eighth of the year. He has made 342 putouts, 11 assists, and has participated in three double plays. His fielding percentage is .978.

He's a Berkeley Boy.

Now we'll let Augie tell the story of his life. "I was born in Berkeley, Cal., May 25, 1912, in the house which still is my home. It's at 907 University avenue.

"My father, Gratian, and mother were born in France, my mother not far from Paris and my father not far

BATTLE BRINGS BUSINESS BOOM TO BROADWAY

New York, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Slightly bewildered merchants and purveyors of entertainment whispered tonight they hadn't seen anything like it since the days of Dempsey as fans arrived for the Louis-Baer fight.

It may be a million dollar gate for the fight, but to the citizens and merchants it was estimated to be a $12,000,000 windfall.

Guests Get Binoculars.

Up in Harlem the largest department store did a landoffice business in plaster casts of Louis.

A large chain of radio and accessory stores reported sales of binoculars up 300 per cent. One enterprising hotel manager is supplying every guest of his hostelry with a pair of opera glasses. Broadway and Times square were jammed tonight.

Hotels Turn 'Em Away.

Hotels were literally turning them away, as railroads continued to report record trafic. There were 1,400 persons on six New York Central trains today.

Night clubs and beverage emporiums were packed and movie and legitimate theaters hired extra ushers to handle standing room ticket holders.

One little man on Times square said he had heard there had been a depression.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 23.—Max Baer or Joe Louis? This is the question over which Father Knickerbocker and his guests are puzzling today for the someteenth time. One million dollars, a bit more or less, will be paid officially by those who would see the answer. For one night, at least, there is no depression, not with century notes offered for tickets worth one-quarter of that amount.

Baer or Louis? The Livermore Larruper or the Brown Bomber? A world that stands on the brink of another war pauses to ask if a 21 year old Ethiopian, one time automobile mechanic and a Chicago Golden Gloves champion, can subdue the Broadway Baer. Well, what do you say?

Louis has a phenomenal record. Not even the old Manassa Mauler, Jack Dempsey, who tomorrow night will second his friend Maxie, can boast of such a record. In 14 months 24 professional foes have been beaten, 20 of them to grovel in the rosin, unconscious or helpless.

It's a Short Order Fight.

Baer, who once killed a man with his fists, just as he walloped the beeves brought to his father's butcher shop in Livermore, has won his place in pugilism by fierce assault, surpassed only by the speed with which Louis has risen from a $50 knockerout to take 30 per cent of the first million dollar purse since 1927.

Let us scan the possibilities of this battle tomorrow night at Yankee stadium.

First, by almost unanimous opinion, the bout should not last the schedule of 15 rounds. This belief, universally held, has been a prime factor in the sale of tickets. One or the other must yield.

Louis has the advantage of youth. Just 21 when he walloped massive Primo Carnera three months ago in the same ring where tonight he faces Baer, the Bomber has no history of pleasuring. Only in the last year has he been able to scrape together the price of a movie, let alone find the money for wine, woman, and song.

He's No Reporter.

Louis has speed. Moreover, he can punch with either hand. Indeed, his left hook, a short devastating punch to the chin, is regarded as one of the best in all time history of the men who fight for gold.

Louis has no imagination. He can

Catcher Gabby Hartnett, the other half of battery, also gets trainer's attention. If Cubs win two games, pennant is theirs.

in case of threatening weather. It will be broadcast over the National Broadcasting company network. Clem McCarthy will be at the microphone.

Tickets are selling at any price the owner happens to ask. You can't touch a reasonably good ringside seat for less than $50. The word touch, it seems, is beautifully used.

Baer arrived here tonight by train. He left his camp at Speculator, N. Y., shortly after noon and motored to Schenectady, where he boarded the train. There was no explanation why he foresook flying after defying Jacobs and making arrangements to fly.

Accompanying Baer were his manager, Ancil Hoffman; his trainer, Izzy Kline, and State Trooper Harry Barr. Max was taken to a "hideout" to remain until the weighing in at 1 o'clock tomorrow.

Max Plans Roughhouse.

Louis is the reigning favorite at 9 to 5. That mysterious form of currency known as smart money, however, is piling in on Baer at those odds. The evil implication is that the educated dough has got the word that Baer will outrough Louis until he wears him down for a knockout smash. In case of an unintentional foul the offender loses the round. What has Baer got to lose by dropping two or three rounds on a foul, inquire his supporters. If the fight goes the limit of 15 rounds it is improbable that Baer would get the decision. Louis is considered a superior boxer.

Taking cognizance of reports that Baer will park ethical standards in the dressing room, Bill Brown of the New York boxing commission today issued the following statement:

"There will be no hanky pank tomorrow night. New York's greatest prize fight crowd will be in attendance and the battle must be a fair one. The boxing law is just as binding as any other state law and should be as strictly enforced. When a man breaks a law, he goes to jail and a fighter who deliberately fouls is committing a crime.

The General Will Speak.

"When the men come to the weighing in tomorrow, Gen. Phelan is going to read the rules from A to Z and then I am going to tell them a few things without sugar coatings. If a deliberate foul is made, the referee will stop the fight at once, and we are going to have a referee with that much nerve. We'll hold up the fighters' purses and have all the money returned to the folks who bought the tickets.

"The fight game has pulled itself to a new high and we are going to see that it doesn't plunge into the gutter just because a boxer chooses to win in an unfair manner. Each contestant will get a square deal, you can depend upon that, but the public will be protected and there will be no funny stuff. If there is a foul which the commission considers was deliberate the offender will be barred from New York for life."

While all this was going on 200 carpenters were working day and night transforming Yankee stadium from a ball park to a fight arena. More than 23,000 seats will be constructed on the infield. The ring will be pitched over second base. Seven thousand ringside seats will be on the flat and the other 16,000 will be elevated. The raised section will eliminate about 1,000 grandstand seats.

There'll Be Some Squawking.

There are vague rumors of trick lettering and numbering the rows so that nobody will know where he actually will sit until he reaches the park tomorrow night. The yelping then will be fierce. A fan who paid premium prices for a seat, say in the 12th row ringside, will find he is at least 34 rows from the ring. After the working press, come several rows called the press-donor section, whatever that means, and after that come more rows called club patrons.

If the fight turns out to be a dud there will be some loud screams of anguish from the patrons. That is why this department hopes the New York commission will not stress too hard the ethics of the trade. If it scares all the physical rowdyism out of Baer and Louis, the match may be terrible to watch. A heavyweight fight without a knockdown or two is as uninteresting as an oriental dancer in a calico wrapper. These boys are supposed to be ring savages. That's why they are pulling a million dollar gate. As far as the average fan is concerned, the Shuberts can have those silk glove tappers.

It will surprise every one if the fight goes the route. Neither contestant does much pawing and jabbing. Baer's best punch is a sweeping right that must have distance to get the desired effect. This was the blow with which he paralyzed King Levinsky the first time it landed. At in-fighting, when he is standing flat-footed, crouched, facing a foe, Baer pumps short arm blows to the body, but he never has been known to finish an opponent with this mode of attack.

"Two Gun" Joe.

Louis, in contrast, hits short and true, and powerfully, after the Dempsey style. His best blow is a short left hook, as was Dempsey's. But as a companion to this punch, Louis has a right cross and a sharp right swing that carry equally destructive force. In other words, he is equipped with the two blazing howitzers that spread havoc without warning. Baer has but one big gun, swift and true, to be sure, but requiring a windup that warns an agile opponent.

Baer's record probably is more impressive as far as endurance and strength are concerned. He has gone 20 rounds without sagging under pace or punch. Louis never has been floored as a professional, but he hit the canvas several times in the early days as an amateur. The only thing we don't know about Louis is his recuperative power. Will he be able to climb off the floor in case of a knockdown and carry on to victory as Dempsey did against Firpo? If he can do that, he gets our vote as the greatest heavyweight of recent years.

The world will know a lot more about Louis along about 11 p. m. tomorrow night.

Mrs. Max Baer, accompanied by the fighter's father and mother, reached New York this afternoon. Baer's bride is not a fight enthusiast and she does not plan to attend the match.

Talking It Over

[Copyright: 1935: By The Chicago Tribune.]

NEW YORK CITY, Sept. 23.—What will it be for Max Baer—a comeback or has been rôle? . . . Tomorrow night at Yankee stadium, a sports arena made possible by Babe Ruth, the greatest hitter of all time, Baer tries again. . . . Will he come bounding back to the heights, the man mauler that crushed Schmeling, Carnera and Levinsky, or will he pass permanently into the fistic shadows which already envelop the muscular frames of Sullivan, Corbett, Fitzsimmons, Jeffries, Johnson, Willard, and Dempsey, immortals of the past who fought and lost? . . . My private opinion is that he is face to face with the impossible in trying to hurdle Joe Louis, ring sensation of his day. . . . But, since my opinions, private and otherwise, never have rated very high [Didn't I pick Baer against Braddock and the Cardinals to win the 1935 pennant?] I prefer to leave the matter in the hands of old Doc Time, a fellow distinguished for his unerring accuracy and irrevocable decisions. . . .

Louis, who will come out of tomorrow night's fight with more money than any colored fighter in history, is carrying on a glorious tradition set by other battlers of his race. . . . Feats of colored boxers spangle some of the brightest pages in pugilism. . . . The first recognized champion of America was a Virginia slave named Tom Molineaux. . . . He was so well thought of that he was sent to England to fight Tom Cribb, English champion, but he lost a close decision. . . . Although he was the first, Molineaux doesn't rate as the best of the colored fighters. . . . No ring historian can overlook the achievements of Peter Jackson, Joe Gans, George Dixon, Sam Langford, Jack Johnson, Joe Wolcott, and Harry Wills. . . . Jackson was champion of Australia and England, but he never got a shot at John L. Sullivan, who boldly proclaimed himself world champion of the day. . . . Jim Corbett went 61 rounds with Jackson and at the finish it was called no contest, but Corbett was given the match with Sullivan and won. . . . Years later, after he had passed his peak, Jackson was knocked out by Jim Jeffries in three rounds. . . .

Joe Gans, one of the cleverest boxers of all time, won the lightweight championship by whipping Battling Nelson in a 42 round fight at Reno. . . . He died of tuberculosis, brought on, it is said, by strenuous weight reducing. . . . George Dixon held the featherweight title and Joe Wolcott ruled the welterweights, although he frequently took on heavyweights when he ran out of opponents at his own weight. . . . Jack Johnson was heavyweight champion from the day he whipped Tommy Burns in Sydney, Australia, in 1908, until Jess Willard stopped him at Havana in 1915. . . . Johnson, by the way, will see the Baer-Louis match. . . . Sam Langford didn't win any titles of consequence, but he was one of the greatest heavyweights of all time. . . .

There have been plenty of other good colored boxers—Tiger Flowers, once middleweight champion; Kid Chocolate, who held the featherweight title; Jack Blackburn, old lightweight who now is training Louis; Battling Siki, George Godfrey, Joe Jeannette, Sam McVey, and Young Jack Thompson. . . . And here are others on the way who will be heard from soon: Lorenzo Pack, Clinton Bridges and Dave Clark, all out of last year's Chicago Golden Gloves tournament. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—The Washington Senators won the American league pennant when they won a double victory over the A's. . . . Knute Rockne told his football team that they would lose their first game to Baylor. . . . Graham Kernwein and Austin McCarty were injured as the Maroons went through a hard scrimmage. . . . Babe Ruth's home run with the bases loaded gave the Yankees a 6 to 5 victory over the White Sox.

Louis May Wed Before Bout, and Then He May Not

New York, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Joe Louis, 21, and Marva Trotter, 19, of Chicago will be married "some time tomorrow evening," the fighter's fiancée said tonight.

Maybe the wedding will be before, maybe after, the $1,000,000 fight. The Chicago stenographer isn't sure.

She says he's a marvelous fighter. She says she's a poor cook.

"I guess I could keep a person from starving to death," she explained, "but I think Joe would rather eat in restaurants."

They will wed in a Harlem apartment, staying there until Saturday. They plan to fly to Detroit for a one day stop and then go on to Chicago, where they will remain indefinitely.

DEMPSEY MAY NOT BE IN MAX'S CORNER TONIGHT

New York, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world, tonight said he was undecided as to whether he would act as second for Max Baer in his fight tomorrow night with Joe Louis.

Dempsey received a second's license recently and it was reported from Baer's camp at that time he would be in Max's corner. Dempsey himself said he had decided to act as a gesture of friendship for his "pal."

Tonight, however, Dempsey said he would not make a final decision until after he had another talk with Ancil Hoffman, Baer's manager.

EXTRA PLANES CARRY CHICAGO FANS TO FIGHT

Officials of the three airlines operating between Chicago and New York ordered nearly a dozen extra flights scheduled for today after demands from Baer-Louis fight fans for seats to New York smashed all records. Planes have been "sold out" for the last three days on all three lines, officials said.

Cavacini Lost to Indiana for Three Weeks

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—James Cavacini, of Windber, Pa., one of the most promising half backs on the Indiana university football squad, will be lost to the team for at least three weeks, trainers said today, because of a "tackle" shoulder suffered in an intra-squad game Saturday. This means that Cavacini will not be available for the opener on Oct. 5 against Centre college or the first conference game on Oct. 12 against Michigan.

Two other sophomores, Frank Filchock and Bill Dilco, are seeking to fill the vacancy.

MICHIGAN TAKES IT EASY.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—A light workout, which included an offensive drill for linemen and a rehersal in blocking for backs, kept the Michigan squad busy this afternoon. Only one drill was held as Coach Kipke figured the boys were tired.

Second and third string backs were sent through running plays in the drill for linemen. Linemen were shifted constantly, although the boys who Saturday made up the first set of forwards got the bulk of the work. Bill Renner and Bob Cooper tossed passes in the back field drill, passing being alternated with running plays.

LOUIS RATES WITH DUCE AS LONDON FRONT PAGE NEWS

LONDON, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The Baer-Louis fight in New York divided the headlines with the Italo-Ethiopian crisis on the front pages of London morning papers today.

Special stories emphasized the return of the "golden era" with a gate of a million dollars—or 200,000 pounds sterling.

Louis shared the spotlight of the day's news with Mussolini and much attention was devoted to the young colored boxer's record.

British sports experts sent to the United States to cover the fight were unanimous in picking Louis. Tom Webster of the Daily Mail described the Negro as the "best short puncher I've seen since a bus conductor."

not picture the possibilities of tomorrow night's fight. He probably neither sees himself dropping Baer, nor does he picture Max shooting a looping right to the jaw which will floor the receiver. Left alone, Louis likes to sleep, to eat, to move along the path of slightest resistance.

If nature had not given Louis the ability to coördinate his fists far better than the average human, tomorrow night he would be coming home from a $5 day's work at the auto factory, content that he had a place to sleep and money for subsistence. Louis, sans imagination, is not subject to fear. There, in brief, you have the reason for his expressionless face. On the eve of such a battle as this Louis will lay himself down to rest without thought of tomorrow.

The King Dodged Something

But, can Joe Louis take a crusher on the chin? This is what 40,000 in Comiskey park last month hoped would happen. They wanted to see King Levinsky drop his right on Louis' jaw, to watch if the Bomber came back for more. No fighter, since the day Louis engaged his first amateur opponent, has dented the Louis chin. That night in Detroit, Joe got up, dusted his gloves, and went on to win. Can he do it now? Levinsky failed to essay the attempt when, weak hearted, he dodged the issue.

Louis has every mechanical aid. But he hasn't been tested by ordeal.

Now, consider Baer. Max is not a boxer. He does not block, shift his head, nor step aside. He glories in taking a punch, laughing at the thrower, and flinging his sturdy arm in recompense.

Now, We're Asking You.

Against Max Schmeling, Baer roared like a lion. He overwhelmed the German with fury. When he met Carnera and wrested from the Italian the world's title, Baer once more was a flailing demon. For eleven rounds he pounced on Primo, punched him from rope to rope. From that beating, according to Baer, Carnera never recovered. He was a soft touch for the rising Louis.

Then came Jimmy Braddock, to stab a futile Baer for fifteen rounds and win the championship. Where was the fire that was Baer's on that evening? Alibis were forthcoming. His hands were injured and he had not trained for the bout.

There lies the kernel of the problem. One must grant that Baer clowned away his title if, in the same breath, one admits he is capable of better battles. All right, grant it. Throw away the evidence of mediocrity. Now, has Baer regained the desire to kill? Has he, by seven weeks' self-inflicted isolation in the Adirondacks, wiped away the vestiges of the nights in Broadway cabarets where he violated the fundamental rules of rigorous living?

He Talks Plenty Tough.

Baer says he has. Apparently, judging by pounds and color, Max today is in form. It is for Louis to determine if Baer's chin still is granite, his stomach a sheet of steel.

Max is insistent that mentally, he is ready for Joe Louis. "I must win," and "I will win," have flowed from Baer's lips in every interview. Despite the effective work of his spar mates, who stabbed and punched successfully, Baer says: "I always was easy to hit. But I won't be hurt. I'll chase Joe Louis out of the ring."

Baer expects to be hit. He expects to shake off those punches which dropped 20 men to the floor. He predicts he'll find the Louis jaw with a wallop like that which tottered Carnera to destruction. That's his boast, his bond.

Well, O. K.—It's Louis.

Powerful ring lights flare on. In dazzling brilliance, two men stand ready. In the enveloping blankness, thousands sit, tense, quiet, almost without breath. Will Max Baer rush forward, relentless, furious? Will he roll over his opponent with tornadic drive? Or, will Baer be met by calm skill, a slashing left, a driving right, to fall as another victim for the record of Louis?

By every measure of fact, Joe Louis, tomorrow night in Yankee stadium, should be the winner.

Stanley Defeats Kapanowski in Marigold Bout

Gene Stanley, Detroit middleweight, won a unanimous 10 round decision over Frank Kapanowski, in the main bout of the boxing show last night at Marigold Gardens. Stanley, who incurred a cut over his left eye in the sixth round, three times floored Kapanowski with body blows, once in the fourth round and twice in the tenth. Bob Tinsley, former St. Philip High school boxer, scored a technical knockout in the second round of the five round semi-final when Davey White was unable to continue due to a cut eye. Al Nettlow, 1935 international Golden Gloves featherweight champion, stopped Wilmer Van in four rounds. Van sustained an injury to his ear in the preceding round. Bobby O'Dowd, Sioux City, and Ernie Kilcoyne boxed a four round draw and Walter Statkus beat Mickey O'Shea in four rounds.

Joe Triner, chairman of the Illinois boxing commission, in New York to see the Louis-Baer bout tonight, expects to mix business with pleasure by obtaining the consent of James J. Braddock, heavyweight champion, to referee the wrestling encounter involving Jim McMillen and Jack Smith at the Coliseum Thursday before returning home. Triner is assisting the Schenley Athletic club promote Thursday's program, which is composed of one wrestling bout and six boxing matches. The list of fights was revised yesterday as follows:

Everett Rightmire vs. Lenny Cohen [8], featherweights.
Milt Aron vs. Joe Richards [6], junior welterweights.
George Van der Hayden vs. Hershie Wilson [6], junior welterweights.
Mickey Patrick vs. Emil Pappas [6], light heavyweights.
Pat Arnold vs. Art Sykes [6], heavyweights.

Purple Stress Speed; Rotund Boys Worry

Speed will be the objective in Northwestern university's football camp this week as final preparations are made for the season's opener against De Paul at Dyche stadium Saturday.

The matter of speeding up the offense is the biggest concern of the coaching staf. Coach Lynn Waldorf said yesterday he was pleased with most features of the team's play except its swiftness. From now on fleet players will get the call.

This premium on speed has caused apprehension among more ponderous linemen, particularly tackles. Such huskies as Park Wray, DeWitt Gibson, and Joe Chambers, who weigh considerably over 200 pounds, are working overtime in an effort to reduce.

DE PAUL GETS SCRIMMAGE.

Only three more practice sessions remain for the De Paul university football team before the opening game with Northwestern on Saturday. Coach Jim Kelly sent players through another scrimmage yesterday afternoon both on offense and defense.

The mistakes the squad made in the North Central college scrimmage Saturday received most attention. An intimation as to the starting lineup was given in yesterday's workout when Bruno Raffin and Tom Roberts, both sophomores, lined up at guard with the first eleven. The work of Roberts has overshadowed that of last year's reserves, George Schwarz and Frank Lorge, who were expected to fill the places of last year's graduated regulars.

Max Fiske, who was out of most of the spring practice with an injury, has rounded into form and probably will play at left half back.

GOPHERS HUNT FOR END.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 23.—Special.]—Selection of a varsity end is the chief problem as another week of practice for the Minnesota Gophers opened today. At present Dwight Reed is favored for one position, but the other is open to all candidates.

There is a possibility that Minnesota will be represented by two sophomore ends against the North Dakota Aggies at Memorial field Saturday. Ray King, 6 foot 3 inch newcomer from Duluth, has improved so rapidly that he is receiving the consideration of Coach Bernie Bierman.

IOWA LINEUP JUGGLED.

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—University of Iowa football candidates went through a stiff two hour practice today as drill settled down to one a day with the beginning of university classes.

Apparently still undecided upon a starting lineup for the Bradley Tech game Saturday, Ossie Solem juggled his varsity combination. Competition appeared to be keenest for the quarter back, left end and right guard positions. Paul Akin, junior; Dick Bowlin and Bush Lamb, sophomores, all had a trial at signal calling, while Frank Kakoubek and Homer Harris alternated at end. Three veterans, Jim Kelley, Jack Gallagher, and Don Nelson shared the guard opening.

PURDUE SEEKS SPEED.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Speed as Purdue's only means of combatting the weight of Northwestern's heavy line was emphasized by Coach Noble Kizer this afternoon as he sent the Boilermaker forwards through a long defensive scrimmage against the type of plays that the Wildcats are expected to present Oct. 5.

Kizer continued to make frequent shifts in the line and it was evident that hold-over veterans may be supplanted by sophomores in a number of cases unless they show marked improvement within the next ten days.

MAROONS TRY TO GUESS NEBRASKA ATTACK IN DRILL

Expect Free Scoring Game Saturday.

Likelihood that the Chicago-Nebraska football game at Lincoln Saturday will be a high scoring, open contest developed yesterday when it became apparent that the Maroons are completely in the dark as to what to expect from the Cornhuskers. A freshman team demonstrated double and single wingback and short punt formations, such as Nebraska has been using, for the benefit of the varsity in a tag-scrimmage, but details are woefully lacking.

Maroon followers point out that Chicago has been a high-scoring team in its early season games under Coach Clark Shaughnessy, before opponents have been able to scout the Maroons thoroughly and before the undermanned Chicago team has suffered losses through injuries. Both teams have one brilliant ball-carrier, Jay Berwanger for Chicago and Lloyd Cardwell for Nebraska. Shaughnessy told his squad yesterday that Cardwell weighs more than 200 pounds and runs 100 yards in 9.8 seconds.

BADGERS ON DEFENSE.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Wisconsin's football team held a long defensive drill today against South Dakota State college plays, against which Wisconsin will open its 1935 season at Camp Randall Saturday.

Assistant Coach Red Smith, who scouted South Dakota in their 33 to 0 victory over Northern State Teachers college Saturday, reported that South Dakota has an exceptionally fast back in Paul Miller and that the team as a whole appeared considerably stronger than a year ago when it lost to the Badgers, 28 to 7. Miller was the third highest scoring back in the nation last fall with 116 points.

ILLINI HEAR OHIO IS STRONG.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Reports that Ohio university is stronger and heavier than last season spurred the Illini as they began to prepare for the opening game against the Bobcats.

Bob Zuppke made it plain that the varsity performance against the freshmen Saturday was far from impressive. John Kanosky and Andy Glosecki, sophomore backs, who were held out on account of minor ailments, will be available this week. Provided Kanosky lives up to his promise, he may displace Bob Grieve, although the sprinter has been favored recently for a regular back field post.

Much of today's practice was concerned with handling punts. The race for sub quarter back still is a free for all, although Zuppke gave Gano the preference in the freshman game.

Notre Dame Puts in Long Drill on Tackling, Defense

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—A thorough drill on tackling and pass defense occupied Notre Dame's football candidates today, after coaches had reviewed mistakes of Saturday's game in a chalk talk.

All but two casualties rejoined the squad today. Jerry Van Wagner, left half back, will be out for another 10 days. Mike Layden, varsity right half back, was absent from practice with a leg infection, which also kept him out of Saturday's scrimmage. But he is expected to be ready for the opener with Kansas Saturday.

Coach Elmer Layden said he does not plan to scrimmage the team any more this week, in an effort to have the players at their physical peak for Kansas. He will give them blocking and tackling drills, and will try to improve timing in dummy scrimmage and signal drill, he said.

GIANTS DIVIDE WITH BRAVES IN DOUBLE-HEADER

Take First Game, 3 to 2; Lose Second, 9 to 7.

New York, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Carl Hubbell pitched the Giants to a 3 to 2 victory over the Braves in the first game of a double-header to earn his 23d victory of the season and equal his biggest previous winning record in the major leagues. Frank Gabler, making his first major league start, couldn't continue the good work, however, and the Braves won the second game, 9 to 7.

DODGERS, PHILS DIVIDE.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 23.—(AP)—The Dodgers retained sixth place in the National league today by splitting a double-header with the Phillies. Johnny Moore's tenth inning homer gave the Phils a, 4 to 2, victory in the opener and their third straight triumph by the home run route. The Dodgers won, 8 to 4, in the second game, scoring all their runs in the seventh inning. Scores:

He is survived by four brothers, Frank, Bob, Ed and Bill; two sisters, Margaret and Charlotte, and his mother and father.

first to show up at the ball park every day, insisted on warming up. Grimm finally ordered him off the field and informed him that he was not wanted around the ball park during today's workout. Warneke agreed to stay away, but didn't like the treatment.

Bill Lee is the tentative starter for the second of the five games at St. Louis. Grimm says he has discovered the big southerner is better if not given too much rest. Charley Root, who through the 18 game streak was followed by Larry French, will be put to work in the third of the series, French in the fourth, and probably Warneke in the fifth and final of the season Sunday. But the Cubs believe the pennant is going to be nailed down before that last day, in which event some fellow like Tex Carleton, Roy Henshaw or Mike Kowalik will be given employment.

Warneke is going to have the honor of pitching the opener of the world series at Detroit, barring, of course, such a remote happening as the Cards nosing out of the Cubs. You don't have to do much figuring to determine the logical man for the second of the series games. You're right. It will be Charley Root, the 36 year old.

"Root, with his side arm delivery, is the kind of a fellow who should bother those Tigers," exclaimed Grimm yesterday.

Sticks to Winning Lineup.

Beyond the second of the post season battles with the repeating American league champions, Grimm hasn't formulated his pitching plans. For the third game the contenders will move to Wrigley field and the natural choice for the opener of the three engagements here would be Larry French, the lefty, provided Larry doesn't have to do a rescue act in either of the two games at Detroit.

An injury will be the only thing that can make Grimm change the lineup in use since the first two victories of the 18 in a row were piled up. After two victories in the streak Chuck Klein was benched on a charge of light hitting, Frank Demaree moved from center into right, and Fred Lindstrom took over the center field job. The work of this trio through sixteen winning games has convinced the manager that it is his best outfield combination, especially on attack.

Tigers May Start Auker.

Mickey Cochrane, the Tiger chief, hasn't spoken as yet about his probable pitching nominee for the first battle, but the impression is getting into circulation that he may pass up both Schoolboy Rowe and Tommy Bridges, his curving expert. The job may be turned over to Elden Auker, a youth with a peculiar underhand delivery such as the Cubs have never faced. Auker, who took one game from the Cards in the last world series, has been a consistent winner for the last two months.

The work of erecting temporary bleachers for the series games at Wrigley field got under way yesterday. Sheffield avenue, behind right field, and Waveland avenue, back of the left field wall, were blocked off and an army of carpenters began juggling lumber. The added seats, which will not encroach on the present playing field, will raise the park's capacity for the series to approximately 50,000.

The Cubs will depart at midnight tonight for St. Louis and will be back Monday morning, presumably with a pennant. They will start for Detroit that same night, thus having a chance to work out at the Tigers' park next Tuesday.

DEFAULT GIVES BUDGE TITLE IN COAST TENNIS

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 23.—(AP)—The men's singles final of the Pacific Southwest tennis tournament fizzed out today as Roderick Menzel, the Czechoslovakian, defaulted to Donald Budge, young Davis cup player, who was leading 1-6, 11-9, 6-3 in a contest billed for five sets.

Menzel, who attained the final round by default of Wilmer Allison, National champion, walked off the court arm in arm with Budge, leaving the umpire to explain to 1,500 surprised customers that he had "defaulted" in deference to his mixed doubles partner, Carolin Babcock of Los Angeles, with whom he played a semi-final match later in the day.

Mrs. Ethel Burkhardt Arnold of Los Angeles, defeated Katherine Stammers of England, for her third straight women's singles title here, by scores of 6-1, 6-4. The Los Angeles matron defeated the English star in a crucial match of the Wightman cup series, earlier this year.

Good Old Left Field! Galan Is Happy There

from the Pyrenees mountains. My father has been engaged in the laundry business in Berkeley for 40 years. I have three brothers, Pierre, Albert, and Frank, and one sister, Marie. Pierre is a professional saxophone player."

"I am strictly a stag. Like the gals, all right, but never had a durable romance."

At this point we did a little interrupting: "You stand to get about five grand out of the world series. Aren't you afraid some sweetie will make a try for at least a chunk of that roll?" To which Augie responded: "Let one try it. I might go for dinner and a bucket of beer, but I'll salt the rest."

"I was graduated from the Berkeley High school, and being in a university town, had some thoughts of going to the University of California. But I signed with the San Francisco team two weeks after I was graduated from high, and gave up the idea of a higher education. So far I've had no regrets.

No Danger of This.

"If something happened to take me out of baseball I could make a living in the laundry business. I started working for my father after school hours when I was 12 years old and know every branch of the business. You fellows who printed that I am an expert ruffle ironer told the truth. Ruffle ironing, expert ruffle ironing, is tops in the hand laundry business."

Augie says he isn't quite sure whether his father is a baseball fan or a Galan fan. "I gave him a San Francisco cap when I first joined the Seals and no one could get it off him until I replaced it with a Cub cap. Now the folks can't get him to wear a hat except on his way to church."

Gets Grimm's Vote.

Galan has no heartier booster than his boss, Charley Grimm. "I was playing first base when we were trying to use Augie as an infielder. His sense of direction as an infield thrower was terrible. But I liked his hitting and base running.

"I told him last fall that he needn't worry about getting sent back to the Coast league until he had a year to make an outfielder out of himself. It turned out that he didn't need anything more than a winter of dreaming about left field to make a great left fielder.

"Most everything he knows about playing left field he learned himself. And what a find he has been for the Cubs."

Sox Home for Season; Meet Browns Today

The ever striving White Sox arrived home yesterday and took a day's rest in preparation for today's double-header with the St. Louis Browns, which they hope to make the basis for a finishing move into the first division, strange quarters to them these many years.

The Sox, after an unprecedented rush which saw them in such a high estate as first place in the early days of the campaign, are now within one and a half games of fourth place, which is just as precious at the moment. They trail their red hosed brethren from Boston by ten percentage points in the standing.

The Sox will carry on with St. Louis in a single game tomorrow, take another recess on Thursday, and then entertain Detroit, league bosses, in their season final series on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday. The Red Sox in the meantime will be playing two at home against the Athletics, but then will be forced to go on to New York for three games with the Yankees.

Manager Jimmy Dykes is expected to start Babe Phelps and Les Tietje in today's two games, and Rogers Hornsby probably will counter with Eldon Walkup and Russ Van Atta.

The Sox were enabled to come within reaching distance of the Bostonians by reason of halving a double-header with Cleveland on Sunday while the Red Sox were taking a double whipping from the Yankees. Monte Stratton, recalled from the minors, was responsible for the consolation number, taking the second game, 9 to 2, after Sam Jones had succumbed in the opener, 6 to 3.

The Sox hold a seasonal edge over the Browns in the 19 games they have played thus far, having scored 11 victories against St. Louis' 8.

VAUGHAN'S 3 HITS SEND HIS BATTING AVERAGE TO .386

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Arky Vaughan, Big Six leader, had his first big game at the plate in a good many afternoons yesterday when he helped the Pirates rout the Cardinals. He regained three of the points he previously had lost in the batting averages. Arky got three hits in four times up to send his mark to .386.

The standing:

Field Trial Club To Hold Annual Meet Tomorrow

BY BOB BECKER.

Outdoor fans in Chicagoland who would like a short pleasant automobile ride in Chicagoland tomorrow will find it worth while to head their cars toward Addison, Ill., where a number of pointer and setter dogs will be galloping against an autumn landscape. The occasion is the ninth annual field trial of the Chicagoland Field Trial club. The judges for this pointer and setter event are William T. Windsor of Akron, O., and Martin Hogan of Barrington, Ill.

A large entry of some of the best dogs in the middle west will make this trial well worth watching. An added recreational feature of the trial is the fact that it offers city dwellers a chance to enjoy a horseback ride, because spectators may rent saddle horses on the grounds and thus keep up with the wide going bird dogs during the day. The trial will continue through Thursday. The public is invited.

HOLD FUNERAL TOMORROW FOR CHARLES KUHN

Funeral services for Charles S. Kuhn, who was grounds keeper for the Chicago Cubs from the early eighties until after they moved to Wrigley field, will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at St. Edith church. Burial will be in All Saints cemetery.

Mr. Kuhn died Sunday night at his home, 1452 Winona avenue, after an operation. He had been in ill health for a week. He was 77 years old.

Mr. Kuhn was born in Philadelphia and came to Chicago as a child, making his home on the west side. He became grounds keeper for the Cubs when they played at Randolph street and Michigan avenue, while A. G. Spaulding was president. He accompanied the Cubs subsequently to their later ball parks at Congress and Loomis streets, Polk and Lincoln streets, and Wrigley field.

He left during the war to superintend athletic fields at the Great Lakes Naval Training station and then retired.

Golf Teams Play for Title Tomorrow

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

With world series weather being locally imminent, the Chicago District Golf association will hold its own annual interleague classic at the Oak Park Country club tomorrow, when the three champions of the various districts will meet at 36 holes to decide the league champion of the year.

The battle will bring together Elmhurst, champions of the West District league; Lincolnshire, South District winner, and Sunset Ridge, victor in the North Shore league's seasonal play. Competition will be at 36 holes match play on a singles basis, with the three leaders playing together, each against the other two, under C. D. G. A. handicaps.

The North Shore grounds is the present holder of the interleague title, Glen View having won at Oak Park last year in a playoff with Park Ridge. A dinner in the evening will follow the tournament, at which Fred Lietzow, general chairman of the interclub leagues, will preside.

Westgate Valley will honor Tom Walsh, its genial professional, in a special tournament and party all day tomorrow. Walsh, president of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association and secretary of the Illinois P. G. A., is one of the most popular pros in the game. A large prize list has been set up for golfers to shoot at with dinner and entertainment following in the evening.

The Chicago District Golf association will conduct another of its one day handicap tournaments at Bryn Mawr Thursday. Today feminine golfers at Onwentsia will hold their annual invitational event, while the men will stage their annual Pow-wow on Saturday and Sunday.

The Trafic club of Chicago will gather at Olympia Fields today for the final golf outing of the organization for this season. No handicaps will be used, prizes to be awarded on gross scores for the first eighteen holes played. H. J. Scheel, H. A. Peterson, J. B. Davies, and G. M. Shafer will tee off at 9 a. m. and 1 p. m., to decide the individual club championship.

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Syracuse won the first International league playoff series and the governors cup by defeating the pennant winning Montreal Royals, 2 to 1, today.

TOP WEIGHT FOR ST. BERNARD IN OWNERS' STAKE

Hawthorne Handicap Winner Gets 119 Pounds.

Dale Shaffer's 3 year old St. Bernard, the $5,000 Hawthorne handicap winner, is being asked to give away plenty of weight to the field which will go to the post at Hawthorne Saturday for the sixth running of the $5,000 added Illinois Handicap at a mile and a sixteenth. St. Bernard was assigned 119 pounds, which is scale weight for 3 year olds in September, in the list of imposts announced late yesterday by racing Secretary Will Shelley.

The package makes him top weight of the probable starters. Calumet farm's 4 year old Hadagal was given 126 pounds, but the horse has not raced in a year, and reports from the farm in Kentucky are that he will not be ready for the Illinois handicap. Next in order to St. Bernard is C. A. Peck's West Main, with 115 pounds. Top Dog was handed 109 pounds and Prince Torch 108. The Illinois handicap is Chicago's unique race, in that only horses owned by bona fide Illinois residents are eligible.

Jocky Jimmy King showed great skill yesterday when he won on the 13 to 1 shot, Little Doggie, in the sixth race. Earlier in the afternoon he had piloted Midnight Flyer to victory in the second race. King is in top form and many of the Hawthorne regulars believe he will wind up the season the leading rider.

Jocky Joe Bollero drew a five day suspension for rough riding on the 3 year old Marv in the Northbrook purse. Jocky D. Brammer suffered an injury to his leg while aboard Miss Ritz in the second race and wasn't able to ride again during the afternoon.

ETERNAL FLASH, much the best and raced wide early, was taken to inside on the turn, came out after failing to get through entering stretch and, after wearing down the Blue Maiden, came away handily. MODESTO, also raced wide early and showing good speed from the start, saved ground the final mile, tired and had just fairly well. SHADY GIRL lost ground and finished with determination in a good effort.

NEW DEAL PLAN SEEN AS DEATH OF U. S. ORDER

Publisher Assails Attacks on Business.

The New Deal government yesterday was warned that destruction of the existing economic order lurks in governmental policies of industrial regulation which tend to weaken and destroy all incentives for private initiative. Speaking before the American Mining congress in convention at the Palmer house, Col. Willard T. Chevalier, vice president of the McGraw-Hill Publishing company, termed such policies "not the proper responsibilities of a government."

"There is a complete lack of incentive under governmental control," he said. "They speak of controling industry by controling profits. Why not control losses as well? Our present system is erroneously referred to as the profit system. It is not. It is a profit and loss system."

Scoffs at U. S. Attitude.

Chevalier scoffed at the governmental attitude that business and industry is trying to grind down the workers. All industrialists, he said, are willing and eager to deal collectively with labor, but only when they are assured that the men on the other side of the table are responsible.

"Too much of the labor legislation to date," he said, "is of the heads I win, tails you lose variety. Industrialists have been suspicious that the intention is less to evolve fair agreements, fairly enforced, than it is to put them on the spot and keep them there, putting them at the mercy of labor racketeers."

If the nation is to recover from the depression, he said, the government should observe several "don'ts" from business and industrial leaders. He indirectly charged the government with doing the things he warned against.

Asks Suspension of Trust Laws.

Suspension of the anti-trust laws as they affect the mining industry was urged by Dr. C. K. Leith, vice chairman of President Roosevelt's planning commmittee for mineral policy, as the first step in a national mineral conservation program. Without such a move, Dr. Leith said, the coöperative effort needed to conserve America's mineral resources will be impossible.

Suspension of the anti-trust laws should be accompanied by government supervision to prevent the industry from using its privilege "merely for the purpose of extorting extra profits," the mineral expert asserted.

The mining industry is one of the most important in the United States, employing more men and involving more money than many that are attracting the attention of the government, John Wellington Finch, director of the U. S. bureau of mines, told the delegates. The present age, he said, is that of "mineral utilization."

Wants Managed Currency.

When the average price of fifty or sixty commodities falls materially on the world market, it is not that the value of the commodities are less, but that the value of gold is rising and this, declared Frank E. Gannett, er, was what happened in 1929. It was the rising price of gold that but a world depression, he said.

Gannett advocated a managed currency, with the price of gold being reset when at any time over fifty commodity prices rise or fall more than 5 per cent.

Among the subjects to be discussed at this morning's sessions are the problems of stabilization, the world silver situation, and a study of the machine as a servant of civilization. Among the prominent speakers will be A. G. McGregor, British engineer from London, who will speak on "The Correct Economy for the Machine Age."

Gold Flood Approaches Record Total

New York, Sept. 23.—[Special.]—With all Europe reaching a new low level of gloom and apprehension as reports of league committee rejection of Italy's counter proposals spread through the financial districts, flight of capital to the United States today threatened to assume record proportions. Nevertheless, a rise in the French franc was regarded as a possible check on gold engagements.

Approximately $25,070,000 in gold arrived in New York this morning from France, London, and Holland, bringing total transfers since Sept. 9 to the rarely paralleled level of $180,000,000.

Renewed pressure hit foreign exchange markets despite the steadying influence of gold shipments, dragging sterling down in early dealing ¾ cent to $4.91, and the guilder below the gold shipping level to 6.55 cents, off 13 points. The pound later rallied to close at $4.91¾, unchanged, and the guilder to 67.58 cents, off 10.

Sterling Hard Hit Early.

Sterling met the brunt of early continental and New York selling. Reported intervention from the British stabilization fund appeared later to appease the rapidly growing nervousness.

French francs sagged to 6.58⅜c, off ⅛ over the week-end, before reputed support pulled it back to close at 6.59⅜ cents, up ⅝ point. The dollar was worth $1.0060 against francs, compared with $1.0070 Saturday.

European centers seem convinced that until the Italo-Ethiopian dispute is settled, America is the only safe haven for capital. Dangers of British involvement in any Mediterranean crisis automatically exclude the islands from the financial roll call of neutral nations.

Shipments By Countries.

The gold engaged in Europe included $6,900,000 taken in England, $3,100,000 in France and $900,0000 in Holland. The gold engaged in France since Sept. 9 has amounted to $58,800,000, that taken in England to $46,100,000 and that in Holland to $42,700,000.

The arrivals of gold included $1,447,500 from France which arrived late on Saturday, while $12,751,800 from Holland, $9,092,700 from France, and $1,779,000 from England came in today. The gold included numerous small lots consigned to a large number of local banks. Among the shipments were $4,699,900 from Holland and $959,200 from England directed to the Guaranty Trust company.

COUNTY FINANCE GROUP TO MEET ON FUNDING PLAN

A special meeting of the county finance committee was called yesterday for Thursday morning to consider the county's $48,000,000 bond refunding program. Two sealed plans have been submitted by two loop brokerage firms which will not be opened until the meeting Thursday. A group of Chicago banks is expected to submit a third proposal and President Clayton F. Smith said yesterday he was working on a program of his own.

Smith said he may place the plans before the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The federal government holds $13,475,000 of county bonds which would be involved in the refunding program.

Modern Woodmen Trade Chicago Hotels for Farms

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—George Hatzenbuhler of Bloomington, national director of the Modern Woodmen of America, reported here today that the Woodmen have traded to the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company, the Ingleside Court and Drexel Park hotels in Chicago for 27 farms, with a total acreage of 67,000 in Pike, Adams and Brown counties. About $375,000 was involved in the deal.

TRADE FAILURES DROP TO LOWEST LEVEL THIS YEAR

New York, Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Business failures in the United States for the week ended last Thursday touched a new low for the year. The total, according to Dun & Bradstreet, was 134, against 190 and 203, respectively, for the two preceding weeks. A year ago, the number was 182.

Defaults dropped 10 in the east, there was a decline of four in the Pacific coast section, an increase of three in the south, and in the west the number remained unchanged at 42. Insolvencies, with liabilities of $5,000 and more, numbered 98, compared with 111 in the preceding week and 115 in the corresponding week of 1934. Failures in Canada remained unchanged at 33, an increase of three over the corresponding week last year.

CANADA SUBSIDIZES EXPORT BUTTER SALES AS ELECTION NEARS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 23.—Another political handout by the federal government regarded as an effort to bring about its reëlection next month, was disclosed today. The dominion government has undertaken to sponsor an export movement of butter from Canada to the United Kingdom and will pay the farmer or exporter for any loss that may be incurred in the transactions.

Montreal butter prices have been around 23 cents a pound. The English market for the same quality of butter is about 24 cents. Transportation and other charges are two to three cents a pound. Montreal exporters today did their best export business of the year in butter, large quantities being sold for immediate shipment to England.

The action of the federal authorities follows similar steps taken some weeks ago with respect to cheese. One million dollars was voted to aid cheese exports to the United Kingdom. With the subsidy given by this government expenditure shipments have increased substantially and today Montreal cheese prices were at the highest levels in five years, slightly over 13 cents per pound.

Other branches of trade, noting the easy money going out, are putting in their applications. At the annual meeting here today of the Canadian Fisheries associations, plans were formulated to apply for a grant of $100,000 from the federal government to aid the fishing industry.

PLATINUM PRICES RISE SHARPLY; ON PAR WITH GOLD

New York, Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Platinum prices have advanced in recent weeks to the highest level this year, falling in line with rising tendencies of the precious metals group. At the latest price of $34.50 bid, $36 asked, an ounce, platinum compares with gold at $35 an ounce.

Improvement in the jewelry business is held responsible in a measure for the rise, although observers of precious metals markets attribute the rising trend to increased munitions manufacturing. Platinum is used in some of the delicate mechanism in big guns, as well as in chemical production.

Edison Rate Reduction Hearing Delayed to Sept. 26

Liberty Bond Holders Slow to Make Swap

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—Admitting that the treasury's 1 billion 250 million dollar conversion operation "is ragging," Acting Treasury Secretary Thomas J. Coolidge announced tonight that only 796 million dollars of called fourth liberty loan bonds had been refunded thus far.

Coolidge's statement revealed that only 37 million dollars of the called bonds had been exchanged for new securities during the last week. Already hampered by a falling government bond market, the conversion was seriously jeopardized when the new 2¾ per cent bonds of 1945-'47 closed below par today. These are the bonds offered in exchange for the called liberties.

"Small Week," Coolidge Admits.

"It was a small week," Coolidge conceded. "It is dragging, but it always drags until closing is announced. It is about what I would have guessed it would be."

The acting secretary pins his hopes for a "normal" conversion on the expectation that an announcement closing the subscription books will bring in several million more of the called bonds. To be normal by the treasury's own standards, the conversion must total 1 billion dollars of the 1 billion 250 million dollars' worth of called bonds. The treasury is now 204 million dollars short of this goal.

Exchange for Bonds Slow.

During the last week 36 million dollars of called bonds were exchanged for new 2¾ per cent bonds, bringing the total conversions into new bonds up to 367 million dollars. Although subscription books for converting called bonds into 1½ per cent certificates of March, 1939, closed Sept. 14, another million dollars of such exchanges were reported last week as tardy transactions were cleaned up. Total conversions into notes now amount to 429 million dollars.

Coolidge also announced subscriptions totaling $114,836,000 for a new issue of $50,000,000 treasury 273 day discount bills. A total of $50,040,000 was accepted. The average price was 99.827, equivalent to a rate of about .228 per cent on a bank discount basis.

Farm Loans Held by Banks Over Billion at End of Year

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—(AP)—The department of agriculture reported today that agricultural loans held by commercial banks Dec. 31, 1934, totaled $1,306,455,000.

36 BANKS WITHDRAW FROM FDIC; CONTROL $25,000,000 DEPOSITS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—[Special.] — Thirty-six non-member state banks with deposit liability of $250,000,000 have thus far given notice of their intention to withdraw from the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, the FDIC announced today.

It was believed possible that some withdrawals may still be in the mail, the deadline for withdrawals having passed on Saturday night. The Banking act of 1935 gave these institutions the privilege of withdrawal within 30 days of enactment of the measure.

NO WITHDRAWALS HERE.

The local office of the FDIC said that no Chicago district banks are expected to be included in the list of those withdrawing from the FDIC. Two or three small institutions in Iowa and Illinois may be on the list, it was said.

EXPECT FEDERAL DEFICIT BELOW EARLY ESTIMATE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—(AP)—A smaller than estimated federal deficit was forecast by a treasury spokesman tonight as the government's financial budget was completed for submission to President Roosevelt. The chief executive last January predicted a deficit of above four and a half billion dollars for the 1936 fiscal year.

The new fiscal statement for the twelve months ending June 30, 1936 was prepared by the budget bureau at the President's direction. It embraced a new forecast of revenues based upon the business outlook and the recently enacted tax law, and set them against appropriations voted by the last congress.

Details were guarded carefully pending presidential approval. But with income and other internal revenue collections running 18 to 29 per cent larger than a year ago, some officials concluded that notwithstanding big appropriations, the deficit probably would look smaller than it did in January when the last estimates were made.

Steel Output Estimated at 48.9 Pct. This Week

New York, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The American Iron and Steel institute estimated that steel production for the current week would show an increase of six-tenths of 1 point, to 48.9 per cent of capacity. Last week's schedule was 48.3 per cent. A month ago operations averaged 47.9 per cent, while a year ago the rate was 24.2 per cent.

STOCKS STAGE MODEST RISE, BUT TRADE SAGS

Gains Range as High as Two Points.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 23.—Stock market sentiment improved considerably today, resulting in a forward movement in prices in nearly all sections of the list. Gains ranged from major fractions to more than two points.

Despite the advance in prices the market was dull as traders awaited classification of the Italo-Ethiopian embroglio. Volume of trading was the smallest since Sept. 4, with turnover amounting to 1,014,240 shares.

The opinion prevailed in Wall street that too much anxiety had been wasted last week over the European situation, week-end developments encouraging those who had held their positions during the selling wave of last week.

Strike Talk Colors News.

On the domestic side week-end news was colored by the bituminous coal strike agitation, accompanied by reported walkouts at some of the unionized mines. Financial observers pointed out the security markets seldom become much excited in the early stages of a strike and no great attention was paid to the matter, except as it may be a reminder that the country may come in for a great deal of industrial unrest in the next few years.

On the other side there was the forecast of the American Iron and Steel institute that the operating rate of the steel industry will rise slightly.

Farm implement shares, steels, and building stocks were leaders in the revival of constructive operations. Case at one time was up more than 3 points, and while this gain was shaded in later dealing the closing gong found it over a point higher. Deere also added a point, while International Harvester gained a large fraction.

Steel Shares Advance.

United States Steel opened a point higher and before the session finished added a fraction. Alleghany Steel gained a point, while Bethlehem and Republic advanced fractionally.

Chrysler was a strong spot in the automotive division, moving up more than 2 points. Mack and General Motors gained fractions. Strength in the division was reflected in the accessory section, where Briggs closed 2 points over its previous figure, and Autolite gained a major fraction.

Some of the rails picked up. Great Northern and Delaware and Hudson rose fractions. Illinois Central, Baltimore and Ohio, and West Maryland, some of the roads that would feel most keenly the loss of soft coal trafic, made small advances.

In the utility section, American Telephone and Peoples Gas each closed a point higher. Consolidated Gas, North American, and United Gas improved fractionally.

R-K-O set the pace for the amusement shares, crossing 5 at one time to reach its best price in two years and showing the largest turnover in the list.

Two High Officials Quit Posts with Vanadium Corp.

NEW SEC HEAD

James M. Landis, radical member of the New Deal brain trust, yesterday was selected head of the Securities and Exchange commission to succeed Joseph P. Kennedy.

SEC Policy Under Landis Now Awaited

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Whether the selection of Prof. James M. Landis as head of the Securities and Exchange commission will affect the movement of stock and bond prices and the flow of corporate financing business men do not yet know. It will know only when Landis discloses his policies.

If, as some financial men say, Landis has benefited by his association with Joseph P. Kennedy, the retiring head of the SEC, and has permitted his crusading impulses to be tempered by practical experience during the last year, the SEC under his leadership may not greatly change its present course.

If, on the other hand, Landis is still imbued with the academic "reform" impulse, which was apparent when he first joined the Roosevelt brain trust, the delicate intricacies inherent in the financing of corporations and the business of trading in stocks and bonds could easily become upset.

More is involved than the mere ups and downs in the stock market and the fears and hopes of traders from day to day. The man who bosses the SEC bosses practically the whole field of corporate finance. Under Kennedy the SEC viewed the reopening of the capital market as just an important a job as the scotching of fraud and other "reform" moves.

As passed by congress the securities act of 1933, which covered the bond business, was unworkable. Under Kennedy's leadership it was made workable by a series of amendments and administrative orders. At the time of his resignation Kennedy was working on still other steps to facilitate the offering and sale of bonds.

Under less skilful management the SEC could quickly undo this progress. For that reason corporations and investment bankers, as well as stock brokers, are anxiously awaiting a demonstration of Landis' lean-

LANDIS NAMED SEC HEAD; TAKES KENNEDY'S POST

Change Viewed with Mixed Opinions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—James M. Landis, member of the original brain trust and protégé of the radical Prof. Felix Frankfurter of Harvard, today succeeded Joseph P. Kennedy as chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission.

Although Kennedy, who made the announcement, gave Landis his blessing, calling him a "damned good man," the accession of the brain truster will mark a tightening of federal control over security issues and trading. Landis is a practical reformer whereas Kennedy was a practical administrator.

Radicals Glad of Change.

In addition it was learned that Ben Cohen and Thomas Corcoran, radical colleagues of Landis, are now turning their attention to a reorganization of the SEC. Cohen and Corcoran, authors of the drastic holding company death sentence and co-authors with Landis of the securities control laws, are bent on initiating a program of rigid stock market policing punctuated with frequent investigations and "crack downs." Heretofore, Kennedy has held them back and they regard his leaving with frank pleasure.

Meanwhile speculation turned on the identity of the new SEC member whom President Roosevelt will appoint in Kennedy's place. Reports that the President will appoint a utility executive, either Henry I. Harriman or Wendell L. Willkie, persisted. This would give the utilities a voice on the commission which is to administer the holding company law.

Denies Policy Changes Planned.

Landis' term as chairman will run until July 1, 1936, being the unexpired portion of the chairmanship to which Kennedy was elected last July. Disclaiming any plans for changing the SEC policy, Landis declared today that the big jobs ahead of the SEC were administration of the new utility holding company law and cleaning up of regulations under the two securities laws.

The SEC "doesn't have anything to gain" by attempting to delay a Supreme court test of the new utility law, says Landis.

OPINIONS VARY.

Elevation of James McCauley Landis to the chairmanship of the Securities and Exchange commission was received in La Salle street yesterday with mingled opinions.

Some interests said his appointment is one which should prove entirely satisfactory to the financial community. Others insisted that Landis still belongs to the radical school of thought.

Michael J. O'Brien, president of the Chicago Stock exchange, said: "A very good appointment. Landis has changed a great deal in the last year and a half. He came into office with a lot of theories, but contact with actualities has shown him to be big enough and broad enough to give a hearing to those of other viewpoints. His mind is not closed to any sound reasoning."

In New York, Charles R. Gay, president of the New York Stock Exchange said:

"I am very much pleased to learn of the election of Landis as chairman. He has been most helpful to the exchange in its own difficult task of adjusting itself to the requirements of the new legislation."

U. S. FINANCING SWELLS BANKS' BOND HOLDINGS

Result of Overlapping in Conversion Offer.

Sharp increases in holdings of government bonds by member banks of the federal reserve system were revealed in weekly banking statistics yesterday. The portfolio of government paper was swelled 375 million dollars in the week ended Sept. 18, although this figure probably does not represent the ultimate investment, because of overlapping provisions of the treasury's recent conversion offer.

The new bonds were dated Sept. 16, while the Fourth Libertys, which they replace, are not called until Oct. 15, necessitating the banks' holding blocs of both types for the thirty day period. *

Government Deposits Increase.

At the same time government deposits with the banks rose 137 millions for the period, which was thought to represent payments on income taxes. Gross deposits gained 193 millions, but individual accounts fell 6 millions.

The banks advanced 43 millions to industry, 5 millions in the form of commercial acceptances, 3 millions in real estate loans, and 35 millions in business loans. Collateralized advances dropped 38 millions, practically all of which was in brokers' loans.

Changes in other than government securities increased 29 millions. Changes elsewhere were unimportant.

CHICAGO STOCKS ARE FIRMER; FOUR MAKE NEW HIGHS

Chicago stocks were firmer yesterday, although late selling took the edge off of some of the earlier gains. Trading was dull, only 34,000 shares of 89 issues changing hands. Thirty-nine issues made advances, four of them to new highs for the year. Only 20 lost ground, and 30 closed unchanged.

Abbott Laboratories, Independent Pneumatic Tool, National Gypsum, and Standard Dredge preferred accounted for the new tops, all moving up about a point. Standard Dredge led the dredge shares, all of which were strong and in good demand. National Gypsum was up nearly a point in an unusually heavy turnover. Chicago Corporation common slipped an eighth as the issue accounted for a seventh of the day's entire trade.

The motor group was up, Borg-Warner gaining a full point. Houdaille B was the second most popular issue, with a 3,750 share turnover. Steels were strong, with Keystone and Continental up about a point. Packers were in fairly good demand, with Swift International advancing a point. Utilities were generally steady. Central Illinois Public Service dipped, but Kentucky Utilities junior preferred was up a point.

REPUBLIC STEEL MERGER VOTED BY STOCKHOLDERS

Rush 300 Million Dollar Deal to Completion.

New York, Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Virtual completion of the formal steps necessary to bring a new 300 million dollar steel corporation into existence was effected today when stockholders of Republic Steel corporation approved the acquisition of control of Truscon Steel company and the assets of Corrigan, McKinney Steel company.

T. M. GIRDLER.

Votes representing substantially more than the required two-thirds of both the preferred and the common stocks were cast in favor of the plan, it was announced at conclusion of the meeting in Jersey City by T. M. Girdler, chairman of Republic company.

Stockholders of the Corrigan, McKinney Steel company, meeting in Cleveland, O., also approved the merger. Donald B. Gillies, president of Corrigan-McKinney, said a large majority of the stockholders favored the deal.

Will Complete Merger Promptly.

T. M. Girdler, chairman of Republic Steel, said after the Jersey City meeting the merger would be completed promptly, just as soon as execution and delivery of required papers and securities could be accomplished.

One discordant note was struck at the meeting when William Rabinowitz, a Republic stockholder, said preferred stockholders had not been given full consideration. He said Corrigan-McKinney's recent losses had been larger, in percentage to net worth, than those of Republic Steel. Girdler parried this objection with the remark that Corrigan-McKinney is earning money now.

"The steel business looks much better," Girdler asserted. "Results this year are considerably improved over any time since 1929 and prospects for 1936 look very good."

Steel Chiefs Are Optimistic.

Most of the executives of large steel companies are fairly optimistic in views for the next two years, the first time since 1929 that such a feeling has existed.

"This year Republic is doing much better than some of the other big units, including United States Steel and Bethlehem," said Mr. Girdler.

He said Republic Steel operated at 64 per cent of ingot capacity in January, 58 per cent in February, 50 per cent in both March and April, 48 per cent in May, 41 per cent in June, and 50 per cent in July.

Steel men regard the merger as one promoted by logic. Republic's finished steel capacity is greater than its primary producing capacity; Corrigan-McKinney's situation is just the reverse. Truscon is especially strong in distribution.

START CAMPAIGN TO BOOST USE OF OIL FOR HEATING

Oil interests in the Chicago area, in cooperation with the Burning Oil Distributors association, yesterday announced an educational campaign to inform local home owners more fully on the economy and convenience of their products.

Major oil companies are represented on the committee appointed to act for the industry at large in the direction of this campaign. Independent distributors are represented by F. E. Spencer, chairman of the committee and president of the Burning Oil Distributors' association.

The announcement was made in conjunction with the launching of an advertising campaign in Chicago and suburbs. Headquarters have been established in the Petroleum building, 616 South Michigan avenue.

Two New Offerings of Stock to Stimulate Chicago Market

Public offering of 50,000 shares of no par common stock of the Economical-Cuningham Drug Stores, Inc., yesterday through Paul H. Davis & Co. and Francis Brothers & Co. of St. Louis marked one of the first important common stock issues to originate in the La Salle street district in several years. The stock is priced at $16.50 a share.

The drug concern is a Michigan corporation owning and operating 75 drug stores in Michigan, Ohio, and Pennsylvania. Sixty-two of the stores are in Detroit. Sixty-four are known as popular priced and eleven as quality stores. Outstanding capitalization of the company consists of 190,917 common shares, 1,112 class B $100 par noncumulative 6 per cent stock, and 4,055 class A prior preference cumulative $100 par 6 per cent stock.

Preferred Stock to Be Offered.

An offering of 50,000 shares of United-Carr Fastener corporation cumulative convertible preferred stock will be made shortly by the Central Republic company and Hornblower & Weeks. The stock will be priced at $20 a share and may be converted at any time into common stock on a share for share basis. It is redeemable at $23 to $21 a share over a period of years. Proceeds of the issue will be used to reduce bank loans of $1,200,000, which were obtained to retire the company's 6 per cent debentures due in 1939.

The company manufacturers and distributes small metal fasteners used in automobile bodies and parts, and for luggage, footwear, gloves, and other clothing. It also makes radio terminals, sockets, and specialties of metal, bakelite, and lether.

Telephone "Rights" Exercised.

The General Telephone corporation has been advised by the Bankers Trust company that approximately 73,500, or about 75 per cent, of the 97,371 rights issued to purchase shares in the reorganized corporation have been exercised. At a result, there are now outstanding approximately 73,500 shares of $3 cumulative preferred stock and 73,500 additional shares of common, and the new company has increased its cash position by approximately $3,675,000.

Under the plan of reorganization of Associated Telephone Utilities company consummated July 17 last, preferred stockholders were given 60-day rights to purchase units consisting of one share of $3 convertible preferred stock and one share of common of General Telephone corporation at $50 a unit. The rights expired and became void Sept. 29.

Long Gave Wallace Chance to Dodge Potato Tax.

Huey Long's last filibuster, which prevented congress from appropriating funds to pay for the Agricultural Adjustment administration's attempt to include potatoes in its crop regulation program, was a windfall for Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace. Lacking funds for enforcement, Wallace has an excellent alibi for junking the potato control scheme. He has called a conference for Oct. 3 to talk about substitute plans.

It has been well known in Washington that Wallace looked upon the potato program with disfavor, not because it differs much from the wheat and corn-hog reduction schemes but probably because its workings would be so apparent that even a school child could see the folly of "planned" agriculture of the Wallace type.

In the wheat reduction program, under which the government pays farmers for not raising wheat and gets the money by taxing the consumer, the blame for high prices to the consumer is hidden in a maze of figures.

Donald D. Davis, president of General Mills, says that the processing tax on wheat is equivalent to a "retail sales tax of from 14 to 20 per cent on all flour and most bread," but the ordinary bread eater cannot follow the tax from wheat to flour to bread.

Neither can the purchaser of a brace of pork chops see at a glance just how many cents he is paying for the processing tax to subsidize the farmer for not raising hogs. A hog becomes bacon, ham, knuckles, and lard, as well as pork chops, and the exact proportion of the tax of $2.25 per hundred pounds borne by each pork chop is not easy to discover.

But a spud is a spud. It comes out of the ground in the same form that it is sold to the housewife by the retailer and a tax of 45 cents per bushel would be there in all its baldness for the purchaser to see. Not even a red herring quiz into the middlemen's profits by a political commission would hide the fact that the consumer was paying the tax.

COURT APPROVES LAUNDRY FIRM'S REORGANIZATION

Federal Judge William H. Holly yesterday approved the reorganization of the Great Western Laundry company, 2125 West Madison street, under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy law.

According to Attorney Michael Gesas, counsel for the petitioning creditors, the new plan provides for the issuance of $434,400 in 15 year six per cent bonds to replace a similar amount of bonds in the old company.

A new note is to be issued to the American Laundry company to satisfy a judgment of $53,135. Capital stock of the company is to be decreased from 8,688 to 4,344 shares.

WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 23.—Trade in the Boston wool market during the last few days was quieter than the first half of last week and during the early part of September. Scattered sales were mostly of moderate volume and comprised the finer grades of territory wools and medium grades of both fleece and territory lines. Prices on all good wools were firm. Inferior short combing 64s and finer territory wools in original bags were sold at prices slightly below the peak on the recent movement.

U. S. WOOL INDUSTRY REACHES HIGH STAGE IN TRADE RECOVERY

New York, Sept. 23.—(AP)—America's wool industry, caught for years in the world collapse of values, has reached a high stage of recovery. Other branches of the important textile industry also have made moderate advances in recent months, trade reports show, but wool appears to be leading the parade.

Consumption of wool has increased to the highest point in 17 years. Production schedules of woolen and worsted mills are reported maintained at active rates. As is usual with heavy consumption demands, prices have gone steadily higher until they are around the best levels of this year.

One of the most important contributing factors in the situation, trade authorities reports, is the advent of cooler weather, which has turned the thoughts of the consumer to fall and winter clothing.

The rate of cotton mill activity has been rising for several weeks, although not so rapidly as wool in most cases, but the outlook for the remainder of the year appears to officials to be more settled than before federal authorities announced the loan benefit policy to cotton producers.

TWO RAILROADS REPORT GAIN IN AUGUST INCOME

The Illinois Central and the Southern Pacific railroads yesterday reported increased gains in net operating income during August over July, but declines from a year ago. A drop was also shown in the first eight months of the year, compared with 1934.

Net operating income of the Illinois Central was $527,337 in August, compared with $186,670 in July and $1,156,063 a year ago. Operating net for the eight months was $5,865,402, or $2,611,757 below 1934. Southern Pacific's operating income last month amounted to $1,784,837, against $1,433,199 in July and $1,841,805 in August of last year. For the eight months the total was $10,121,627, compared with $10,134,733 in the corresponding period of 1934.

Freight trafic last week showed further gains over last year, and in some cases over the record high of the preceding week, according to reports made yesterday. Following are totals with comparative figures:

FOREIGN BOND OWNERS OPPOSE MILWAUKEE PLAN

Two foreign corporations yesterday sought to intervene in reorganization proceedings of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad company which are pending before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson under section 77 of the bankruptcy law. The court took the petitions under advisement after hearing arguments.

Judge Wilkerson is scheduled to appoint trustees for the road this morning, pending completion of the reorganization. This was made necessary by recent amendments passed by congress, under which the road's management may not continue in charge during proceedings.

The two foreign companies, each holding $100,000 of the $7,000,000 first mortgage bonds of the Milwaukee and Northern railroad company, a part of the system, refused to consent to a five year extension.

LARD IGNORES HOG TRADE; PRICES DIP 15 TO 25 CENTS

Selling of lard futures by scattered longs, said to have been induced by the weakness in corn and less warlike talk abroad, disclosed a lack of aggressive support yesterday, and the close was at net losses of 15 to 25 cents. Little attention was paid to the sharp advance in hogs. Clear bellies [salt pork] closed 7½ cents lower.

Cash and loose lard was quoted at $16.25, leaf, $16.75, and bellies at $18.50 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds follow:

CHICAGO PRODUCE MART MANAGER RAPS U.S. CONTROL

New York, Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Federal regulation of commodity exchanges was opposed and the commodity bill introduced in the last congress particularly were attacked today by Lloyd S. Tenny, business manager of the Chicago Mercantile exchange, speaking at the convention here of the National Poultry, Butter and Egg association.

Government regulation of commodity exchanges is likely to bring about a condition of divided responsibility that would make enforcement of rules more difficult than now, Tenny declared.

Discussing various amendments to the grain futures act which were proposed in the last session of congress, the speaker viewed the extension of the grain act to affect cotton and other commodities as especially pernicious. If the amendment to exclude cotton merchants from the Cotton Futures Clearing association were extended to the butter and egg exchanges it would prove ruinous, he said.

EGGS STEADY TO HIGHER; BUTTER ADVANCES ¾ CENT

Short covering was largely responsible for a rally in egg futures yesterday, following an early decline on bearish statistics. Closing trades were unchanged to ⅛ cent higher with October at 25¼ cents per dozen. The ten leading cities took out 33,000 less cases of eggs from cold storage last week than during the corresponding period in 1934. Yesterday's receipts at the four leading markets were 40 per cent in excess of last year.

Butter futures advanced ¼ cent on the Chicago Mercantile exchange, with November closing at 25¾ cents per pound. The AAA bought four cars of spot butter. Sales of butter were 16 cars, and eggs 97 cars. Prices follow:

TRANSIT LEADERS TOLD TO REPLACE OLD EQUIPMENT

470 Million Outlay Declared Needed.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Unless the transit industry takes immediate steps to replace its outmoded equipment it will find within the next few years that 75 per cent of its rolling stock is obsolete, Malcolm Muir, president of the McGraw-Hill Publishing Company, Inc., said in the opening session of the fifty-fourth annual convention of the American Transit association here today.

"An investment by the industry of at least $470,000,000 within the next five years will be necessary," Muir said, "if the industry wishes to avoid having on its hands 47,000 street cars and buses, out of a total of 62,000, that will have passed the age limit of economic usefulness within that period.

Much of Equipment Old.

"There are in existence in the United States at the present time 45,000 street cars, of which 22,000 are known to be twenty or more years old. In addition there are another 15,000 cars fifteen to twenty years old, and there are 17,500 motor buses in urban service of which 10,000 are now five or more years old.

Muir said that rates for the transit industry have been so closely regulated by public authority during periods of prosperity and expansion that transit companies have been prevented from setting aside adequate reserves for meeting replacement needs.

"Our national philosophy of rate regulation, even today," he said, "fails to recognize the growing importance of the style obsolescence factor in our basic transportation industries. Physical depreciation alone continues to be the predominating consideration in the adjudication of rate questions."

ASSAILS U. S. INTERFERENCE.

Protection of invested capital, encouragement of individual initiative and private business and guarding of the public interest are the three goals of the Transportation Association of America, T. T. Hardrader of New York, chairman of the board, said here yesterday. Hardrader is in Chicago for the meeting of the association tomorrow.

"We don't want government ownership and management of railroads, airways, highways, pipe lines, or any of the other kinds of industry," he said. "We want to encourage individual initiative and private capital. Our association has taken a strong stand that the public interest must be guarded."

PRICE OF SUGAR HIGHEST IN TWO YEARS AT 3.55 CTS.

New York, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Spot sugar was more active today and prices advanced 5 points to the basis of 3.55 cents per pound, the highest price in two years. There was a good inquiry at this level with nothing available below 3.60 cents.

Sales during the day included 10,000 bags of Philippines at 3.50 cents and 136,900 bags of Cubas from store and 18,000 bags of Philippines for September-October shipment at 3.55 cents.

Reflecting the upturn in spots, futures were firm. The spot month advanced 7 points due to evening up before trading in that delivery ceased. Final prices were unchanged to 1 point net higher. Sales were 14,000 tons.

BUILDING IDLE IN SPITE OF FHA, SAYS L. E. MEYERS

Despite the gigantic federal housing program, the building industry is still stagnant, L. E. Meyers, president of National Electric Contractors association, said at the first session of the three day convention of the association at the La Salle hotel yesterday.

"While it is predicted we are about to return to a more aggressive program in building, architects and engineers have not had the building demand that would lead us to believe that "prosperity is just around the corner," he said.

The convention is the first to be held by the group since 1931. More than 350 of the country's most important electrical contractors are attending.

American Water Works Electric Output Rises

American Water Works and Electric company electric subsidiaries recently reported power output of 171,422,179 kilowatt hours during August for a 22 per cent gain over the 140,237,921 kilowatt hours in the corresponding period of last year. For the first eight months of the year the total was 1,331,849,929 kilowatt hours, an advance of 13 per cent over the 1,180,206,612 in the same period of 1934.

Packard Plans Year's Output of 79,000 Cars

Gilman, vice president and general manager. New machinery has been installed which will greatly increase manufacturing facilities, he said.

Urges Every Man to Fight Delusions of New Dealers

Boston, Mass., Sept. 23.—(AP)—A call for the man on the street to recover his speech "stilled so long by shock and bewilderment" was issued here today by C. M. Chester, president of General Foods corporation.

C. M. CHESTER.

Chester condemned the New Deal before executives of leading business firms in United States meeting here for the two day session of the Boston conference on distribution.

"Delusions we have suffered aplenty since March of 1933," he said. "The promises of a 'New Deal' deluded us into a false hope of a new and better life for all, with assurances of well-being and happiness for the average man and woman, the worker and his family, and the business man.

"We—the world's traditional flag bearers of the cause of liberty—surrendered many of our rights to the new horde of public jobholders. They were supposed to be our agents in running the essential machinery of government. But they took advantage of our economic distress and our sacrificial and impractical mood by assessing billions in taxes."

Turning to the treatment of business under the New Deal, Chester asserted it "has been forced to endure unbelievably fantastic experimentation—all to make a burocratic holiday. Business is the administration's guinea pig."

DROP RED TAPE ON IMPORTS OF TOBACCO HERE

The import tobacco business in Chicago received a favorable impetus yesterday, the Chicago Association of Commerce announced, when the restriction against appraising imported tobacco in Chicago was eliminated. Heretofore clearances of imported shipments have been held up ten to thirty days while samples received here were sent to New York for appraisal.

"The general public realizes how much imported tobacco enters Chicago," said C. C. Coldren, foreign trade vice president of the association.

"The tendency in the past has been to clear customs at other ports in order to avoid the considerable delay at Chicago, due to the long established practice of requiring the appraiser here to send samples to New York.

"Now that this foolish regulation has been eliminated it is anticipated that practically all of the tobacco imports coming into Chicago will be cleared at the local appraiser's store, thus permitting a more comprehensive utilization of the fine facilities available here."

STOCK OF BANKS AND INSURANCE COMPANIES FALL

New York, Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Market values of stocks of banks and insurance companies in New York declined substantially last week. Bank shares fell sharply but still remained far above their lows for the year.

The aggregate value of 16 leading bank issues fell 6.22 per cent, or $94,502,000, to a total of $1,425,789,000. This compared with a low for the year of $1,226,175,000 on April 30. The current average yield rose from 4.22 to 4.50 per cent.

The decline in insurance shares was less sharp, 1.67 per cent, or $10,522,000, leaving the total market value of 20 leading fire and casualty companies at $618,401,000. This compares with $484,613,000 as the low for the year. The current average yield is 3.27 per cent.

WEEK'S LUMBER OUTPUT RISES TO NEW HIGH MARK

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—(AP)—A new high for lumber production was reported today by the National Lumber Manufacturers' association for the week ended Sept. 14. Orders increased 33 per cent above the corresponding week of 1934 and approximately 18 per cent above the new business of the previous week.

Shipments, however, were reported seven per cent below the preceding week's output while orders were 13 per cent less.

During the week production amounted to 241,956,000 feet, the highest weekly figure for the year; shipments were 225,408,000 feet and orders totaled 211,140,000 feet. Revised figures for the previous week gave production at 220,095,000 feet, shipments 196,440,000 feet and orders 179,209,000 feet.

JEWEL TEA CO. SALES 4.62 PCT. ABOVE LAST YEAR

Jewel Tea Company, Inc., yesterday announced sales for the four weeks ended Sept. 7 increased 4.62 per cent above a year ago, amounting to $1,353,787, compared with $1,294,003 in 1934. The average number of units in operation was 1,582, against 1,528 last year.

For the first 36 weeks of the company's fiscal year sales totaled $12,752,288, compared with $11,514,848 in the corresponding period of last year, a gain of 10.75 per cent. The average number of units in operation during the period was 1,565, against 1,510 in 1934.

Paper Industry Leaders Attend Convention Here

Approximately 150 executives in the paper industry are attending a convention of the National Paper Trade association which begun in the Stevens hotel yesterday. A. H. Chamberlain of New York, secretary of the association, announced the industry has reported a general upturn in business and that the delegates to the convention are optimistic as to prospects for the coming year.

CHICAGO TO HAVE QUIETEST MOVING DAY IN HISTORY

Rent Cuts Are Reported Big Factor.

BY AL CHASE.

Chicago will have the quietest Oct. 1 moving day in its history, realtors and movers said yesterday. Daniel Healy, secretary of the Movers' Association of Chicago, predicted that despite the lower moving rates which now prevail, the customary shift of families from one part of the city to the other will be practically at a standstill. Healy said landlords are meeting tenants' announcements of moving by reducing rents slightly.

Realty men, however, contradicted this statement, asserting that most October leases throughout the city and suburbs on small apartments will be raised slightly, to the level of the May 1 increases. Few if any rent raises are contemplated on the larger apartments, it was said.

Prospects Lightest in History.

"Never in the history of the city has there been so little moving in prospect for Oct. 1," Healy said. "There is a possibility that during the last few days prior to the first of the month business may pick up a bit but it isn't very likely."

Howard Haynie, of Wirtz, Haynie & Ehrat, chairman of the renting and management division of the Chicago Real Estate board, said that there would be no sharp rent boosts in Chicago or suburbs.

"There will be a rather general increase of from $2.50 to $5 on the small, lower priced apartments" he said. "But in the higher priced units there will be no change.

Occupancy Is Higher.

"There will be practically no moving. Occupancy is higher than it has been in several years and families hesitate to move, doubting whether they could better themselves unless at higher prices."

According to Archibald Jennings, of Quinlan & Tyson, Inc., there will be less moving in Evanston than last year or the year before on Oct. 1. He said that there have been many vacant suites rented during the last 10 days but tenants of occupied apartments that are adequate in size are renewing their leases.

HOLC Makes 914,449 Loans Total About 2¾ Billions

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—(AP)—The Home Owners' Loan corporation today announced that up to Sept. 12, it had refunded mortgages on 914,449 urban homes in every state in the union. Total dollar value of the mortgages was $2,761,999,599. A total of 1,885,332 applications were received with a "large proportion of these ineligible under the law." It interpreted a "declining number" of applications as indicating that "the great bulk of all necessitous cases has been taken care of."

New York, Sept. 23.—For long periods today the bond market was nearly lifeless as trading dopped to the lowest levels in three months. Transfers of $7,305,000, par value, were the smallest since June 3, when the turnover was $6,576,000. The closing tone was mixed.

Reflecting improved sentiment on the Italian situation bonds of that nationality enjoyed a smart recovery on a moderate amount of trading. British sterling 4s, which have shown a disposition lately to follow the trend of Italian bonds, also had a sharp rally. In other respects the market for foreign bonds was indifferent.

Treasury List Dormant.

Activity in all treasury bonds was not equal to what the turnover in single issues has been on recent occasions. Prices varied little from the previous closing. With the new 2¾s a shade higher most of the time, Fourth Liberty 4¼s were firm. Final prices were 3-32nds lower to 4-32nds higher.

It is not expected that subscription books on the conversion will remain open for long. In bond circles there has been considerable talk recently about the disposition of some large holders of Fourth 4¼s, not only to ignore the conversion offer, but also to refrain from presenting their bonds for cash on Oct. 15, which is the redemption date.

Still Hope for Gold.

Fourth 4¼s are the last of the war loans, all of which were gold issues. Some investors still cling to the hope that they may have a claim for payment in gold equivalent.

The greatest shrinkage in trading volume was in second grade and speculative issues.

A 2⅞ point rise in Liggett and Myers 5s was about the only worth while movement among the so-called "blue chip" issues which were mostly neglected and when changes did occur they were small.

Eureka Vacuum Cleaner.

Investors Guide: Please give me information in regard to Eureka Vacuum Cleaner.—G. W. C.

Both sales and earnings showed steady increases from the 1931 low point through 1934. Net income in the first half of 1935, however, fell off to $118,000, or 49 cents a share, against $146,000, or 60 cents a share, for the corresponding 1934 period. Fred Wardell, president, pointed out that during the first half of this year the company charged a substantial amount of nonrecurring expenses to earnings. Several branches and a large number of concession departments in dealers' and utility companies' stores were opened.

	Net sales.	Net income.	Income per share.
1934.....	$2,487,000	$ 319,000	$1.32
1933.....	1,538,000	99,000	.40

*Loss.

On Dec. 31, 1934, current assets, including more than a million dollars cash assets, were $1,987,000 and current liabilities were $163,000. Capitalization was represented solely by 240,606 shares of $5 par capital stock on which dividends of 20 cents a quarter are being paid.

The stock is medium grade.

Life Insurance and Liquor.

Investors' Guide: It is reported that one of the leading life insurance companies is rejecting a larger number of young people since pre-repeal days because of the use of alcoholic beverages, the increase being nearly 150 per cent.—J. R. B.

Answer: We checked with two large, well regarded life insurance companies in getting data for an answer to your letter.

Both refuted the report which you send in the same words: "If we declined to take people who drink we would write no insurance."

Both said that they accepted applicants who drink in moderate quantities but, of course, reject the heavy drinkers.

The representative of one of the companies said that he recalled only one case of a young man being rejected. He was a young college student. When they came to pass on his application he was discovered to have been committed to the psychopathic department of a hospital as a habitual drunkard.

HOGS BUOYANT; MONDAY SUPPLY NEAR LOW MARK

Prices Up 15 to 50 Cents; Cattle Decline.

A buoyant market developed for hogs yesterday when receipts fell below expectations. Arrivals at 9,000 were only 700 head above the lowest Monday run on record and less than the limited requirements of the trade. Receipts a year ago were nearly 23,144 head.

Prices rose 15 to 50 cents, with the stock under 170 pounds in weight scoring the sharpest gains. A slight rally in the wholesale markets for pork contributed to the action in hogs, but packers still are selling pork at less than a week ago.

Selected 185 to 236 pound new crop hogs reached the $14.40 top, tax included, and were within 10 cents of the highest price paid here in nine years. The average at $13.40 showed a gain of 25 cents over the close of last week.

Cattle Prices Fall.

Cattle prices fell mostly 25 to 40 cents under pressure of the largest receipts of the year. Better grades of stock selling from $11 to $12 suffered the sharpest declines, with the exception of a few highly finished steers selling at the extreme top of the list. The least weakness was found in steers at $10 and below and in some of the good yearling stock.

At the close of the session a heavy carryover of almost all classes of steers was indicated, including quite a sprinkling of stock worth $10.50 to $11.50. The bulk of the day's sales was made within a range of $9.50 to $12.50, commoner classes ranging downward to $6.25, with some odd lots of ill bred natives and southwestern grassers at $4 to $5. A shipment of prime 1,303 pound steers topped the list at $13.15, while some 1,040 pound yearlings sold at $12.75.

Lambs Make Good Gains.

Lambs sold strong to 35 cents higher yesterday, top natives to city butchers standing highest since Sept. 11. Big packers paid up to $9.75, but obtained the bulk of the sorted natives at $9.50 and below, taking buck lambs at $8.50 and culls at $7 to $7.50. Tops from the 26 carloads of range stock brought $9.15 to $9.75, with the feeder end of the westerns at $9 and under.

Several carloads of western yearling ewes sold for breeding from $6.75 to $7.50, and odd lots of solid mouth stock brought $4.50. Old ewes sold for slaughter at $4 and some yearling wethers brought $8.

FARMERS PAYING SIX YEAR TOP TO BUILD UP HERDS

Widespread Buying Wave in Cattle Under Way.

Farmers' depleted herds of cattle, reduced last year by AAA destruction and the feed famine resulting from the drouth, are now being built up at the highest costs to farmers in six years.

A widespread buying wave is sweeping the country. The call for replacement stock has reached the largest volume in more than six years and the cost to the farmers per hundred pounds for stockers and feeders is the highest since 1929.

Hope that the current level of fat cattle prices might be maintained, and the desire to get animals to utilize some of the bumper crop of rough feeds produced this year are the factors contributing to the buying of replacement stock.

Shipments Largest in Six Years.

During August farmers obtained 245,519 stocker and feeder cattle at the fourteen biggest markets in the country, the largest August shipments back to the country in more than six years.

No comparable figures are available for a year ago because government owned stock sent out to be held on pasture last year were included in the 1934 figures. Two years ago August shipments were only 188,545. Purchases for the first eight months of 1935 at 1,322,154 compare with 1,047,543 two years ago.

Supply of Lambs Small.

Not many feeding lambs are available because of the good feeding conditions on the range this year. Most of the lambs coming from the west are fat. Consequently, it is estimated that more orders for feeding lambs are unfilled than have been filled.

Farmers obtained 294,586 at the fourteen markets in August, against 338,144 a year ago and 310,286 two years ago, when thin stock was more plentiful. In the first eight months of 1935 shipments of feeding and breeding stock from these markets totaled 1,018,598, against 1,140,572 a year ago and 951,932 two years ago.
